Committee Ends Feuding By Brewster And Hughes

Hearing to Return To Straight Inquiry Into $40,000,000 In Plane Contracts

By Mary Spargo
Post Reporter

The spectacular "You're a liar" feud between Senator Owen Brewster (R., Me.) and Howard Hughes, Hollywood's multimillionaire plane producer, came to an abrupt close before the Senate War Investigating Committee last night.

The committee will proceed today with its regular inquiry into Hughes' 40 million dollars in plane contracts with the Government.

Decision to end the feud testimoney canceled out a request to Hugh Fulton, committee counsel, when President Truman was its chairman, to testify today. Hughes created a sensation when he admitted he paid Fulton $10,000 to repreesnt him for a short period on this case, which Fulton once investigated for the Senate.

In the last stormy hours of the strife-ridden session, Hughes also testified that Fulton has disclosed to him confidential committee information about a case involving Pan American air bases in South America, which had been kept confidential at the request of the State and War Departments.

After an all-day hearing, Hughes said he was tired and unable to continue his attack on Brewster for what Hughes has charged was a "blackmail" attempt to get him to merge TWA with Pan American by threat of a committee investigation.

"Matter Is Closed"

Hughes charged in a heated discussion that so long as he couldn't personally cross-examine Brewster he "might as well drop the matter," and Subcommittee Chairman Homer Ferguson (R., Mich.) ruled "the matter is closed."

Pressing to dispose of this "side issue" Ferguson had planned to hold the committee in an effort to finish the matter last night.

Hughes had raised some questions which Brewster said he wanted an opportunity to answer but Brewster finally yielded and said he would leave the decision to the subcommittee.

The subcommittee, literally ringed about with press and spectators like a mob watching a cockfight, threashed out the issue with the angry Hughes as he leaned over the table during a recess.

Time Division Refused

Hughes refused to agree to a proposition offered by committee Democrats that Brewster could have 10 minutes last night and he could have 30 minutes in the morning.

Ferguson denied a request by Hughes that he personally cross-examine Brewster or that he submit questions individuaully to the committee.

The chairman held to the committee rule that he must submit written questions in advance.

4-Year-Old Niece Of Boston Braves' President Missing

Falmouth, Mass., Aug. 7 (AP).—Four-year-old Nancy Perini, niece of President Lou Perini of the Boston Braves Baseball Club, disappeared from her home late today—but her father, Charles Perini, scoffed at suggestions she might have been kidnaped.

Police said she "either wandered away or was taken in an automobile."

The father gave this account of the disappearance:

"The lady that takes care of her saw her playing out in the backyard. She had seen her out there about 10 minutes previously. But when she went out to call her Nancy wasn't there.

"Somebody told us they saw her walking up the street. But you know how kids are—you can't tell.

Perini said the family's summer home is "right on the water" at Buzzard's Bay but added: "I can't believe she's in the water.

Plane Plunges Into Chimney

Fuselage Plummets Down Shaft Into Oil-Plant Furnace

Everett, Mass., Aug. 7 (AP).—Swooping out of a murky early morning sky a small chartered Montreal-to-Boston plane plunged into the flaming chimney-mouth of a monster oil and gas furnace today—carrying the aircraft's four socially prominent riders to a fiery death.

The pilot apparently attempted an emergency landing.

Investigators said that Pilot Nelson Pell, 32, member of a prominent Long Island, N. Y., family, apparently mistook glowing lights atop explosive-filled tanks of the Colonial Beacon Oil Co. for those of an airport.

Burned to death with Pell were Thomas Proctor Mandell, 46, Boston businessman and son of the late publisher of the now-defunct Boston Transcript, and Mandell's two post-debutante daughters, Ann, 22, and Harriet, 19.

Just before the crash and terrific explosion, the light plane—a three-passenger Stinson—was heard and seen groping low through a pea-soup fog over Greater Boston.

The wings of the plane were sheared off as the craft rammed the top of the squat 30-foot chimney and then plummeted down the shaft into the blazing furnace, which is used as an incinerator for burning waste gases.

Mandell, a cousin of the late Gen. George S. Patton, was returning with his two younger daughters after a visit to see his 10-month-old grandson, child of another daughter, Mrs. Cyril Craig of St. Johns, Quebec.

Mandell, who was treasurer of the Carrier (air conditioning) Corporation, was the third of three brothers in the old New England family to meet a tragic death. An elder brother was shot down while flying for the American Air Force over German lines in the First

Truman Hits GOP Claims Of Economy

President Asks Budget Director To Make Study Of 'All the Facts'

By Edward T. Folliard
Post Reporter

President Truman yesterday challenged Republican ecenomy claims, and announced that he had asked the budget director to make a study of "all the facts."

In a sarcastic reference to "so-called savings," Mr. Truman said:

"In the last analysis, the American people are more interested in how much their Government will actually spend during this fiscal year than they are in shifts and changes in the appropriation structure."

He said that when the Budget Bureau has completed its study, he will issue a review and analysis, "supported by detailed tables and summaries."

Meantime, the question of whether Congress did or did not effect large savings in the Federal Budget was debated over the radio by political strategists thinking of 1948.

Claims Slash of Billions

Caroll Reece, chairman of the Republican National Committee, talked over the ABC network on "Our Task in '48" and said:

"The Republicans promised a substantial reduction in the cost of government, and despite the bitter opposition of Mr. Truman and his millions of tax-eating bureacrats, Congress slashed several billions of dollars from the President's budget."

When the first session of the 80th Congress ended, there were varying G. O. P. claims of savings. Senator Bridges (R., N. H.), chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee, said the "people of the country have been saved $6,616,578,029." Representative Taber (R., N. Y.), chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, put the figure at $4,494,000,000.

House Democrats, scoffing at the Republican claims, insisted that not much more than $1,000,000,000 had been saved, not counting what they called "phony cuts."

Gael Sullivan, executive director of the Democratic National Committee, said over the CBS network last night that "the fairest and most accurate estimate of what was actually cut totals approximately $1,267,000,000." He recalled that the goal of the Republican House was $6 billion.

Says GOP Missed Goal

"The Republicans missed their goal by 79 per cent," Sullivan said. Noting the conflict in the claims of saving made by Chairman Taber and Senator Robert A. Taft (R., Ohio), Sullivan said the Republicans "can't even get together on a good story to tell."

The matter came up yesterday at a White House news conference, and Mr. Truman was ready for it.

"What is your estimate of the savings effected by the last session of Congress?" a reported asked.

Mr. Truman said that he had asked the Budget Director to make a study for him, and he then proceeded to read a prepared statement. Having finished, he said he would have no further comment on the budget controversy until he was ready to issue the tables and summaries.

The President's statement:

"In fairness to all concerned, I do not intend to make any hasty predictions on the amount of so-

U. N. Appraisal Is Dark

World's Food Shortage Found More Critical Than Year Ago

By John W. Ball
Post Reporter

The world shortage of food is more critical today than it was a year ago, the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization reported last night.

If last year's record shipments of 28 million tons of grain into food deficit areas are repeated this year, they still will fall short of minimum needs by six to 10 million tons, it was asserted.

The world appraisal was made in the annual report of Director-General Sir John Boyd Orr to the FAO Conference that will open in Geneva August 25.

"Diets in western and central Europe will be still lower next year," the report said, "and in Asia they will remain at present very low levels unless imports can be increased."

Among the reasons advanced for the increasing deficit are:

1. Last winter's bad weather in Europe, that checked hopes of increased home-grown supplies.

2. The world population is increasing by 15 to 20 million each year, and demand for food is higher everywhere than before the war.

The end of UNRRA and the increasing shortage of foreign exchange with which to pay for food have made the immediate food problem more pressing for "nations in a weak bargaining position" the report said.

It then added that it is "dangerous" to treat separately the short-range problem of providing war-devastated nations with food, and the long-range problem of permanently increasing food production to feed the world's increasing population.

For ultimate relief, the report said, the world must turn to Latin American and Africa. These were referred to as "two safety valves for relieving the growing pressure of world population upon the world food supply.

"Both continents are sparsely populated," he said, "with great undeveloped or partially developed land resources.

"Both could produce food far in excess of their own needs. The possibilities are as yet unexplored and uncomprehended.

"A start is being made with land settlement programs and mechanized farming. FAO is prepared to make its services available to assist in further development."

Some nations which could produce more food are holding back for fear of being caught with unmarketable surpluses in the future, the report declared.

Without identifying the nations,

Censure Move Defeated

London, Aug. 7 (U.P.).—Winston Churchill's Conservative Party forced the House of Commons tonight to vote on a motion of censure against the Labor government's bitter new austerity program, but it was defeated, 318 to 170.

Several hours earlier, Chancellor of the Exchequer Hugh Dalton told Commons that he feared the last of the $3,750,000,000 American loan would be spent in October, and when it was gone, Britain would immediately stop buying food from nations that demand dollar payment.

Prime Minister Clement Attlee called the fight against threatening national bankruptcy a "New Battle of Britain" in a speech yesterday. Dalton called it a "great storm" today. The opposition Conservatives did not disagree with the Labor Party about its seriousness but with its more work and less-of-everything-else plan for dealing with it.

Eden Denounces Program

Anthony Eden, second in command of the Conservative Party, denounced the program as a series of "hasty improvisations, ill-considered, incomplete, inadequate . . .

"They have stumbled undecided and unprepared, without a plan, into a crisis they have not foreseen," Eden told Commons. "They appear to hope to stumble out the same way."

Sir Stafford Cripps, president of the Board of Trade, finished the two-day debate for the government, saying that the government must deal with its difficulties and its long-term program at the same time.

He conceded that the struggle was as serious as any Britain had ever faced, but said there was "no easy way out."

Faced With National Bankruptcy

Dalton spoke for an hour and 51 minutes, largely explaining how and why the American loan probably would be gone within 15 months instead of three years as had been expected earlier, putting Britain face-to-face with national bankruptcy.

He said the program of more austerity and harder work that Attlee laid down yesterday probably would save the nation 800 million dollars a year. That still would not make British finances break even, unless exports were greatly increased.

While debate went on in Commons, the treasury announced that an ad valorem duty of 300 per cent had been imposed on films imported into Britain, in place of the previous specific duty of five pence (about 9 cents) a foot.

This was a direct blow at American films, nearly the only kind imported, which earn 68 million dollars to 72 million dollars a year in Britain. Attlee said yesterday that foreign films would be allowed to take out of Britain only 25 per cent of their earnings. It appeared that the treasury was trying to tax the remaining 75 per cent away.

Dalton painted as black a pic-

Ching Named To Head U. S. Mediation Unit

Roy W. Harper Gets Recess Appointment To 'Roving' Judgeship

By Marshall Andrews
Post Reporter

Cyrus S. Ching, former vice president in charge of industrial relations for the United States Rubber Co., was appointed by President Truman yesterday to be director of the new Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service created by the Taft-Hartley labor law.

The appointment was one of eight announced at Mr. Truman's news conference.

Others Appointed

Other appointees were:

Raymond M. Foley of Michigan as administrator, Housing and Home Finance Agency; Franklin D. Richards of Utah as commissioner, Federal Housing Administration; Dillon S. Myer of Ohio as commissioner, Public Housing Administration; John H. Fahey of Massachusetts as chairman of the Home Loan Bank Board (term ending June 30, 1949); Nathaniel Dyke, jr., of Arkansas as a member of the Home Loan Bank Board (term ending June 30, 1951), and J. Alston Adams of New Jersey as a member of the Home Loan Bank Board (term ending June 30, 1950). Dyke is a Democrat and Adams is a Republican.

Roy W. Harper, whose nomination to a "roving" Federal judgeship in Missouri was held up last month by a Senate Judiciary Subcommittee, was given a recess appointment to the position.

Ching will not take office as mediation director until August 22, when provisions of the Taft-Hartley law become effective. He is 71 and is a former industry member of the War Labor Board and has served as an industry consultant to the Labor and Commerce Departments.

Separated by the new labor law from the Labor Department, the Conciliation Service will be charged with the difficult task of trying to head off strikes and settle those it cannot prevent. The post to which Ching was appointed pays $12,000 a year.

As top labor conciliator he succeeds Edgar L. Warren, who recently resigned as head of the Labor Department's mediation service Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach has said he might name Warren's successor to head the old service until it is discontinued.

The six appointments to the housing and home loan agencies were made in conformity with Reorganization Plan No. 3, which groups all principal housing agen-

Adm. Gingrich Assigned to Atomic Board

Appointed to Head New Security and Intelligence Division

Rear Admiral John E. Gingrich, USN, Assistant Chief of Naval Operations, has been appointed director of a newly created division of security and intelligence, United State Atomic Energy Commission, it was announced last night.

His assignment to the commission on detail from the Navy has been approved by Secretary of Defense James Forrestal, and he will take up his new duties within two weeks.

The decision by the commission to establish a combined security and intelligence division was based on security studies made over a period of five months and on an over-all intelligence study made by Rear Admiral Sidney W. Souers, USNR, special consultant to the commission. Admiral Souers is a former deputy chief of naval intelligence and was the first head of the central intelligence group.

Gingrich's Assignment

All of the security and intelligence phase of the AEC program will head up in the unified office of Admiral Gingrich, who will work closely with the central intelligence group and with other security and intelligence agencies of the Government. His security responsibilities will include the physical security of AEC installations the control of classified information, the development and operation of clearance procedures, and coordination with the Federal Bureau of Investigation, which had investigative responsibility.

A native of Kansas, Admiral Gingrich attended public school at Dodge City, Kansas, and spent one year at Kansas University before entering the Naval Academy, where he graduated in the Class of 1920. His Navy duty includes two years as instructor at Annapolis and two years teaching naval sciences at Northwestern University.

From 1935 to 1937, he headed the navigational research division of the Naval Hydrographic Office and was active in the development of navigational aids and methods. His sea duty includes service on the USS Pennsylvania, USS Maryland and USS Rochester.

Served as Aide to Forrestal

During World War II, he served as aide to Secretary of the Navy Forrestal, and later commanded the USS Pittsburgh, a heavy cruiser, during the last year of the war in the Pacific. He was awarded the Silver Star for his work in towing the burning air-

Hansen Named Associate of Dr. Corning

Educator to Direct Curriculum Revision, Elementary Divisions

Dr. Carl F. Hansen, executive assistant to School Superintendent Hobart M. Corning, yesterday was appointed associate superintendent.

Dr. Hansen

Approval of the appointment by the Board of Education was announced by Mrs. Henry Grattan Doyle, board president, and Dr. Corning.

In his new post Dr. Hansen will be in charge of elementary schools in divisions 1 to 9 and curriculum revision and planning for the entire system.

Executive assistant here since March 3, he had been with the Omaha, Nebr., school system previously.

All seven board members in town approved the appointment. Out of town on vacation and unpolled, were Dr. Robert A. Maurer and Mrs. Philip Sidney Smith.

Sole other applicant for the post was Miss Ida May Lind, coordinator of elementary instruction in white schools and a veteran of 44 years in the District educational field.

Miss Lind's candidacy had been

The Federal Diary

Return Here Set by SEC, 8 Agencies

By Jerry Kluttz
Post Reporter

The Public Buildings Administration has come up with a schedule for the return here of nine Federal agencies. Here it is:

The four Interior agencies are set to start moving back here from Chicago by October 1. The transfer will be gradual, with the Indian Bureau the first to be moved. The other agencies are the Fish and Wildlife Service, National Park Service, and a small Interior personnel office.

In the four agencies are 687 jobs. Of that number, 462 employes have said they would move here with their jobs.

PBA has told Interior that it must make space for the four agencies in its main building. The department plans a general reshuffling of its offices before the transfer begins from Chicago. The Interior committee working on the space problem is made up of Floyd Dotson, the chief clerk, who is chairman, and Edward Poynton of the Indian Bureau, and C. C. Davison.

The Securities and Exchange Commission is slated to start moving back here from Philadelphia by October 15. It will go into RFC Annex 1 and 2 at 2nd and F sts. nw. Its move will be somewhat delayed since it will take the telephone company from 5 to 6 weeks to get the phones in order for both

Veteran Files Complaint

Police Are Accused of Beating Negro Held Without Charges

By Robert J. Bruskin
Post Reporter

Washington police illegally detained a Negro war veteran for 34 hours without charges and beat him after his innocence was established, according to a complaint filed yesterday.

The complaint, given to Police Superintendent Robert J. Barrett by Attorney Roger Robb, charged Julius Willie Clegg, 26, 1106 21st. ne., was picked up as a suspect last Saturday morning while he was returning to work. He was never told why he was arrested, according to the complaint. He was kept in jail for 34 hours, Robb charged.

According to the complaint, Clegg was denied the right to notify his wife or The Washington Post where he is employed. No charges were filed against him. He was beaten by police interrogators after a police show-up in which no one identified Clegg, the complaint charged.

Twenty-two hours after the show-up, Clegg said he was told he could go home by First Precinct Police, but only after his wife threatened to obtain a writ of habeas corpus to compel his release. Mrs. Clegg said she found him after a day-long search.

Robb asked Barrett to bring trial board action against the arresting policeman and commanding officer of the First Precinct for unlawful arrest and detention. He also asked trial board and criminal charges be placed against the

Fairfax Primary Ends in Tie, Each Candidate Polls 2853

The Fairfax County Democratic race for a seat in the Virginia House of Delegates is tied up at 2853-all.

This situation, learned yesterday from a three-man board of election canvassers who spent the day recounting the vote, is unique in county election history.

Said Edwin M. Lynch, who until late yesterday afternoon thought he was the winner of the primary: "What do we do now?"

Said Robert J. McCandlish, who thought he was a two-vote loser. "I'll be right up."

He had been sitting down to dinner when he learned that he had not lost out in Tuesday's primary. He hurried to the county courthouse to thumb through State election laws.

District Theaters' Color Bar Brings Ban From 37 Producers

New York, Aug. 7 (AP).—Thirty-seven producers, including many of Broadway's best-known names, said today they would sign contracts with actor's Equity banning appearance in Washington, D. C., theaters after June 1, 1948, until the theaters permit Negro patrons.

The producers said they disagreed with a statement issued by the League of New York Theaters recently, allegedly on behalf of "a majority of league members," opbosing the anti-discrimination clause which Equity is demanding in new contracts.

The 37 producers, who include Oscar Hammerstein, Richard Rodgers, Ruth Gordon, Cheryl Crawford, Garson Kanin, Jose Ferrer and other top producers, stated that "we question the existence of such a majority since, so far as we know, no vote of the total membership has ever been taken on this question."

The clause demanded by Equity would forbid Equity members to appear in the Washington theaters unless exclusion of Negroes is stopped by June 1, 1948.

The Theater Owners' League, in opposing the clause, said the policies of Capital theaters were outside the jurisdiction of its contracts with Equity.

Today's statement, issued through the Playwrights Company, which includes Maxwell Anderson, Elmer Rice and others, said the signers of the statment would request a meeting of the league "at the earliest possible date."

"For ourselves," the statement continued, "as individual producers, we approve of the action of the Equity Council and will not refuse to sign the proposed new Equity contract because of the inclusion of the clause concerning racial discrimination in the National Capital."

Committee Orders Halt To Hughes-Brewster Feud

After Hughes refused the compromise suggested by the Democratic side he finally said:

"I am willing to drop the whole matter. I've had somewhat the same opportunity this afternoon as Brewster did yesterday—to give argumentative testimony."

Hughes Warned

Hughes, who almost faced charges of contempt of the Senate was accused earlier by Ferguson of trying to intimidate the committee by his enormous wealth.

The hearing adjourned at 6:10 p. m. after a day of testimony so conflicting that it created the impression of a series of distortion mirrors in a Coney Island house of fun.

The day's confusion was increased by repeated demonstrations from spectators, a speech of thanks to the audience by Hughes, and frequent sparring matches between Hughes and the committee.

Toward the close of the hearing, Hughes angrily demanded to know why the committee had never investigated the other photo-reconnaissance plane ordered at about the same time—the XF-12. That plane was sponsored by Pan American, he shouted. Hughes insisted no XF-12 had been delivered to the Army. Several days ago an official spokesman for the Army Air Forces told The Washington Post the Army had two of the XF-12 planes.

Air Base Deals Assailed

From that Hughes leaped into the question of why the committee had not followed the recommendation left it to investigate the arrangements made by Pan Am. with the Government for South American air bases.

He said he understood the State and War Departments had asked the inquiry be dropped during the war, but he said surely the secrecy was now off and the committee should proceed with its unfinished business.

"Where did you get this information?" shot Ferguson.

"I obtained it from Mr. Fulton. I believe it was under his jurisdiction when he was with the committee."

Then Hughes, charging that Pan Am. was all powerful politically in Washington, speculated that his rival airline must have gone to the State and War Departments in the matter.

He said he did not charge the War and State Departments with collusion with Pan American.

Probe Confined to U. S.

"I believe he (Fulton) said the Government put up the money for these bases on some kind of arrangement so Pan Am got the fields after the war," Hughes testified.

"Did Fulton tell you that under the terms of the resolution continuing this committee we are confined to the continental limits of the United States?" queried Ferguson.

Hughes labored the point until Senator Claude Pepper (D., Fla.), who had been coming to his defense all day, chimed in with an agreement the committee was thus limited.

Hughes said he could not remember just how long Fulton did work for him—whether it was a matter of two weeks or longer. He couldn't remember whether he was employing Fulton at the time the former counsel asked Brewster to call off the inquiry.

Argued Over Fee

Pressed by Ferguson, Hughes admitted that he had had two former committee employes on the payroll at the time this investigation began.

The other was Rudolph Halley, associated with Fulton, who used to be assistant counsel of the committee under President Truman.

Hughes asked that Fulton be called as a witness although he said he had parted on rather unfriendly terms with the attorney because they had an argument over the fee.

Fulton originally tried to charge $20,000, he said, and got only $10,000.

On advice of his regular attorney, Thomas A. Slack of Houston, Tex., Hughes declined to say why he had singled out Fulton for employment, or to give any details of his relationship with him.

Fulton Appearance Off

"I'll tell you one thing, Senator," shouted Hughes, the large pupils of his eyes sparking angrily; "There was nothing irregular or abnormal about my hiring him. I just wanted it for the same reason anybody wants a lawyer."

Fulton was scheduled to appear today—but the committee cancelled the call when testimony on the feud was dropped.

The "You're a Liar day" had a secondary row among members of the supporting cast of the Brewster-Hughes scenario.

Noah Dietrich, executive vice president of the giant Hughes Tool Co., which did some 300 million dollars worth of business during the war years, took the stand to back up Hughes' charges of political motivation of the inquiry. Hughes asked that Deitrich be called.

Colonel Roosevelt in Again

Deitrich said that when Francis D. Flanagan, assistant counsel for the committee, went to Culver City, Calif., to start the investigation of Hughes' books Flanagan had said the committee was "shooting at Elliott Roosevelt with a cannon."

Flanagan Denies Remark

The committee promptly swore in Flanagan, chief assistant counsel of the committee, who flatly denied the remark attributed to him.

Flanagfian, who was an administrative assistant to FBI Chief J. Edgar Hoover, and an FBI agent for six years before he went to the committee in 1944, said Dietrich made the comment quoted but that he had replied:

"As far as I know the Hughes Tool Company has received $40,000,000 in war contracts and as far as we know the public has received nothing for thta $40,000,000 which is a prima facie case in the eyes of the committee."

Senator Fills in Answers

Here are the highlights of the questions which Hughes asked Brewster. The questions were submitted by Hughes to Ferguson to be relayed to the Maine Senator.

Q. "Is it not true that you (Brewster) are a personal friend of Juan Trippe, president of Pan American Airways?"

A. "I have known Mr. Trippe for four or five years, but I wouldn't say it represents any degree of intimacy."

The next question was whether Brewster was not a close friend of Sam Pryor. (Pryor, a former Republican national vice chairman from Connecticut, is vice president of Pan American.)

Brewster said Pryor "certainly is" a close friend, and has been for 15 or more years. Pryor, he said, has a summer home in Maine.

"We haven't always agreed, but we have been close friends," Brewster added.

Knows House on F St.

Then followed a question as to whether "Bill McAvoy of Pan-American Airways is a close friend of yours?"

Brewster said he knew McAvoy, public relations man for Pan-American, and that "the association has always been very pleasant.

"He once presented me with a ticket to a football game," Brewster related. "He didn't go with me, so I had to buy my own peanuts."

Ferguson then asked for Hughes whether Brewster was familiar with the residence at 2017 F st. in Washington.

Brewster: Yes, I am.

He added that it is a residence maintained by Pan-American for company executives.

Brewster said Pan American purchased the place after a "great tragedy when a child was killed by a dog and the place was reputed to be haunted. They were able to buy it very reasonably."

Ferguson continued to read Hughes' questions:

Ferguson: How many times have you been there?

Brewster: I just said that I'd had breakfast there about three times in the last six or eight months, which consisted of eggs.

Who Has Palace?

Ferguson: What would you call his place? Could it be termed the Pan American Public Relations Center or the Pan American Palace?

Brewser: I'd like to have the committee see it. There is a toilet on the first floor that is more constantly out of order than any I've ever seen. There is nothing palatial about it. I have here some photographs of TWA's palace and swimming pool. I is palatial.

(Brewser then exhibited some photographs of the TWA headquarters in California and Ferguson made them part of the official record. Hughes controls TWA Airlines.)

Ferguson: Where does Sam Pryor live?

Brewser: Greenwich, Conn.

Ferguson: Does he have any other place.

Brewser: He has a winter home down in Florida. Senator Pepper (D., Fla.) could probably tell you more about that.

Ferguson: Does he maintain a home at Hobe Sound, Fla.?

Brewster: Yes, it's more of a cottage or bungalow.

Bought His Own Turkey

In response to Hughes' questions, Brewster acknowledged that he had spent two Thanksgiving vacations of about a week's duration each at Pryor's cottage.

He said Mrs. Brewster accompanied him on both occasions, that Pryor himself was not there either time, that he had hired his own cook for the vacation and purchased his own groceries—even the Thanksgiving turkey.

And he said that he had left the place "pretty well stocked up with canned goods" as a "token of my appreciation."

These Hughes' questions followed:

Q. "Have you ever accepted free transportation in the special, private airliner of Pan American?"

A. "I have."

Q. "To Raleigh, N. C.?"

A. 'I did."

Trip to See Senator Bailey

To additional questions, he said that he had made the trip to confer with Senator Bailey of North Carolina (now dead), at Bailey's request, about the community air bill. Both were members of the Senate Commerce subcommittee studying the legislation.

The queries turned had back then to Pryor's resort home in Florida and whether Brewster had ever been flown there by Pan American for free.

Brewster replied that he had not last, year, but added that he couldn't recall whether he had been flown there the year before.

Q. "Were you instrumental in having John Cooper, former vice president of Pan American Airways, appointed as aviation analyst of the Library of Congress?"

A. "I was not. I knew nothing of it until I learned he was there."

Q. "In January of this year were you not fully aware that TWA was the leader of other independent airlines in opposing your community airline bill?"

Saw Trippe "Very Little"

Brewster replied that the question had implications that the bill is exclusively his when others have also sponsored it. Then he commented that early this year TWA was "so considerably preoccupied in getting a 40-million-dollar loan from the United States Treasury to bolster their collapsing finances" that they didn't have time to do much else.

Next question:

It was obvious, was it not, that a merger of TWA and Pan American would remove the chief opposition to the community airline bill?"

Brewster said he didn't think it would have any such effect.

Q. "Were you aware that Juan Trippe approached Mr. Dietrich (an official of Hughes Co.) as early as last January to try to effect a merger of TWA and Pan America?"

A. "I had very little knowledge of that. I was seeing Mr. Trippe very little, very casually, and I do not believe he mentioned it to me. It may be that Mr. Dietrich mentioned it when he called on me in April.

Denies 'Lobbying' For Bill

Q. "You were aware, were you not, that in the position you occupied as chairman of the Senate War Investigating Committee you were in a position to push an investigation of this kind to the embarrassment and detriment of Mr. Hughes?"

A. "I was aware of that, as I explained at length yesterday. But this investigation was started five years ago, and the recent investigation was started on the complaint of Senator Ferguson, who has had full direction and control."

Another question was, "Did you or did you not lobby with Mr. Hughes or attempt to sell him the Community Airline bill?"

Brewster replied he had discussed the bill with Hughes and others, but that "any implication that I was lobbying or had any particular personal interest in it is absolutely false."

A group of Hughes' questions pictured Brewster as "holding a whip over Howard Hughes with one hand, through this investigation to embarrass him, while asking with the other hand that Hughes support your Community Airline bill."

"I wanted nothing from him (Hughes)," Brewster replied. "When you talk about cracking a whip that is ridiculous."

Fulton's Name Figures

Hughes also asked Brewster through the committee whether he had admitted to Hugh Fulton, former committee counsel, that he (Brewster) had lobbied for the bill.

Brewster repeated that he had discussed the measure, but never with "any impropriety," adding that he "never lobbied at any time on behalf of this matter."

Brewster testified Wednesday that Fulton approached him regarding the then Hughes investigation but that he (Brewster) was not clear as to just what Fulton's interest in the matter was.

Yesterday Hughes wanted to know whether Brewster had asked Fulton to testify at the current hearing, and whether it was true that Fulton had said he was willing to appear as a witness but was afraid that his testimony might "hurt" Brewster.

"Absolutely False"

Brewster called the latter point "absolutely false."

Brewster insisted, in reply to other questions, that he had not made a "big issue" of the fact that the investigation got under way in 1942 when President Truman, then a Missouri Senator, headed the committee.

Then he was asked whether it was "purely a coincidence" that the inquiry had been left "dormant" for five years and then pressed only after Hughes refused to support the community air bill.

Brewster flatly denied that the two affairs are conected, and he challenged Hughes to produce any evidence that he (Brewster) had done anything "to accelerate or retard" the inquiry.

In reply to other questions, Brewster denied that he had kept active direction of the inquiry himself after he appointed the subcommittee, headed by Ferguson, to conduct it.

When Hughes' questions had been exhausted, Brewster said:

"One question has not been asked, but the implication runs all through these questions, and that is: Do I have any interest in Pan American?

"I absolutely have not—no interest of any character."

Because of his senatorial interest in aviation matters, the Maine Republican declared, he asked some time ago that Mrs. Brewster's investment counsel dispose of some shares of American Airlines stock which she held, and not purchase any other plane stock.

Missing Link In Elements 'Rediscovered'

Berkeley, Calif., Aug. 7 (U.P.)—Two radioactive elements that existed two billion years ago were reported "rediscovered" today by cyclotronic bombardment.

Elements 85 and 87, the "missing link" in the periodic table of elements, have been created synthetically by cyclotron and atomic oven transmutation for the first time. The discoveries end a 75-year search for the key to one of the fundamental mysteries of science.

Dr. Glenn T. Seaborg and Dr. Albert Ghiorso of the University of California said the two "missing" elements, now called astatine and francium, existed in nature more than two billion years ago but deteriorated into other elements.

Research that went into the discovery of the missing elements, carried out independently by two groups of scientists, was reported in the current issue of Physical Review.

Mystery Since 1871

Seaborg said the cyclotron discovery accounted for the missing fourth series of heavy radioactive elements in the periodic table, which has been named the "neptunium" series, since it has the longest period of radioactivity of any of the other elements in the series.

The other series contains elements in the uranium, thorium and actinium groupings—all found previously in nature or in the laboratory.

Seaborg said the inability of scientists to find elements 85 and 87 had been one of science's mysteries since the table of elements was established in 1871. The table lists elements in the order of their atomic "weight," determined by the number of protons in the nuclei.

'Ancestor' Became Extinct

He explained that neptunium was the "father" of the series and of the two elements. Like all radioactive elements, they decayed at a fixed rate which in the course of millions of years wiped them out of existence, he said.

Actually, Seaborg said, there was an even more remote ancestor of the neptunium series — synthetic element 95, or americium 241, which was discovered by University of California scientists. But it decayed so rapidly, with a "half-life" of 500 years, that it quickly became extinct soon after the earth's beginning.

Working with Seaborg and Ghiorso on the research were Dr. French T. Hageman and Dr. Leonard I. Katzin, of the Argonne National Laboratory, Chicago; and Dr. Martin H. Studier, of the University of Chicago.

The second parallel investigation was carried out in the division of atomic energy of the National Research Council of Canada.

Labor Offers Aid in Boosting Productivity

Thirty-five labor leaders last night called for more labor-management teamwork to increase productive efficiency.

They acknowledged that continued wage rises depend on rising productivity—that is, rising production per man-hour—and said labor has as great a stake in this as anybody.

The group making the statement is the labor committee of the National Planning Association, a private non-profit organization. The committee is headed by Clinton S. Golden, former vice-president of the CIO Steelworkers.

Reuther, Carey in Group

It includes Walter Reuther, president of the CIO Auto Workers; A. E. Lyon, executive secretary of the Railway Labor Executives Association; Frank Fenton, AFL director of organization; Boris Shishkin, AFL economist; James B. Carey, CIO secretary-treasurer; Marion H. Hedges of the AFL International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers; Emil Rieve of the CIO Textile Workers, and H. W. Fraser of the Order of Railway Conductors.

Golden, in a news conference, said the statement "indicates the recognition on the part of responsible people in the labor movement that you don't pull increased wages out of thin air or out of your hat. They come out of rising productivity."

Unions have often been accused of holding down productivity by "make-work" rules, slowdowns, and other devices, and of resisting modern efficiency techniques.

Manifesto to Management

On the other hand, unions have often accused employers of using efficiency techniques to speed up work without giving workers a proper share of the increased profits.

Elliott Roosevelt, Brewster on Air

Father Acted in 'Opposition' to Interests Of Photo Reconnaissance, Son Says

Elliott Roosevelt and Senator Brewster of Maine took to the radio airways last night for some extra innings in the Howard Hughes' war contracts investigation.

Roosevelt, in a recorded interview over WINX, said his father acted "in direct opposition" to the interests of photo reconnaissance in permitting the Hughes Aircraft Co. to continue building a cargo plane during the war.

Asked if the White House had exerted influence in the award of 40 million dollars worth of airplane contracts to Hughes, Elliot Roosevelt said:

"Not only did the White House not influence the awards, but testimony will prove that President Roosevelt's action in arguing that after $13,000,000 had been spent on the (Hughes) cargo plans they ought to keep the contract in force until they got the benefit of all the work to date—so that he allowed them to spend $5,000,000 more, that was in direct opposition to our interests in the reconnaissance program.

"We felt the cargo plane should be shelved and all facilities that Hughes had should be turned over to reconnaissance."

Elliott Roosevelt said the Government would have savey "many millions of dollars" on the Hughes contract if his advice had been followed.

"In my report," he said, "I cited that Hughes offered to meet certain guarantees of performance and delivery of that plane, and when these procurement officers came to give them (the Hughes Co.) the contract they included none of these guarantees.

"Actually, the Government should be out not one cent on that contract."

Brewster Speaks Over WMAL

Brewster, in an interview over WMAL, promised that the Senate investigation of the Hughes Co. and the "40 million dollars of Government money that has gone for nothing so far" will proceed today "full blast."

The Senator from Maine declared he thought it was now "proper" for him to discuss the personal charges leveled against him by Hughes.

U. S. Is Trying to 'Isolate' Yugoslavia, Tito Charges

Belgrade, Aug. 7 (AP).—Marshal Tito charged today in an interview with his state-controlled news agency, Tanjug, that recent United States actions indicated "attempts are being made to isolate us, and some kind of economic blockade of our country is being carried out."

This was one of the reasons, he said, why Yugoslavia refused to participate in the Paris Conference on the Marshall proposal.

"I think, not only for us, but also for other people in Europe, the best aid would be leaving us in peace, so that alone we might take care of ourselves and build ourselves up according to our possibilities and knowledge," the Premier said.

Charges Sabotage, Terrorism

Tito charged that "some military circles of the western powers" encouraged sabotage and terrorism on Yugoslavia's Austrian and Italian frontiers; that the United Nations subcommission studying the Greek situation was biased in favor of "monarcho-fascists"; and that Yugoslav border troubles were linked with Greek charges against Yugoslavia in "a definite aim."

Detailing his chief grievances against the western powers and "especially America," Tito gave this reason for rejecting the Paris Conference bid:

"Past experience with the western countries, and especially with America—or more precisely with the American ruling quarters—has confirmed the conviction that we cannot expect these circles to give us unselfish, sincere help for the reconstruction of our country."

Tells of U. S. Relatives

Tito outlined four reasons to which he said could be attributed the present state of Yugoslavia's relations with the United States. There were:

1. In 1943 and 1944, through American and British military missions here, "I personally asked on several occasions to conclude a lend-lease agreement. However, official American circles rejected the agreement and delivery of material."

2. In 1944, the Russians gave Tito's headquarters two Douglas planes, but "we were forced to return these planes owing to protests of American official quarters, who were against our using them." This incident, he said, was "insignificant but characteristic."

3. "There is in America our gold, valued at 45 million dollars to 50 million dollars. But the American Government has as yet not restored this gold to us, which we badly need for the reconstruction of our country. What is more, in connection with our claim to this gold, we have even been asked to pay impossibly huge sums for some kind of armaments on the grounds of lend-lease, which we, in fact, never received. We received from Malta in 1944 only eight torpedo cutters, which America gave to the London emigre government and for which they are now requesting large sums or asking us to return the cutters."

4. "American official circles did not permit us to get grain from America during the shortage. They did not permit us and still do not permit us to purchase machinery for reconstruction of the country. They do not issue visas, and propaganda is being conducted among American citizens against coming to Yugoslavia."

Speaking of Yugoslavia's relations with her neighbors, Tito said he saw no prospect for improvement of relations with Greece under the prevailing conditions, "particularly because some big western powers hinder this."

Charges Interference in Greece

Speaking of the other frontiers, he said:

"There are some military circles of the western powers which are making various difficulties for us by supporting Chetnik, Ustashi and Domobrani groups," he said.

These, the Premier charged, "with the aid of some Allied officers, are crossing into our country in order to carry out terrorist activities and sabotage." Many of the groups were arrested, he added, and either have been or soon will be tried.

The situation in Greece, he said, is not the fault either of the Yugoslav or the Greek people, but of "those powers who interfered in Greece's internal affairs."

20,000 Seek Haven, Slav Says

By Daniel De Luce

Skoplje, Yugoslavia, Aug. 6 (delayed) (AP). — Acting President Ljubco Arsov of Yugoslav Macedonia said today his republic was sheltering more than 20,000 refugees from what he termed "monarcho-fascist terror" in Greece.

"Very few of the refugees are physically able to work," he said. "The majority are old men, women and children. The republic helps provide them with food and lodging.

Arsov denounced as "Monarcho-Fascist lies" recent foreign reports that an international brigade was forming in Yugoslavia for action against the Greek government and that continued civil war in Greece had been incited from Yugoslav Macedonia.

(The official Greek version laid before the United Nations was that elements of an international brigade were in southern Albania—not Yugoslavia. A U. N. subcommission later reported it could find little "first hand evidence" of such a brigade. However, the U. N. main border commission which visited the Balkans in the spring returned a report holding Yugoslavia, Albania and Bulgaria primarily responsible for the strife along Greece's northern border.)

4 Guerilla Attacks Reported

Athens, Aug. 7 (U.P.).—Press dispatches today reported four new guerilla assaults in eastern Macedonia during last night. The troubled situation forced the gold sovereign rate to a new high.

Three of four attacks reportedly were repulsed with no serious damage, but in a fourth raid, newspapers said, 300 Partisans killed 18 townspeople and burned 17 homes at Pedinon, near Salonika. The other attacks were at Nigrita, Stavros and Tertillo.

The gold sovereign rate, meanwhile, reached 158,000 drachmas after a legal rate of 135,000 had been maintained for months. The open rate, however, had risen as high as 148,000.

Author of 'All Quiet' Becomes U. S. Citizen

New York, Aug. 7.—Erich Maria Remarkue, German-born novelist whose eloquent plea for peace, "All Quiet on the Western Front," was banned and burned by the Nazis, became a citizen of the United States today in a simple ceremony at Immigration and Naturalization Service offices.

"It's like getting some ground under your feet," declared the dark-haired, heavy-set author, who left Germany a few months before Hitler took over in 1933 and came to this country in 1939 a few weeks before World War II broke out in Europe. For 14 years, he said, he had been without a permanent passport—a man without a country.

Newsprint Burns

New York, Aug. 7 (AP).—Five thousand tons of newsprint scheduled for delivery to New York City newspapers was destroyed or damaged this morning in a five-alarm fire in a warehouse in lower Manhattan. Fire Commissioner Frank J. Quayle estimated the loss at $500,000.

Strikes, Shortages and 'Heat' Leave 80,000 Car Workers Idle

Detroit, Aug. 7 (AP).—More than 80,000 of the Nation's automotive workers were idle today as the result of a combination of labor disputes, materials shortages, and absenteeism, the latter ascribed somewhat broadly to excessive heat.

Meanwhile, production fell off sharply from last week, figures compiled by the trade paper Automotive News showing 79,647 units this week compared with last week's 95,711.

Lay-offs for 55,000 Ford, Mercury and Lincoln plant workers and 10,000 Studebaker Corp. hourly-rated employes have been attributed by management spokesmen to a strike of 7000 Murray Corp. of America production men.

Labor Law Is Issue

At the Murray plants, closed for two weeks, the CIO United Auto Workers Union is demanding immunity from a provision of the Taft-Hartley labor law which gives employers the right to sue unions whose members engage in unauthorized strikes.

Briggs Manufacturing Co. sent 5600 employes home today after about 1000 failed to report for work. This in turn forced Packard Motor Car Co. to close its final assembly lines until next Tuesday and idle 1500 of its workers. Briggs management spokesmen attributed its absenteeism to "the heat," adding that plant temperatures registered 85 degrees, although outside official readings were much higher.

Also attributed to the heat by management spokesmen was a walkout of 1800 workers in Chrysler Corp. gear and axile plant and De Soto car division.

Management and union negotiators apparently were as far apart as ever in the Murray dispute. When a conference broke up yesterday both sides had turned down counterproposals and no date was set for a resumption of the meetings.

Hope for Truce Seen

Some hopes had been held that a work resumption at Murray might be arranged on the terms that averted a strike of 107,000 Ford employes over the same issue earlier this week. The Ford-UAW CIO conference agreed to turn the Taft-Hartley law dispute over to a four-man board which may function for a year.

A continuance of the Murray tie-up eventually may affect several other car and truck makers who obtain truck frames, body components and springs from that supplier. Murray is a volume supplier of cushion seat springs to Chrysler's Dodge passenger-car division.

Barring a further change in plans due to the materials situation Ford will recall at least 51,000 of its workers next Tuesday. They will have lost three working days and about 9000 passenger cars will have been lost to the industry's production total.

Noel Coward Fined

London, Aug. 7 (U.P.).—British playwright Noel Coward, who is visiting in the United States, was fined five pounds ($20) in a Woolwich court today on a speeding charge. A woman at Coward's residence said the summons came after the playwright departed and someone else appeared for him.

Santiago 'Quakes Keep Citizens Up All Night, Hurt 30

Havana, Aug. 7 (AP).—One man died of a heart attack and 30 persons suffered injuries as the city of Santiago was shaken six times yesterday afternoon and last night by earthquakes.

The populace of Cuba's second city (pop. 120,000) remained out of doors all night in fear that their homes would collapse. Most of the city's houses showed cracks today as a result of the earth's movement.

The injuries were classified as light.

Algeria Temblor Kills Three

Paris, Aug. 7 (U.P.).—An earthquake rocked Constantine, Algeria, yesterday, killing three persons and injuring four, the French Press Agency reported today in a dispatch from Algiers.

Rise in Tuberculosis Feared Due to War

Frankfurt, Aug. 7 (AP).—Tuberculosis may increase seriously in the United States in the next five to 10 years as a result of contacts American soldiers have had with infected Germans, a Pennsylvania doctor warned today.

Dr. Esmond R. Long, director of the Henry Phipps Institute for the study of tuberculosis at the University of Pennsylvania, said TB rates in Germany cities now were six times higher than those in comparable American cities.

Red Cross Gives DPs $3,000,000 in Aid

Frankfurt, Aug. 7 (AP).—United Nations displaced persons in Germany will receive approximately three million dollars worth of clothing, medical equipment and other supplies from the American Red Cross during August and September, United States Army headquarters here announced today.

Poor Farm Boy Appears Outworn Term

Katy, Texas (U.P.)—Farm lads around Katy resent the time-worn phrase, "poor farm boy," because some of the 16 and 17-year-olds earn as much as $10,000 a year.

L. D. Robinson, vocational agriculture teacher in the Katy High School, pointed out that teen-age Future Farmers of America achieve their own success the Horatio Alger way without leaning on the more experienced dads for help.

"These boys stand on their own feet," Robinson said. "They grow their own crops, raise their own cattle and have their own bank accounts, some of which are really small fortunes."

Robinson pointed with pride to one 17-year-old who had accumulated $15,000 in cash and Government bonds—all from his own farming.

The 40 members of the Katy FFA grossed more than $100,000 last year, Robinson said.

Seventeen-year-old Warren Peek topped the list with a gross income of $10,000 and a net profit of $7,000 last year. Young Peek farmed 70 acres of rice and managed 60 head of cattle which he sold for a tidy profit.

Wesley Nelson, 16, said he grossed about $9,000 and netted an $8,000 profit last year with 50 acres of rice, an Angus steer he sold at the Houston Fat Stock Show and some chickens.

Favor Returned

Rosemount, Minn. (U.P.)—When the War Assets Administration Gopher ordnance works here caught fire, little Rosemount's fire department hurried to the rescue. The favor was returned a few months later when Rosemount's water supply failed and the ordnance works provided water for two days.

Recluse's $30,000 Looking for Heirs

San Diego, Calif. (U.P.)—The search for three missing heirs of the late Anton Knittel, well-to-do recluse, has been resumed after four years' delay during the war.

Stanley W. Miller of the San Diego Trust & Savings Bank, the estate's executors, announced that he has written to Knittel's nephews, Friestal, Edgar and Herbert Pohl, who were reported to have been living in Warnsdorf, Bohemia, about their uncle's death.

"We were unable to start our search for these heirs because they lived in the Sudetenland, which was in enemy territory," Miller said. Warnsdorf is now in the Russian occupation zone.

When Knittel died suddenly in a downtown plaza, with only $2.97 on his person, authorities began a search of his assets and found he had in excess of $30,000 in cash and bonds.

Expensive Parking

Columbus, Ohio (U.P.)—Marcus W. Drillot drove downtown, parked his automobile, appeared in traffic court and returned to find his car missing. It had been stolen in the few minutes he was in court to pay a traffic ticket.

Newsboys Protected

San Francisco.—If a motorist wants to buy a newspaper in San Francisco, he now is required to pull to the curb to prevent newsboys from risking their lives by darting out into the traffic. Newsboys will stay on the sidewalks.

W.C.T.U. Out to Make Whole World Dry

Evanston, Ill. (U.P.)—The World Woman's Christian Temperance Union with affiliates in 46 countries seeks international prohibition of liquor.

Explaining the program adopted by the group at its recent international convention, Mrs. D. Leigh Colvin, president of the national W. C. T. U. and first vice president of the world organization, says international control of synthetic drugs also will be pushed.

"Delegates from around the world went on record for the total abolition of the liquor traffic as the only solution of the alcohol problem," Mrs. Colvin said.

"The delegates urged that new and dangerous synthetic narcotics be placed under the same international control as opium and its derivatives, and that manufacture of synthetic narcotics be limited to medical needs," she says.

'A-Boat' Means About in Virginia

San Antonio, Tex. (U.P.)—Pronounce a half-dozen words for Dr. Walter V. Kaulfers and he can tell you where you were raised.

The associate professor of education at Stanford University proved his ability on a Texas tour. He said he can spot a Texan as far away as he can hear him. New Englanders are "easy to spot" and Westerners "a breeze."

The professor says key words which give clews to the birthplace of the speaker are "about," "Boston," fixing" and that Arkansas standby—"the fact of the business about the matter is."

People from Virginia pronounce "about" as "a-boat." People from Illinois, Indiana and Missouri have a nasal twang and people from the West have a broad accent.

U. S. Movie Firms Invade England

London (U.P.)—American film companies meeting the challenge presented by J. Arthur Rank's British studies are building and buying studios here in preparation for a big production drive expected to get into full swing this autumn.

Sir Stafford Cripps, president of the board of trade, has given the American company the necessary building and renovation licenses after first receiving assurances that films made in England by American concerns would get wider showings than heretofore on American circuits.

Associated British Pictures, which is partly controlled by Warner Bros., is expanding its studio facilities blitzed during the war by flying bombs. Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer has acquired an establishment at Borehan Wood and Twentieth Century-Fox is developing its Wembley properties. Columbia is taking studios at Walton-on-Thames. Paramount is searching for a suitable location.

Beer Business So Good GI's May Quit School

Birmingham, Ala. (U.P.)—Four former GIs at the University of Alabama formed a wholesale beer distributing company to make summer vacation money. Their temporary "jobs" became so successful that it's a permanent business after only six weeks.

Two brother combinations, Jim and Paul Smith and Walter and Joe School, are officials of the company. Also they are the laborers who lug the cases from the truck to the retailer.

Sales jumped so fast they had to hire two salesmen to take the orders. Now they are undecided about returning to college this fall.

Double Recovery

Indianapolis, Ind. (U.P.) — Dave Guthridge's car was stolen the other day and police found it right away. Guthridge drove it home, parked it in front of the house, and an hour later found it gone again. Before he could call police, they telephoned him. A squad car which hadn't been notified that the car had been recovered had recovered it a second time.

Money No Object

Huntington, Ind. (U.P.)—A sweet-toothed prowler smashed a window of a filling station here, reached through and took two cans of chocolate syrup, a can of cherry syrup and some candy. The cash register, alongside the window, was not touched.

Long Arm of Coincidence

South Bend, Ind. (U.P.)—Mrs. John Lang was riding home on a bus when the driver stopped it, got out and picked up a purse in the street. He read the name on a card inside. It was hers. When she got home, she found the house ransacked. The thieves apparently had dropped the purse in their getaway.

Ex-Jockey Dead at 95

La Crosse, Kans. (U.P.)—The world's oldest jockey, Stephen Levi Burlingame, died here at the age of 95. He rode for 60 years. At 80, Burlingame mounted a horse in a race at Stafford for what proved his last ride. The horse fell and the jockey suffered a fractured leg.

But Jefferson Still Lives

Quincy, Mass. (U.P.)—When former President John Adams died at 7:25 p.m. on the Fourth of July, 1826, his last words were, "Thomas Jefferson still lives." Ironically, Jefferson had died at his Monticello, Va. home just six hours and 45 minutes earlier.

HOLD IT! NOT YET—Leonard Small, George Washington University student from Brooklyn, N. Y., finds himself in the hands of a Capitol policeman at the Senate war contracts hearing yesterday. Small spoke from the crowd, promising it would be quiet if allowed to remain. ture of the situation as Attlee did yesterday.

"We have run into a great storm," he said. "This storm has sprung up very swiftly."

He was interrupted by murmurs from members of Commons, who had just heard Herbert Morrison, lord president of the council, announce that summer vacation would begin next Wednesday, not tomorrow.

"I have already called up my resources of patience for any interruptions I may meet," Dalton said.

There was another concerted murmur and Dalton snapped: "I shall say what I have to say and I shall not sit down until I have said it."

He then told Commons that spiraling American prices had taken a large chunk of the loan. For instance, he said, the American wholesale price index had risen from 101.7 in January, 1946, to 156.6 in July, 1947. In the same period, the index of farm produce rose from 129 to 182.

"These are not the same dollars that we borrowed," he said.

Fuel Crisis a Factor

He said last winter's fuel crisis had cost Britain 800 million dollars but in "some respects" the most fundamental cause of its difficulties was the world dollar shortage. Under the terms of the American loan, Britain's creditors can demand the conversion of pounds sterling to dollars and many of them have.

"The United States are exporting more than twice what they are importing and the difference between the two figures represents the total adverse balance of all the other countries of the world," he said. "The reason for this that sticks out a mile is that the continent of Europe, of which we ourselves are an island outpost, and large parts of the continent of Asia have been war-wounded, ravaged, bombed, invaded and occupied by a common enemy and their recovery and productivity have been much slower than we had hoped."

In estimating that the loan would be gone in October, Dalton was even less optimistic than Attlee, who had said yesterday that it would be spent by the end of this year, instead of lasting into 1949 or 1950, as originally had been hoped.

Says Britain Is Stronger

But Dalton said that if the American loan, "with all terms and conditions" had not been accepted, "we should have run into this same storm a year sooner."

"In the past year, we have increased our strength and we are stronger in many respects," he said.

"On the exhaustion of the American credit, there will be remnants of the Canadian line of credit," he said. "At the present time, there is outstanding 500 million dollars.

He said the "nominal figure" of Britain's sterling balance was $14.236,000,000, but a large part of it related to war debts and the total did not include liabilities in respect to the American and Canadian loans and advances.

Barrage of Questions

Dalton said, in answer to a question, that Britain's armed forces overseas would total 300,000 men by next March. Attlee said yesterday that 200,000 men would be withdrawn from overseas stations by next March 31.

This was one point in the new program which might cause revolt in the Labor Party's leftwing rebels. They do not think 200,000 men is a great enough cut. Dalton had to answer a barrage of questions about this from both Government and opposition benches.

He said the Government would not rule out the itroduction of an emergency interim budget this fall "if it should be necessary to introduce one," but he promised broadly that taxes would not be raised.

Hansen Named Corning Aide

urged by several local teachers' groups which asked that a "local" educator be appointed in preference to an "outsider."

The board found Dr. Hansen's training in administration made him more fitted for the post which is largely administrative, Dr. Corning told a reporter. Miss Lind's experience has been "supervisory," added the superintendent.

At the same time, Dr. Corning announced redesignation of titles of Miss Lind and her counterpart in the Negro schools, Dr. Willa C. Burch, for purposes of centralizing their work at the Franklin School under Hansen.

Dr. Hansen, a native Nebraskan, was associated with Dr. Corning when the latter was superintendent of schools in Omaha, before he came here to assume the same post.

A graduate of the University of Nebraska, Dr. Hansen did graduate work in law at the University of Wisconsin. He received his master's degree in education and English at the University of Nebraska and his degree of doctor of education at the University of Southern California.

Before coming to Washington, he was principal of the Technical High School in Omaha, where he had taught a wide variety of subjects.

He also held a teaching fellowship at the University of Southern California in the field of education.

In the Omaha school system Dr. Hansen had considerable experience with administration and curriculum planning for both high school and elementary school levels.

Miss Lind's new title will be director of elementary supervision for white schools; Dr. Burch will be director of elementary supervision for Negro schools.

Heretofore, they have been "coordinators" of elementary schools with professorships at Wilson and Miner Teachers Colleges, respectively. Both will now have offices at the Franklin School and be relieved of their college duties.

Other actions taken by the board yesterday included:

Acceptance of the resignation of Mrs. Molis M. Brown as principal of the Bundy School.

Appointment of Dr. John S. Lewis as professor of English at Wilson Teachers College.

Promotion of Charles S. Lofton to assistant director of the Veterans' High School Center, Armstrong High School.

Truman Challenges GOP Economy Claims, Asks Study

called 'savings' effected by the Congress in the 1948 budget until all the facts are in.

"A great many complex factors have to be taken into consideration before a complete, accurate and understandable report can be made. In some cases, Congress has substituted contract authority for direct appropriations; in others, appropriations originally requested for the fiscal year 1947 were not enacted until 1948 and so must be considered as part of this fiscal year.

"In addition, Congress has provided funds for certain agencies, such as the Postoffice and the National Labor Relations Board, on a "part-year" basis and instructed agencies to request deficiencies, if necessary, to complete the fiscal year.

"Among the other facts to be determined is the actual effect of rescissions upon expenditures during this fiscal year, since a large part of the rescissions made by Congress were in funds which would not have been spent anyway.

"What is most important, however, is the fact that none of the predictions I have seen have properly related congressional changes in appropriations to estimated expenditures for 1948. In the last analysis, the American people are more interested in how much their Government will actually spend during this fiscal year than they are in shifts and changes in the appropriation structure.

"For these rerasons, I have ordered a detailed and exhaustive study of all the facts. When this is completed, I shall issue a review and analysis, supported by detailed tables and summaries, which will bring up to date revised estimates of receipts and expenditures for this fiscal year.

Java Accepts U. S. Offer On Conflict

Batavia, Java, Aug. 7 (AP).—Indonesian Premier Amir Sjarifoeddin formally accepted today the United States offer of its good offices in the Dutch-Indonesian conflict but urged that American influence be used to obtain an international arbitration commission.

This was regarded, in effect, as rejection of the United States as a lone mediator. The American proposal was accepted Sunday by Dr. Hubertus J. Van Mook, acting Dutch Governor-General of the Indies.

Sjarifoeddin's decision was broadcast by the Jogjakarta radio. His statement said that in view of two years' unsuccessful efforts at mediation and negotiation, arbitration by an international commission appointed by the United Nations was the only remaining possibility.

"The government and people of the Republic of Indonesia are fully prepared to submit to a decision in which arbitration is recommended as the primary means to settle the dispute," the statement said.

Delegate Invited

The American Government was requested to send a representtive to Jogjakarta by air as soon as possible so the Republic might "more fully acquaint the United States with the Republican government point of view."

"The Indonesian government asks the United States to use its influence with the Dutch and the United Nations to have an international arbitration commission dispatched without delay to Indonesia."

The Premier expressed the belief that if the United States accepted responsibility for arranging for an international commission, both the Republic and the Netherlands would agree to abide lawfully by any decision the commission reached.

(Australian Prime Minister Joseph B. Chifley said in Canberra that his government was prepared to act jointly with the United States "in the capacity of mediator or arbitrator" in the Indonesian dispute.)

Fighting Continues

Meanwhile, a Dutch announcement said Netherlands forces had suffered 22 casualties since the cease-fire orders become effective at midnight Monday. Both the Dutch and Indonesians continued their cross accusations of cease-fire order violations.

The Dutch communique said a Netherlands truck had been fired on in the Grissee sector, northeast of Soerabaja, that Dutch patrols had been fired on from other points west of Soerabaja, and that Molotov cocktails (bottles filled with gasoline) and mortar and machine-gun fire had been directed against a Dutch outpost at Randegangkoelon in the same area.

Philippines Ignored

Lake Success, Aug. 7 (AP).—The United Nations Security Council today refused to give the Philippines a seat for debate on the Indonesian case.

With seven affirmative votes necessary for passage, the council balloted 6 to 0 with Britain, Belgium, Russia, France nd Poland abstaining.

So far India, as one of the nations presenting the case, and the Netherlands, as an affected party, have seats at the table along with the 11 delegates. The two may participate in debate but have no vote.

U. S. to Press For Jap Peace Treaty Soon

By The Associated Press

The United States probably will suggest to other interested nations that the initial 11-nation conference on a Japanese peace treaty be held in early September, immediately preceding the opening of the United Nations General Assembly in New York.

Some officials have been talking of September 10—a week prior to the U. N, opening—as a target date for the Japanese meeting.

All of this planning is in line with a reported decision to go ahead without Russian participation, if the Russians persist in holding aloof from the American proposals for making 11 nations instead of only the Big Four powers responsible for drafting the Japanese treaty.

Australia and Britain are reported to have suggested that the initial sessions be held by Foreign Ministers instead of lesser representatives, Authorities said today this is entirely satisfactory with the United States; it is one of the reasons why American leaders now feel the drafting conference should be held about the time Foreign Ministers are gathering for the United Nations sessions.

Originally theUnited States suggested that the drafting sessions begin August 19 in either Washing or San Francisco. British Commonwealth countries objected because of conflict with another meetings they were planning.

U. S. Calls Red Hand in Grab Of Refinery

Vienna, Aug. 7 (U.P.).—Lieut. Gen. Goeffrey Keyes, Snited States military commissioner from Austria, has called for a showdown with the Soviet command over the Russian seizure of the American-British owned Lobau oil refinery.

In a letter dated August 6 and released today, Keyes asked the Soviet military commission if the seizure at midnight August 2 was a "unilateral action" on a four-power matter or establishment of a temporary trusteeship, pending four-power action.

Keyes said that the refinery, Austria's largest and located in garded as a German asset since the Soviet zone, could "not be re the beneficial ownership is held in equal shares by British and Americans" (American Vacuum Oil and British Shell Oil companies).

Referring to a letter from Soviet Military Commissioner Col.-Gen. L. K. Kourasov notifying him of the seizure, Keyes said:

"If your letter is intended as notification of unilateral action and decision on a matter which calls for quadripartite consideration and decision, this disposition of a property is expressly regarded by the United States as not acceptable and the action is protested in the strongest possible terms."

The British said yesterday the seizure action was "difficult to reconcile" with efforts to reach an Austrian settlement and said that it meant that Russia had taken the law "into its own hands."

were they given as such by a member of the United States Navy," O'Neil argued.

"He was a group leader of prisoners of war and the orders he gave were those of the Japanese government for the purpose of camp administration or discipline. He, as a prisoner of war, was not amenable to the jurisdiction of the court-martial.

"His status as a prisoner of war put his functions beyond it (the court-martial) in the domain of international law, both customary and by treaty . . ."

Last Witness In Hirshberg Trial Heard

New York, Aug. 7 (AP).—Testimony i nthe court-martial of Navy Chief Signalman Harold Edward Hirshberg, 29, ended today and trial was continued until Monday for final arguments by counsel after the court rejected a defense plea that it lacked jurisdiction.

Lieut. Comdr. John J. O'Neill, defense counsel, argued that Hirshberg, accused of striking fellow prisoners and informing on them for planning escapes, was under the direct jurisdiction of the Japanese government and exempt from Navy regulations.

"The orders he (Hirshberg) gave were not U. S. naval orders, nor

Md. Woman, Dead In Roomer's Bed, Is Identified

Margaret Adell, 47, of Indian Head, Md., was found dead in a rooming house at 820 H st. ne. Wednesday night, her body dressed only in a slip and brown suede shoes, police reported.

The occupant of the room, Frank DeMenneth, Capital Transit Co. employe, was quoted by police as about 20 minutes and found the saying he had stepped out for woman unconscious when he returned. She was identified by the Women's Bureau, which reported she had a record of arrests on drunk and disorderly charges.

Deputy Coroner Richard M. Rosenberg, who performed an autopsy yesterday afternoon, did not issue a death certificate pending chemical analysis of stomach tests.

Police Are Accused of Beating Negro Held Without Charges

manding officer, Captain Robert Pearce, was away on vacation, but his second in command, Lieut. Charles J. A. Sullivan, said he would start his own investigation without awaiting headquarters action.

Police Private J. C. Gibboney, recorded as the arresting officer at the precinct, declined to comment immediately. He said he might comment as soon as he was off duty early today.

"Such lawless methods of law enforcement, or attempted law enforcement, cannot be tolerated," said Robb in his personally delivered letter to Barrett.

Clegg "committed no offense in the presence of the arresting officer and, at the most, he was 'suspected' of conduct amounting to a misdemeanor," said Robb in the letter.

Arresting Right Questioned

"Under these circumstances the officer had no right to arrest him without a warrant.

"Moreover, as you know, the District of Columbia Code requires that upon an arrest without a warrant, the arresting officer 'shall immediately, and without delay . . . convey in person such offender before the proper court that he may be dealt with according to law.'

"Clegg was detained in wanton disregard of the mandate of this statute. Finally, I take it that no argument is necessary to demonstrate that the beating of a prisoner by a police officer is illegal."

At her neatly furnished apartment, Mrs. Clegg said she had tried frantically to find her husband when he failed to return from work. She called all hospitals and the police, Mrs. Clegg said. But "no one knew where he was," she said.

Finally Located at Station

Late Sunday afternoon she learned he was held at the First Precinct, but that he would not be released until Gibboney, the arresting officer, returned to duty Sunday night, she said. The Cleggs have two children.

Clegg is employed by The Washington Post in its production department. He came there originally as a messenger 19 months ago, immediately after leaving the Coast Guard and has been promoted several times. He was injured during the landings in Normandy.

He is employed from midnight to 8 a. m. About 5:30 a. m. last Saturday, Clegg took his "lunch hour" and afterward went window shopping in the vicinity of 13th and F sts.

Clegg's affidavit accompanying Attorney Robb's letter gave this story of the arrest:

Clegg's Story of Arrest

While window shopping in the early sunshine, Clegg saw a "white lady" get off a streetcar and enter an automobile which drove away. Soon the car returned and the woman left the car and began walking on 13th st. towards E st. Clegg noticed his lunchtime was nearly expired and started walking back to The Washington Post Building also on 13th and on the same side of the street.

"Just then the same car that had picked her up came along and she started to run," said Clegg in the document. "I thought maybe she was running from the man in the car.

"Then I saw a policeman in uniform who came running down the sidewalk and he said to me: 'Hey, boy, wait.'

"I stopped and he came up and grabbed me by the back of the trousers and then some other policemen came up and asked me where I worked and I told him, The Washington Post. . . .

Woman Became Frightened

"He asked me if my trousers were unbuttoned and I said 'No,' and they were not. Then the lady came up and the policeman asked her: 'Is he the one?'

"She said: 'I don't know if he is the one or not, but he was coming behind me and I got frightened and that is the reason I ran.'

"Then the policeman told me to come with him and I asked if I could notify my job and he said: 'No, come on and get in the car.'"

Precinct records show that Gibboney entered Clegg's name in the arrest book at First Precinct at 3:40 a. m., August 2. It shows also he was released at 5 p. m. on August 3.

The section where the nature of the charge is to be entered was still blank at noon yesterday.

Clegg, fearing loss of his job if he just disappeared, said he repeatedly asked permission to telephone his employer and his wife. Invariably, the answer was "No," Clegg said.

Taken to Line-up

"Nobody told me what I was locked up for and I thought maybe there had been a pocketbook snatched, or a robbery, or something," said Clegg.

It was not until 7 o'clock that night, when he was taken to the Detective Bureau line-up, that he had any clews. Then he heard a policeman tell the audience Clegg was held as a suspect for molesting white women with lewd remarks.

No one at the line-up could identify him. Clegg was then taken to the Bureau's Sex Squad for further questioning.

One detective, he said, "asked me to sit down and when I did he said to the other detective, 'I don't care if you kill the black son-of-a-bitch.'"

Refused to Sign "Paper"

Then the first detective "walked around in back of me and hit me on the back of the head with his fist," said Clegg.

"I put my hands up to cover my head and then No. 2 struck me in the face four or five times with the flat of his hand, saying, 'Don't be ducking when this man hits you.'

"Then No. 2 asked me some more questions and then handed me a typewritten statement and asked me to sign it. I asked him what it was and he told me: 'Never mind that, just go ahead and sign it.'

"I said I wouldn't sign it without reading it, and I didn't sign it. Then No. 2 hit me again on the side of the head with his fist and said that he wished he had been the one who had locked me up, that he would have killed me.

Never Arrested Before

"After that we got up to leave the office and, as we got to the door, No. 2 said that if I ever came back, he would shoot both of my eyes out and then he slapped me again."

Clegg said he was brought back to the First Precinct cell about 8 o'clock Saturday night. At least a dozen times he asked permission to use the telephone to call his home and The Washington Post, but the requests were denied.

Clegg said he had never been arrested before and had "never molested any women, white or colored."

Text of Letter Asking Action Against Police

Text of Attorney Roger Robb's letter to Police Superintendent Robert J. Barrett asking for police trial board action against police officers involved in the alleged detention and beating of Julius W. Clegg:

At about 6 o'clock on the morning of Saturday, August 2, 1947, while peaceably and lawfully walking on 13th st., between E and F sts. nw., my client, Julius Willie Clegg, was arrested, without a warrant and illegally, by Officer J. C. Gibboney of the Metropolitan Police. Upon his arrest Clegg was immediately taken to No. 1 Precinct where he was booked for "investigation" (a charge or procedure unknown to our law), and he was thereafter held incommunicado for 34 hours. After such detention he was released, no charge having been preferred against him. During his detention, between 7 and 8 o'clock on Saturday evening, he was taken to the office of the sex squad at headquarters, where he was beaten by two detectives. He does not know the names of these officers, but I believe he can identify them. The details of his arrest, detention and beating are set out in his affidavit, enclosed herewith.

The arrest and detention of my client were completely lawless. In the first place, he committed no offense in the presence of the arresting officer and, at the most, he was "suspected" of conduct amounting to a misdemeanor. Under these circumstances the officer had no right to arrest him without a warrant. Moreover, as you know, the District of Columbia Code requires that upon an arrest without a warrant, the arresting officer "shall immediately, and without delay, . . . convey in person such offender before the proper court that he may be dealt with according to law." (D. C. Code, 1940, Title 4, Section 140.) Clegg was detained in wanton disregard to the mandate of this statute. Finally, I take it that no argument is necessary to demonstrate that the beating of a prisoner by a police officer is illegal.

Such lawless methods of law enforcement, or attempted law enforcement, cannot be tolerated. Accordingly, upon the affidavit submitted herewith, I request:

1. That you prefer charges before the trial board against the officer responsible for the unlawful arrest and detention of Clegg.
2. That you prefer charges before the trial board against the commanding officer of No. 1 Precinct who permitted such unlawful detention.
3. That you prefer charges, both before the trial board and in the criminal courts, against the officers who assaulted Clegg at headquarters.

Very truly yours,
ROGER ROBB.

It's "fresher" than "fresh"—it's "sweeter" than "sweet"! Your GIANT, through the cooperation of the University of Maryland, brings you a specially developed strain of hybrid sugar-sweet golden corn, produced by a single grower in a neighboring Maryland county, judged by experts as the finest corn-raising soil in the United States.

Picked in the wee hours of the morn and ready for your selection at store opening the same day—enabling you to serve it that very evening before almost one-half of its sugar content is converted into starch, which exhaustive tests have proven invariably happens after 24 hours of the cutting of corn.

Pepper Urges Increase in Loan to Britain

By the United Press

Senator Claude Pepper (D., Fla.) suggested yesterday that the United States increase the amount of the $3,750,000,000 British loan to compensate Great Britain for the higher prices she now must pay for United States goods.

He said in a statement that Prime Minister Clement Attlee's economic statement yesterday should "shock this Nation into realizing that economically the United States is a sinking island of prosperity."

"The people of the United States do not wish to appear before the British people as a Shylock asking every condition which the bond requires," he said.

A high-level Anglo-American conference will open here soon to consider Britain's request for "relaxation" of the loan agreement. British officials reportedly do not plan to ask that the loan's total be increased.

But it was indicated that Britain is expected to ask the United States formally in the near future to assume more—if not all—of her financial burdens in the western occupied zone of Germany.

Officials said here that elimination of Britain's 200 million dollar deficit in the merged German zones would be the quickest way to bring relief to Britain in her present economic crisis.

World Bank Grants Loan To Holland

The World Bank handed The Netherlands government a 195 million dollars loan today but specified that none of the money can be spent in the strife-torn Netherlands East Indies.

Stressing its impartiality, the Bank said the credit, the second since it began operations 18 months ago, will be used exclusively to reconstruct productive facilities in The Netherlands homeland.

"None of the proceeds will be applied to The Netherlands East Indies nor for military purposes," an announcement said.

However, the Bank noted that the "beclouded economic relations" with the Dutch East Indies had shut off a "valuable pre-war source of raw materials and income" making it necessary for Holland to seek outside help.

The Netherlands was one of the last European countries to be liberated, the Bank pointed out, and restoration of her economy will "contribute materially to the recovery of Europe as a whole."

The Dutch may buy wherever they want with the funds, but a "large amount of equipment and raw materials as well as a number of ships" will be bought in the United States.

Repayment of principal begins in 1952 at a "modest rate."

The bank is expected to grant two additional loan requests next week—50 million dollars to Denmark and from 10 million dollars to 15 million dollars to the Luxembourg government.

The Netherlands originally sought 535 million dollars for a three-year rehabilitation program.

Talks by Wallace Menace to Peace, Md. Parley Told

Cordova, Md., Aug. 7 (AP).—Recent addresses of former Vice President Wallace have "played directly into the hands of the enemies of peace and reconstruction," State Senate President Joseph R. Byrnes (D., Balto. 5th) declared here yesterday.

Byrnes gave the coronation address at the annual St. Joseph's Catholic Church "tournament," which was won by Francis Callahan of Wye Mills.

Byrnes said the congressional Committee on Un-American Activities had shown that subversive elements had infiltrated "even into the heart of our national Government," and he added, without naming Wallace directly:

"With complete justification, this committee might also classify as un-American the foreign junket of a former Vice President of our country, who played directly into the hands of the enemies of peace and reconstruction with speeches intemperately critical of the international policy of our chosen represenatives.

"In so underminig them he but adds to the distrust and hatred in a world already dangerously oversupplied with these obstacles to a just and lasting peace."

World Must Heed Word of Christ, Physicist Declares

Buffalo, N. Y., Aug. 7 (AP).—A Chinese physicist today told the third world convention of Churches of Christ that the world's salvation "depends on the gospel of Christ."

Dr. H. R. Wei, professor of physics at the University of Nanking and adviser to the Chinese delegation to the United Nations Atomic Energy Commission, said:

"In spite of their present difficulties, Chinese Christians are eager to participate actively in the world Christian movement for a better social order for the glory of God.

"The Chinese Church is faced with many problems. Nationalism, atheism and political ideology are our common enemies throughout the world. After 10 years of war against aggression, both the war of arms and the war of ideas are in full scale all over our country."

3-Power Parley Sought by France On German Plants

Paris, Aug. 7 (AP).—France is asking the United States to suggest how and when a "real discussion" of the industrial ceiling for western Germany can be held between the three western occupying powers, a French government spokesman said today.

He said France had received notes from Washington and London asking France to specify her objections to Anglo-American projects for raising the level of industry in the Anglo-American section of Germany.

The spokesman said France wanted a three-power conference—not necessarily among the foreign minsters, however—to make decisions in common.

Merit System Enacted for Army Officers

President Truman yesterday signed legislation providing for promotion of Army officers on the basis of merit and promising speedier advancement for those of superior attainments.

The new act, in effect, placed Army promotion on the same basis as that which has obtained for some time in the Navy. It also extends the present Navy promotion system to include admirals.

In the past Army officers were placed on a promotion list and automatically became eligible for promotion on the basis of seniority. This system not only offered no incentive to display initiative and imagination in performance of duty but rather penalized those qualities by permitting mediocre officers to attain high command.

Automatic Discharges

Under the new law, every officer of the Army, Navy and Air Force will be placed on a promotion list by seniority. Then selection boards will pick officers to fill vacancies as they occur, on the basis of the officer's record of performance.

Any officer eligible for promotion who is twice passed over by selection boards will be automatically discharged or retired.

Another effect of the act will be to permit young officers of unusual ability to be advanced more rapidly than has been possible in the past in peacetime. This process will be aided by removing incompetent oldsters from places to which younger men can be promoted.

The wartime five-star grades of general of the army and fleet admiral are discontinued except for the officers who now hold that rank.

Limits Set on Brass

The Army is allowed five full (four-star) generals, the Navy four full admirals and the Air Force four full generals and the Marine Corps one. Three-star officers are limited to 23 lieutenant-generals for the Army, 14 for the Air Force and two for the Marine Corps and 23 vice admirals for the Navy.

All wartime temporary appointments in the Navy will be ended within 120 days and Regular Navy officers will receive new permanent rank, most of them in their present temporary grades. Exceptions will include about 300 captains who will be reduced to commanders.

Bomb Hurled at Two India Police Officials

Calcutta, India, Aug. 7 (U.P.).—Deputy Police Commissioners H. S. Ghosh Chowdhury and M. F. Garman narrowly escaped death today when a fanatic hurled a bomb at their jeep as they arrived at the scene of a communal riot here.

Six persons were killed, including one soldier, and about 60 were injured in violence between Hindus and Moslems and in a clash between police and rioters.

Paraguayan Rebels Issue Ultimatum

Buenos Aires, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—A rebel ultimatum to the Paraguayan government to surrender at once or endure an attack on Asuncion, Paraguay's capital, was broadcast today by the insurgent radio, "Voz de la Victoria" (Voice of Victory).

The broadcast, heard on the Argentine frontier, told President Higinio Morinigo to quit and avoid new bloodshed, or "the city will be attacked." Dispatches from Asuncion said the decisive battle of the 5-month-old civil war appeared to be taking shape 60 miles north of Asuncion.

"If you carry out your threat to kill political prisoners now held in Asuncion, you will have to face the consequences," sai dthe broadcast, believed to have emanated from the rebel ship Ituzaingo. It said the ultimatum was issued in the name of Col. Alfredo Ramos, a rebel commander.

The broadcast said the insurgents had made a new landing at Piquetecue, 20 miles north of the capital, and captured a town only 12 miles away.

Radio Nacional, the government radio in Asuncion, was heard broadcasting appeals to the populace to remain calm and telling them that the city was not in danger.

Majority Oppose Communist Rule, Thuransky Holds

Paris, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Stephan Thuransky, 54-year-old naturalized American citizen who fought off his political jailers in Budapest with the aid of his wife and sped to safety in an American legation automobile, said today that 90 per cent of Hungarians are opposed to the present Communist dominated regime.

Thursansky, a farm machinery salesman from Columbus, Ohio, arrived today with his wife, Theresa, 43, and their daughters Margaret, 25, and Mary 21 after an airplane flight from Budapest.

"We spent a year in Hungary" Thuransky said. "I was supposed to sell farm machinery, but I never sold a single piece. Hungarians would come to me all the time and tell me what they thought of the Communists.

"I never thought it could happen to me, an American citizen—being arrested. You can imagine what is happening all the time to the Hungarians. Ninety per cent are against communism."

Deacon Spry at 98

Bridgton, Me. (U.P.) — Deacon George W. Rounds, Bridgton's oldest resident, observed his 98th birthday by overhauling a spraying machine he uses to protect his 200 apple trees.

Welcome, Stranger

Altus, Okla. (U.P.).—Newcomers to this city will be welcomed at informal get-togethers known as the "coffee hour." The Chamber of Commerce greeting committee invited 25 new residents to its first "coffee hour."

Russia Denied Data on Trade Plans

Tokyo, Aug. 7 (U.P.).—U. S. Ambassador George Atcheson, jr., today denied a request by Maj. Gen. A. P. Kislenko, Russian member of the Allied Council, to obtain information about Japan's projected resumption of foreign trade.

Atcheson, as council chairman, said that compiling the voluminous data would place too heavy a burden on Allied headquarters officials and discussion in the council would infringe on activities of the Far Eastern Commission which meets in Washington.

Kislenko wanted to know what kinds of goods and what quantities would be exported by Japan, what measures were being taken to increase production, and what reasons were hindering development of Japan's production.

Palestine Stops Work, Traffic As Protest

Jerusalem, Aug 7 (AP).—All work was stopped, traffic was halted, and shops were closed for three hours today in the Jewish towns and villages of Palestine, as a protest against a roundup by British officials of about 40 Jewish leaders in an attempt to halt terrorism.

The work stoppage, in which some 600,000 Jews participated, was marked by a few minor disturbances in Tel Aviv, but there were no casualties.

A spokesman in Tel Aviv for Hagana, self-styled Jewish defense army, said today that arrest of the Jewish leaders, including mayors of three large cities, would not stop Hagana's campaign against terrorism or its attempts to bring uncertified Jewish immigrants to Palestine.

Mayors taken to Latrun dentention camp include Dr. Israel Rockach, of Tel Aviv; Oved Ben Ami, of Natanya, and Abraham Krinitzi, of Ramat Gan.

Four soldiers suffered minor injuries tonight when a road mine exploded under a staff car and field ambulance near Hadera, on the northern Palestine coastal plain. The blast brought to 84 the number of security force members injured since July 16.

Immigrant Ship Leaves

Marseille, Aug. 7 (U.P.).—The British freighter, Runnymede Park, one of the three which carried the 4000 disappointed Jewish immigrants of "Exodus 1947" back to French waters, today completed refueling and steamed out of Marseille Harbor for Port De Bouc.

The Runnymede Park anchored alongside the Ocean Vigour while the third freighter, Empire Rival, entered Marseille Harbor to take aboard fuel and supplies.

Extraordinary precautionary measures were taken by port authorities to prevent any untoward incident during the ships' stay in the port.

It was reported here yesterday that when the three had completed loading operations the ships would sail immediately under sealed orders.

Only One Anti-Semitic Incident

Orchard Opened To Entire School

Andrews, Ind. (U.P.).—Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Keefer have an unwritten agreement with the 320 pupils in the Dallas Township school next to their three-acre apple orchard.

The Keefers put out a basket of apples a day from which each student is permitted two apples a day. The children agree to stay out of the orchard and not to shake the trees.

This year, however, the apple crop was poor and the children were allowed to go into the orchard and eat any apples they could find or shake from the trees.

Odom Takes Off on 2d Leg of World Flight

Gander, Newfoundland, Aug. 7 (U.P.).—William P. Odom left the airport here at 9:11 p. m. (8:11 p. m. Washington time) in his A-26 Bombshell tonight on the second leg of his planned around-the-world flight.

Makes Repairs in Air

Chicago, Aug. 7 (AP).—William P. Odom, 27, gunning his converted Army bomber eastward from Chicago at a 325-mile-an-hour clip in an attempt to cut Wiley Post's globe-circling flight time record in half, repaired his disabled automatic pilot in the air today and radioed "everything okay."

As Odom's plane passed over Presque Isle, Me., en route to Stephensville, Newfoundland, for his first scheduled stop, he radiotelephoned Chicago that he had corrected a short circuit in his automatic pilot by flushing out a flooded junction box with a fire extinguisher.

The former British ferry command officer, radioed the Douglas Airport that rainwater had short-circuited his automatic pilot and that he was forced to remain at the controls.

Odom, who established a world's nonsolo globe-circling record of 78 hours and 55½ minutes in the same plane last April with Milton Reynolds, Chicago pen manufacturer as passenger, hopes to complete the solo flight in 90 to 94 hours. Post's record, set in 1933, is 186 hours.

His itinerary calls for Chicago to Stephensville, to Paris or Rome, to Cairo (if he chooses Paris instead of Rome), Karachi, India; Calcutta, India; Shanghai, Tokyo, Anchorage, Alaska, or Adak, Aleutians; Edmonton, Alberta, and Chicago.

Orlando Quits Italian Assembly

Rome, Aug. 7 (U.P.).—Victor Emmanuel Orlando, Italy's senior statesma nand surviving member of the "Big Four" of Versailles, today announced that he had resigned from the constitutional assembly.

In a letter to Umberto Terracini, Communist president of the assembly, Orlando said he resigned because the assembly had approved the Italian ratification of the peace treaty. He added that the imprecations hurled at him after he had made his speech denouncing ratification had nothing to do with his decision

Ex-Premier Urges New Greek Cabinet

By M. W. Fodor

Athens, (By Airmail).—The Greek government has failed and a new one must take its place, in the opinion of the man who stopped the civil war of 1944.

General Nicholas Plastiras, who came back from exile during the regency of Archbishop Damaschinos, to end the fighting that then raged in the very center of Athens, is one of an increasing number of people who have come to the conclusion that the present government cannot put an end to the murderous civil war that now rages.

When General Plastiras was made premier in 1944 the crisis seemed as insoluble as the present one. Plastiras, by the force of his personality, his daring and his influence, brought an end to the war. The Varkitza Agreement, signed during his rule, produced an armistice between warring factions. Then differences arose between the general and the British. He refused to be an obident agent of Winston Churchill and had to go. Many feel that his resignation, engineered by the British, helped cause the present situation in Greece.

Asks Immediate Solution

This correspondent visited General Plastiras in his Athens home. At 64, the six-foot, three-inch tall general is as erect as a young soldier. He has a dark olive complexion which is in lively contrast to his white, martial upturned moustache. Unlike Greek politicians, he wears simple clothes and cotton shirts.

General Plastiras told me that the general situation has been dangerously aggravated during the last weeks by the inactivity and inability of the present government. He warned that the situation required immediate solution. If there is no early solution, there will be no solution at all.

General Plastiras summed up his ideas as to how to remedy the present impasse as follows:

"The present government has failed, and a new one must take its place. Some believe that a Liberal minority government would be the answer. Under the present major crisis it is impossible to entrust the affairs of Greece to a minority government. I firmly believe that only a government outside of politics, outside of the parties, could alone inspire confidence in Greece's days of tragic trial. Such a government must have an impartial character, and at the same time enjoy the confidence of the political parties. Such a cabinet of personalities could restore order, and, through a generous amnesty, it could bring down 80 per cent of the fighters from the mountains. I myself believe that 100 per cent of the guerillas could be induced to come down, but even if 20 per cent would remain in the mountains, we would be faced by an entirely different situation from that of today."

"Cabinet of Personalities"

General Plastiras paused. Then he added:

"I am an old soldier. I know that the present conflict cannot be solved by military means. A solution by military methods would demand a sizable Greek army that would simply ruin Greece economically. I believe that 'salus populi suprema est lex'—the welfare of the people is the supreme law. Therefore, I propose that the King shall appoint a government of personalities as a provisory solution for a few months. Such a cabinet must consist of personalities who inspire confidence in the majority of the population, both right and left.

"The best solution would be if King Paul could convince the present majority in the Chamber to vote confidence to such a provisory government whose sole duty would be to restore order in Greece. If the King can persuade his followers that this is the best solution, the Chamber could be closed for the three or four months required to restore order.

"Another solution would be if the King would dissolve the House. In this case, however, the constitution requires that elections should be held within 45 days after the date of the dissolution. Such elections are impossible while a civil war is being fought in the north. Therefore, either the House should adjourn and give full power to the new cabinet, or the King should entrust a new government to create order, dissolving Parliament with the understanding that new elections should be held as soon as law and order are again established.

Ousted Through British

"In a supreme emergency such as exists at present I can see no other solution. Naturally such a government must include personalities who can not only inspire the political parties with confidence, but also the army and gendarmerie."

Nicholas Plastiras was born in Karditsa, near Mount Olympus, in 1883. As a colonel in the Asia Minor army in 1922 he was responsible for depriving King Constantine of his throne. Public opinion in those days, rightly or wrongly, held Constantine responsible for the disaster of the Greek armies in Asia Minor. In the free elections of 1923 a republican president was elected, to whom Plastiras handed over his powers which he exercised as head of state. He then went into retirement with the rank of general. In 1933 he went into voluntary exile in France, wherefrom he was called in December, 1944, to act as Premier during the fight against the Communists. After the Varkitza Agreement which terminated the civil strife British intrigues ousted him from power.

Two UMW Organizers 'Strike' Against Union

Fairmont, W. Va., Aug. 7 (AP).—Two union organizers for United Mine Workers' District 50 said today they were on strike against their union because of "excessively small" fees allowed them for travel expenses.

The men, who identified themselves to reporters as H. D. Tomlinson of Monongah and C. B. Neitzelt, said they struck July 26.

Bulgaria Returns 'Insult,' Calls Greece Satellite, Hits Britain

Lake Success, Aug. 7 (AP).—Bulgaria today accused Britain of starting a civil war in Greece and indirectly labeled Greece a satellite of "certain big powers."

Assailing Greek Ambassador Vassili Dendramis for telling the United Nations Security Council that Bulgaria, Yugoslavia and Albania were Russian satellites, Bulgarian Representative Nissin Mevorah declared to the Council there was much more reason to call Greece a satellite in view of "the political and economic dependence of Greece on certain big powers."

Then lashing out at Britain specifically in the midst of heated debate on Balkan disorders, the Bulgar added:

"It is well known that Britain established the present regime in Greece. They gave the signal for the civil war which has bathed Greece in blood for almost three years and transformed Greek independence into a myth."

Mevorah said the Greek reference to satellites was an "intolerable insult."

Chairman Faris el Khoury, Syria, noted that Dendramis already had stricken the phrase from the record after a reprimand from the chair.

A seven-nation subcommittee attempting to work out an acceptable resolution on halting Balkan frontier disturbances scheduled a session for tomorrow after a fruitless meeting this morning.

Following a Russian veto of the American resolution and the 9 to 2 defeat of Russian and Polish proposals, the Council was without a definite plan of any kind on the Greek case.

Communists Stop Hungarian Revolt, Professor Says

Baltimore, Aug. 7 (AP).—Communists are preventing revolt in Hungary through a network of "house commanders," contends Dr. Valentine de Balla, a refugee professor.

Every apartment house in Hungary is under the surveillance of a house commander "whose job is to look after the political behavior of the tenants," De Balla said here last night.

The commanders' power is so great that they can decide how much food each tenant is entitled to, he said in an address to the twenty-ninth annual convention of the Maryland American Legion.

De Balla, now professor of political science at Loyola College, fled his native Hungary last summer.

Hungarian tenants, to ingratiate themselves with the house commanders, inform on their friends, he said.

Poultry, Eggs Lead in Md. Farm Produce

Westminster, Md., Aug. 7 (AP).—Poultry and egg production accounts for more business than any other farm industry in Maryland, 100-odd delegates to the State Poultry Council were told today over a breakfast of Carroll County "Super Grade A" eggs, sunny side up.

Dr. Morley A. Jull, extension poultryman at the University of Maryland, said the poultry business grossed $60,217,000 in 1946, compared to $53,349,000 earned from dairy products, second leading agricultural industry in the State.

The trophy for contributing most to poultry production in Maryland was awarded to R. C. Morris of Trappe.

Second and third prize at the egg breakfast were awarded to Lawrence E. Fiery of Smithsburg and Sam Ahmuty of Odenton.

Dr. Harry C. Byrd, president of the University of Maryland, told the poultrymen eggs are "the greatest economic value in America—cheap at any price and worth more than meat any time."

Hhe said his household uses 10 dozen eggs a week, thereby saving on doctors' bills.

A case of eggs was presented to Dr. Byrd and to Dr. T. B. Symons, dean of the university's agricultural college by nine-year-old Janet and 12-year-old Delores Busch, whose father, E. E. Busch, runs a poultry farm at Harney.

The poultrymen would up their two-day meeting with a tour of Carroll County poultry farms in a motorcade with a State Police escort. Walter Spearin of Salisbury is president of the group.

Band Camp to Open

Leonardtown, Md., Aug. 7.—A 30-mile speed limit in and around St. Leonard's Creek village has been set by the State Road Commission as a result of a number of accidents in Calvert County.

Homecoming

Rain Fails To Halt Fete At Tangier

Tangier, Va., Aug. 7 (AP).—Rain throughout the forenoon curtailed the crowd but did not delay the opening of this tiny Chesapeake Bay Island's annual homecoming celebration today.

A spokesman estimated the attendance at between 1200 and 1500 and predicted that an even larger turnout could be expected for tomorrow and Saturday. The weather improved in the afternoon, permitting the playing of a baseball game between Chincoteague naval air station and Tangier, the opening event of the celebration program.

Mayor Ray Crockett welcomed the celebration crowd and tomorrow Governor Tuck will fly to the Eastern Shore and come here by boat to extend his greetings to the residents of this island and their guests.

Besides the baseball game, the day's homecoming program included a Tom Thumb minstrel show, acrobatic stunts and a religious service in which two ministers who are natives of Tangier, the Rev. Waldo Dise and the Rev. Ewell Crockett, were participants.

A baby show, originally planned for today, was rescheduled for tomorrow afternoon, and tomorrow night's program lists a fashion show, selection of "Miss Tangier," and a ministrel show. On Saturday there will be bicycle and foot races, fireworks, a minstrel show, a songfest and a religious service.

New Post to Install

Indian Head, Md., Aug. 7.—Officers of the new American Legion Post here will be installed shortly, and other posts will be filled at the meeting at 8 p. m. on August 30 at the VFW Memorial Home, Glymont, according to John A. Bloom, post commander.

Other officers of the post, which as yet has not been assigned a number, are Lavins Fountaine, first vice commander; Kenneth Hartman, second vice commander; Henry Grimes, adjutant, and Robert Wilson, finance officer.

A membership drive is under way, and meetings will be held on the third Wednesday of each month, Bloom said.

State Ready To Purchase Md. Navy Base

Annapolis, Md., Aug. 7 (AP).—The State's Board of Natural Resources got a "go ahead" today on its idea that the State could get some good out of the Navy's Solomon's Island amphibious training base.

The Board of Public Works authorized it to dicker with the Navy for purchase of the 117-acre site at the tip end of Calvert County on the Southern Maryland Peninsula bounded by the Patuxent River and Chesapeake Bay.

The Natural Resources Board thought it might come in handy as a recreation area, a repair depot for the Tidewater Fisheries Commission enforcement fleet, and as a training ground for personnel of the Tidewater Commission, the Forestry Department and the Inland Game and Fish Commission.

State Engineer John B. Funk told the public works panel that there is about $100,000 worth of salvageable equipment on the campsite.

It was at Solomons Island that the Navy and Marine Corps first tried out amphibious landing operations which set the pattern for the long island-hopping campaign against the Japs in the Pacific. Marines who maneuvered ashore at Solomons later stormed Guadalcanal and others of the Solomon Island chain wrested from the Japs.

Funk told the Board of Public Works that the Navy indicated it might sell the base for somewhere between $2000 and $5000.

It was his idea that State prison labor could be used to tear down some of the 119 buildings. The Navy would indicate which of these buildings ought to be left and it would retain the right to reclaim the base quickly in case of a new national emergency.

Funk said there is enough lavatory equipment there to provide for the needs of State institutions for the next several years. He pointed out that the installations include boat repair shops which could be used to maintain the tidewater fisheries fleet.

Two Danville Residents Die In Plane Crash

Danville, Va., Aug. 7 (AP).—Two Danville residents were killed when a small passenger plane crashed and burned in the Vandola section of Pittsylvania County this afternoon.

Southern Airways, Inc., owners of the plane, identified the pilot as Guy Carrington, 20-year-old insurance salesman of Danville. Airline officials said the plane had been checked out to him and a teen-age boy early this afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Hall of Danville told the Danville Register that they held "grave fears" that the passenger was their son, Sonny Hall, 13. They said he had left with Carrington for the airport a few minutes before the plane crashed.

The accident was witnessed by a number of residents of the area which is about six miles west of Danville. One of them, Mrs. Josephine Mize, said she was walking along a dirt road when the plane nosed down from a low altitude and crashed into a small clearing 40 feet from her.

Willard Fulcher, a farmer, was in his home at the time and heard the crash of the plane. He was among the first to reach the plane but it burst into flames before he could reach those in it. He said he heard no cries from them before flames enveloped the small craft.

The Civil Aeronautic Authority was notified at Roanoke and officials of the CAA there said they would send investigators here tomorrow to try to determine the cause of the crash.

Billboards Barred

Baltimore, Aug. 7 (AP).—At least part of the countryside along the new highway from Hagerstown to Frederick will be devoted strictly to natural beauty and not billboards, the State Roads Commission said today.

The commission and confederation of Western Maryland communities have decided to establish areas which will be designated as "protected" through voluntary cooperative arrangements with the communities concerned.

Boat Licensing Asked

Leonardtown, Md., Aug. 7.—The board of national resources of the Chesapeake Biological Research Laboratories at Solomons Island Calvert County, has recommended legislation to license all inboard motorboats used for hook-and-line fishing more than 500 yards offshore.

Half of Fund Raised

Frederick, Md., Aug. 7.—More than half the $600,000 sought in public contributions to the building campaign of Frederick Memorial Hospital has been secured it was announced last night at a campaign dinner meeting.

BarAssociation Of Va. Opens 3-Day Meeting

Roanoke, Va., Aug. 7 (AP).—A reception at which President Thomas B. Gay of Richmond greeted convention delegates, launched the three-day annual convention of the Virginia State Bar Association here tonight.

The opening business session was held tonight, highlighted by the president's address and a report on membership applications.

Besides the president's address, the convention will hear addresses by Associate Justice Robert H. Jackson of the United States Supreme Court, tomorrow night; F. D. G. Ribble, dean of the University of Virginia Law School, tomorrow noon; Walter P. Armstrong, of Memphis, Tenn., a former president of the American Bar Association, Saturday morning, and John W. Delehant, United States district judge in Nebraska, Saturday night.

Opening of the bar association's meeting followed the ninth annual meeting of the Virginia State bar, which this afternoon heard an address by Judge Willis D. Miller of Richmond Law and Equity Court, in which he reviewed recent decisions of the Virginia Supreme Court of Appeals in divorce and annulment cases, custody of children, and separation agreements.

The State bar's committee on unauthorized practice of law recommended today that the Third District Committee of the Virginia State bar retain a lawyer to initiate a test case seeking to enjoin lay traffic experts from practing law before the State Corporation Commission.

Don P. Bagwell of Halifax, vice chairman of the committee, who made the proposal, said that while laymen may present factual evidence before the SCC it is illegal for them to examine witnesses and draw up pleadings as he said many have been doing.

The recommendation was submitted to the executive committee which has the power to act.

President M. M. Long of St. Paul in his report to the State bar suggested that a thorough canvass be made of attorneys in the State to determine whether they or their communities need additional lawyers as a means of helping young lawyers to find employment.

Killed by Motorcycle

Middletown, Va., Aug. 7 (AP).—Mrs. Edna Dinges O'Neal, 68, widow of William O'Neal, was struck and fatally injured by a motorcycle on Route 11, near her home a mile and a half north of here, last night.

State Trooper C. A. Seale, who investigated, said Mrs. O'Neal was returning from a neighbor's home when she was struck. Virgil Polk, 29, of Strasburg, driver of the motorcycle, suffered a fractured collarbone, and numerous cuts and bruises. He was treated at a Woodstock hospital.

Mrs. O'Neal, a native of Frederick County and active member of Cedar Cliff Presbyterian Church, is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Locke Bushong of Manassas and Mrs. Robert Van Meter of Middletown.

Cutoff Work Begun

Richmond, Va., Aug. 7 (AP).—Construction was under way today on a cutoff on Route 6 between Scottsville and Route 29 in Albemarle County, the State Highway Department announced.

The new line will cut across country from near the Nelson County line toward Esmont, eliminating two miles of winding road and two narrow and dangerous railroad crossings. The project, undertaken by the State, will cost $88,000.

'World Red Party' Myth, Eisler Says

Parade of Communist 'Authorities' Testifies at Passport Fraud Trial

Gerhart Eisler testified yesterday that he couldn't be a leader in a "World Communist Party" because no such organization exists.

The little German, who was described as a secret agent of the Russians, finished testifying yesterday in his passport fraud trial in District Court. He told reporters the day's proceedings were boring and lacking in "political importance."

His attorneys then began to put on a parade of Communist "authorities" in an attempt to disprove contentions of Government witnesses that Eisler used numerous aliases as a member of various Communist organizations. He is charged with concealing these aliases and his membership in applying for an alien exit permit.

Trial's Speedup Sought

Meanwhile Justice James W. Morris was attempting to narrow the issues so that there will be no unnecessary dragging on of the trial, which is beginning its fifth week.

To prosecutor William Hitz, the jurist chided: "If we can possibly avoid it, let's leave out of this case the philosophy of Lenin."

Hitz tried to prove by means of a so-called 1928 Constitution for the World Communist Party that an international network of Communist members exists. Justice Morris blocked Hitz' attempt as "incidental."

To defense attorney Abraham Isserman, Justice Morris shouted, "And we don't need the philosophy of Stalin in the case either."

Avrom Landy, described as a book publisher and formerly assistant chairman of the Ohio Communist Party, denied the Government's theory that in the 1930s Eisler once dictated the slate for the Communist Party Central Committee.

"No one man could possibly do that," Landy said.

Uninformed on Aliases

Then Abraham B. Magil, executive editor of the New Masses, testified that he knew Eisler but didn't know of his having used aliases. Several times, Justice Morris had to caution Magil not to elaborate on such subjects as "The Communist Party fights oppression and poverty."

Joseph Starabin, an editor of the Daily Worker, testified that Eisler never worked directly for that Communist newspaper, and certainly did not control its policies. Starabin said that he used the pen name of Hans Berger for the Daily Worker and other Communist publications.

Previously Eisler testified he also wrote as Hans Berger, but for publications which he said did not bear the Communist stamp.

Wool Tariff Cut Offered To Australia

Geneva, Switzerland, Aug. 7 (U.P.). Undersecretary of State for Economic Affairs William L. Clayton last night offered Australia a reduction in American wool tariffs in exchange for a concession in British imperial preferences, official International Trade Conference quarters said today.

Details of the reported offer were not disclosed. Clayton returned from a special American diplomatic session in Paris and held a four-hour conference last night with John Dedman, Australian Minister for Postwar Reconstruction.

An American spokesman said there was now reason to hope the deadlock in tariff negotiations could be broken. American discussion with all members of the British Commonwealth had been stymied by disagreements on the American wool tariff.

The Australians contacted delegations from the United Kingdom, South Africa and New Zealand to discuss American requests for concessions on imperial preferential tariffs.

Mushroom Walk Tomorrow Opens Weekend Hike Schedule

If you like mushrooms, but can't tell the difference between the safe and poisonous varieties, it may be worth your while to join a mushroom walk to be conducted from 3 to 5 p. m. tomorrow in Rock Creek Park.

John A Stevenson of the Department of Agriculture will conduct the walk, one of several events sponsored for this weekend by National Capital Parks of the National Park Service. Stevenson and W. Drew Chick, park naturalist, will meet the mushroom walkers at 16th and Underwood sts. nw.

Five miles of strenuous hiking are promised on a Park Service trip to Shenandoah National Park on Sunday. Motorists may meet the caravan at 11:30 a. m. at the Front Royal checking station on Skyline Drive, one mile south of Front Royal, Va. Special buses will leave 1416 F st. nw. at 9 a. m. for the trip. Reservations may be made through MIchigan 6363, ext. 400 or 401. Participants should bring suitable hiking clothes and lunches.

A historical tour, led by Stanley W. McClure, park historian, will organize at 2:30 p. m. Sunday at the Lincoln Emancipation Statue in Lincoln Park, 11th and E. Capitol sts.

A nature ramble on the C. & O. Canal towpath will be conducted by James Fowler, ranger-naturalist, from 3 to 5 p. m. Sunday. This group will assemble at Stop 30 on the Glen Echo carline, MacArthur blvd. and Walhonding rd.

A horse-drawn "Canal Clipper" will leave Lock 6, near the Glen Echo carline, at 2 p. m. tomorrow, and at 9 a. m. and 2 p. m. Sunday, returning from Foundry Branch at 4:30 p. m. tomorrow and at 11:30 a. m. and 4:30 p. m. Sunday.

Siegel's Girl Friend Flying to New York

Paris, Aug. 7 (U.P.).—Virginia Hill, girl friend of the late California gangster, Benjamin (Bugsy) Siegel, took off by transatlantic plane for New York tonight "to seek peace—maybe by jumping out of the plane.

"Now that they've killed Ben—(she calls him Ben, not Bugsy)—I am completely alone in the world," she said. "I have no home and life isn't worth living."

'For Wise Dome Sake . . .'

LIFE IN AN AIRPLANE BEACON—Mary Lou Simmons of Occoquan, Va., can—as anyone can plainly see—sit inside the new plastic dome for Federal airways beacons, developed by the Army Engineer Research and Development Laboratories at Fort Belvoir, Va. The Civil Aeronautics Administration requested the dome as a proposed substitute for the heavier, more costly and easily broken glass tops now in use

Increased Wages Help Boost National Income to 193 Billion

Americans are getting more income this year than ever before in history. Yesterday the Commerce Department reported national income in June was running at the rate of 193 billion dollars a year.

This represents an annual increase of more than 1200 million dollars above the previous monthly high established in March.

At the same time the Bureau of Labor Statistics reported the Wholesale Price Index went up to a new postwar peak. At 151.3 per cent of the 1926 average, it still is slightly below the all-time record of 167 of May, 1920.

The June increase in national income, Commerce said, was mainly due to higher wages and salaries and bigger income for farmers. In addition, it said, "a full workmonth in the telephone industry after the telephone strike contributed substantially."

Last week's increase in wholesale prices, BLS said, was largely due to higher prices for steel and some building materials. The increase, it added, was 0.5 per cent above the previous week—an annual rate of 26 per cent a year.

One bright spot in the price situation, however, was a report from Cincinnati that Procter & Gamble Co. had lowered the wholesale price of Ivory Soap six per cent, and the price of Crisco vegetable shortening eight per cent yesterday.

Lower costs of raw materials made the reductions possible, the company said. The announcement reflected better supplies of fats and oils, particularly lard, which is now selling below OPA ceiling prices of a year ago.

Farmers' prices will remain high during the next few months, the Bureau of Agriculture Economics predicted in a monthly survey. The prediction was based on "strong demand and prospects for smaller output."

During the last month, BAE said, "farmers got higher prices for livestock and products, corn, cotton, rice and potatoes. Returns from wheat, fruits and truck crops were down.

"Prices received by farmers averaged up 5 points from June and six higher than for the first six months."

Doctor Discovers New Technique for Detecting Cancer

New York, Aug 7 (U.P.).—A technique of using fluorescein and ultra violet light in the detection of some types of cancer was disclosed tonight by Dr. George E. Moore of the University of Minnesota medical school.

The technique, which will be reported in tomorrow's issue of Science, official magazine of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, was found to have the best results in the examination of brain tumors. It also was used, however, in the examination of tumors in the gastrointestinal tract and 17 miscellaneous cases.

The fluorescein was injected into the veins of the patient and the suspicious area was subjected to ultra violet light. Moore reported that a "difference between normal and malignant tissues could be observed."

The studies on cancer of the colon, stomach and breast were not so successful, he found.

Atlanta Dentist Claims Technique To End Bridgework

Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 7 (U.P.).—An Atlanta dentist has worked out and given practical application to a technique that he predicts will largely do away with bridgework in the near future.

Dr. Stephen Ferlita calls it "reimplantation." It is a system of extracting rotting and abcessed teeth, cleaning and rebuilding them and replacing them in their original sockets, where he says they grow back firmly into place.

Dr. Ferlita has been practicing here for 22 years. Since last September he has tried his "reimplantation" treatment on four patients. He said it worked every time.

(In New York, dental authorities said the procedure was "an old story 40 years ago" which never has been approved. They said teeth so replaced were subject to new abcesses at any time and that root absorption could occur.)

Continuing Steady Increase In Farm Land Prices Alarms

In spite of combined efforts of Government and private agencies to hold down farm land prices they are still going up, the Bureau of Agricultural Economics said yesterday.

In the four months ending July 1 farm prices jumped 2 per cent. The number of voluntary sales recorded in the last 12 months have been the highest in history.

In States close by Washington, the greatest increase in prices has been registered in Virginia, where land sold at an average of 111 per cent above the 1935-39 average.

In Maryland land prices are 99 per cent above the prewarlevel; in Delaware, 91 per cent; in West Virginia, 64 per cent, and in Pennsylvania, 69 per cent.

Average 95% Increase

The average values for the country are now 95 per cent above the prewar level.

Sharpest increases were noted in the wheat and cattle lands of the Southwest, although the greatest increase shown by any single State was in Kentucky with sales 170 per cent above 1935-39.

More than half the great number of farms sold in the last three years have ben sold for cash, the bureau stated.

In an effort to discourage the high prices being paid for farms, the Farmers Home Administration has listed the prices of farm products on which the earning capacity is based in making loans under the Bankhead-Jones Farm Tenant Act.

Price Expectations Given

As a basis fo rloans, the Administration lists, for instance, a "long-time price" for cattle at $6.35 a hundred pounds, against the farm price in May 1947 of $18.60. The production value of hogs is listed at $7.25 against the May price of $22.90; sheep at $3.80 against $8.78; and chickens at 15 cents a pound instead of the May price of 28 cents. Corn is listed at 63 cent as bushel instead of the May $1.59; wheat at 75 cents instead of $2.39; cotton at 10 to 12 cents instead of 33 cents. Flaxseed is listed at $1.60 a bushel instead of the present value of $6.01.

In its report on the farm land boom, the Bureau of Agricultural Economics said farm real estate is up 10 per cent above a year ago.

It is now only five percent below the 1920 inflationary peak. A sudden break in the 1920 prices sent thousands of farmers, who had bought land on credit at inflated prices, into bankruptcy.

Conference Effort Failed

Two months ago President Truman called a conference of farm lending agencies here to study means of halting the inflationary trend in farm prices. The meeting, held behind closed doors, was reported to have ended in violent disagreement.

In making the report, the Department of Agriculture warned that there is danger that some farmers may have difficulty in meeting mortgage payments and other fixed obligations when farm commodity prices have become readjusted from present abnormally high levels.

WINE IS A SPECIAL VALUE TODAY
You can use wine to flavor your cooking. Serve the rest at the table. And, at little cost, make your whole meal taste better

HOW TO USE WINE IN COOKING

- ☑ as a seasoning, like salt and pepper
- ☑ to baste meats, and bring out their flavor
- ☑ to make simple dishes taste extra good

WINE is widely used as a seasoning. It is one of the best-known ways to give a better taste to foods. The small amount of alcohol in wine evaporates during the cooking, leaving just a delicate flavor.

For example, basting a roast of beef with red table wine, like Claret or Burgundy, enhances the flavor of the meat. The same thing happens when you add white table wine like Sauterne to lamb stew. And Port or Sherry wine is often added to fruits to give them more flavor as dessert. You will find these good things to try. And for a free booklet of other wine-cooking ideas and recipes, write Wine Advisory Board, 717 Market Street, San Francisco 3, California.

Largest Red Farm Delivers 8% More Wheat Than Quota

Moscow, Aug. 7 (U.P.).—Russia's largest state farm, which had 370,000 acres in grain this year, has delivered 177,600 tons of wheat to the state, agricultural officials announced today. That was 8 per cent more than quota.

The yield on the farm at Tselina, in the Rosto-on-Don area, varied, with one 7500-acre tract, it was announced, producing 16 bushels to the acre, and a 200-acre tract 25 bushels to the acre, the highest yield reported on the farm.

Agricultural officials said there was a shortage of storage and transport for the record grain harvest in some sections willing to hazard a guess on what the next step would be. George B. Robey, chairman of the county Democratic Executive Committee, must certify the successful nominee to the State Election Board by August 12.

He spent the afternoon in the office of the Clerk of the Court studying the State election law. The whole thing may be settled by drawing straws.

This belief was supported by Abram P. Staples, attorney general for Virginia, who told The Washington Post last night that he believed State law would prescribe such a course. He said he did not know, offhand, who would draw the lots, however.

Robey told reporters that one section in the State election law provides that in the case of a tie, the State Election Board will break the tie by lot. Another school of thought is that Fairfax County Board of Canvassers would have to break the tie.

So right now it is anybody's race, nothing official and nothing settled.

St. Elizabeths Gets Man Who Flashed Pistol in Capitol

Clifton R. H. Spires, 39, who was arrested July 23 with a pistol in his pocket at the Capitol just after President Truman had visited the Senate, was committed to St. Elizabeths Hospital yesterday.

A Municipal Court jury needed only 10 minutes to decide that Spires was of unsound mind. Judge George D. Neilson then ordered the treatment.

Spires, identified as a former patient in a veterans' hospital at Augusta, Ga., was arrested after flashing a .25-caliber pistol in a Senate washroom. At that time he denied knowledge that the President was in the Capitol.

MIT Head Holds President Erred In Science Bill Veto

Boston, Aug. 7 (U.P.).—President Truman was "poorly advised" in vetoing the National Science Foundation bill which would have granted Federal financiall support to universities and colleges, Dr. Karl T. Compton, president of Massachusette Institute of Aechnology, said today.

"I believe the values to the nation of getting the program going promptly outweigh the objections to the form of the bill," Dr. Compton said in a prepared statement.

"Practiccally everyone agrees," he said, "that the universities and colleges cannot contribute their part in meeting the postwar scientific needs of the country on their prewar basis of financial support."

Trieste Frontier Board Reported Attacked

Trieste, Aug. 7 (AP).—The newspaper Voce Libera said today that members of the four-power commission studying the frontiers of the future international zone of Trieste were attacked and manhandled Tuesday in the Yugoslav-occupied zone of Venezia Giulia.

The newspaper said four truckloads of Yugoslav demonstrators attacked the commission members, who were visiting frontier areas in discharge of their duties. It added that the American delegate was struck on the head by a Yugoslav wielding a stick and that the Russian was dragged from his car.

Film Exporters Find 'Gimmick' In British Tax

New York, Aug. 7 (AP).—Britain's new 75 per cent tax on earnings of imported motion pictures will, in effect, net Americans less than the 25 per cent balance indicated, the Motion Picture Association of America, Inc., said today.

Eric Johnston, association president, will preside tomorrow at a meeting of the association's board of directors.

Fayette W. Allport, London representative, said that if gross rentals of an American motion picture imported by England totaled $1,200,000, only $210,000 can be transmitted to the American distributor, rather than the $300,000, or 25 per cent, originally indicated.

Allport said 30 per cent or $360,000 must first be deducted for distribution and handling costs. Of the remittable balance of $840,000, only 25 per cent, or $210,000 can be remitted to America, while $630,000 would go into the British treasury.

Allport contended this made the British tax actually more than the 75 per cent announced.

craft carrier USS Franklin from a battle area off the coast of Japan while "Kamikaze" pilots tried repeatedly to sink the sorely wounded ship.

In June 1945, he brought the Pittsburgh into the Bremerton, Wash., Navy Yard after a trip across the Pacific which earned him the Legion of Merit. The Pittsburgh had lost more than 100 feet of her bow in a typhoon. And, without the loss of a man, Admiral Gingrich turned his ship in the rough seas while the waves broke over the bridge more than 80 feet above her decks. The Pittsburgh ploughed her way 900 miles from Okinawa to Guam, where a temporary bow was put on for the trip to Bremerton.

Admiral Gingrich returned to the Pacific as Chief of Staff of the fast carrier fleet, Task Force 38. After the war, he came back to Washington as Assistant Chief of Naval Operations and director of the Naval Reserve.

World Food Peril Grows

it added that "in some countries less than the maximum grain acreages have been sown through fear of the magnitude of readjustment that might be called for later."

Referring to this as "the weak link in planning," FAO said:

"The fear is that shortage of foreign exchange will reduce demand for imports; that in any case demand will shrink when rehabilitation needs have been met; or again that synthetics will displace many farm products.

"Already producers of some products, natural rubber, for example, find their livelihood threatened."

Any international program for full production, the report said, must overcome fear of surpluses. It must include "assurance of expanding markets and reasonable prices, if governments, business and farmers are to cooperate in carrying it out."

"Intergovernmental consultation is needed in every phase of the problem." Among these the report lists "emergency shortages, long-term expansion, and commodity surpluses."

To achieve such consultation, FAO plans annual reviews of world food and agriculture, forestry and fisheries. The first review will be made at the Geneva conference.

This year the discussion will center on:

1. FAO taking over international allocation of food and fertilizers from the International Emergency Food Council, retaining its setup of commodity committees.

2. Maximum world-wide mobilization of food for human use including "strengthening of food collection and food economy measures, and efforts to ship the maximum amount of foods from exporting countries."

3. Speeding up the supply of agricultural equipment, fertilizers and other materials needed to expand the 1948 harvest in food-deficit countries.

4. Promotion of long-term agricultural development and nutrition programs for countries and regions.

5. Review commodity situations in agriculture, forestry and fisheries. Promote joint activity among governments, including studies leading where necessary to commodity agreements.

AAF to Modernize 508 Jet Fighters

By The Associated Press

The Army Air Forces announced yesterday that 508 jet-propelled fighter planes will be modernized to keep pace with "rapid" developments in this field.

The contract with the Lockheed Aircraft Corp. calls for modifying the early model P-80A "shooting star" to incorporate the features of the new P-80B.

Five of the modified planes will be coming off the production line daily by November 30. The entire job will be completed by next spring.

India, Pakistan To Join Dominions In Treaty Caucus

London, Aug. 7 (AP).—The two new dominions of India and Pakistan will be represented at the British Commonwealth's seven-state conference, scheduled to begin August 26 at Canberra, Australia, to adopt a common approach on the forthcoming treaty with Japan, official government sources said today.

A spokesman for Britain's commonwealth relations office said Pakistan and India had accepted invitations to attend the talks as equal and independent sovereign member states of the empire.

The two new members will achieve dominion status August 15 nine days before the conference is due to be opened formally by Lord Addison, secretary of state for the commonwealth.

Police Brutality

The unlawful arrest and beating of Julius Willie Clegg, recounted by Robert Bruskin elsewhere in this issue, is a disgrace that reflects on the good name of the entire Washington Police Department. Mr. Clegg, a clerk for The Washington Post, was apprehended without a warrant, was held incommunicado for 34 hours without a charge, was beaten viciously when he would not sign a prepared statement, and was forbidden even to notify his family and his employer. This flagrant denial of even the most elementary rights of a citizen smacks only of the Gestapo. It would be indefensible enough in the case of a murderer caught in the act, let alone in that of an innocent man. Until police authorities take prompt steps to demonstrate the contrary, the implication will remain that the third degree is regular police procedure which, if not approved, is at least condoned.

Through his attorney, Mr. Clegg has demanded prosecution of the officers involved, a move we fully support. Meanwhile, Superintendent Barrett has promised an investigation. This is a promise Major Barrett cannot afford not to keep. In justice to the members of the Police Department who show proper respect for civil liberties, the blot on the department's honor should be removed by drastic action against the offenders. Washington cannot tolerate brutality instead of brains in its law enforcement.

Saving The Soil

The first scientific movement to maintain the Nation's most priceless resource—the land—has just passed its tenth anniversary. During its 10 years as an agency of the Department of Agriculture, the Soil Conservation Service has expanded its scope to more than 1900 districts covering over one billion acres, or nearly 60 per cent of the country's farm land. Much of the service's considerable success springs from its intelligent decentralized method of operation. Actually the farmers themselves set up the conservation districts and avail themselves of technical information and guidance supplied by the Government. This includes instruction in such practices as crop rotation, contour plowing, proper use of pastureland to avoid overgrazing, preservation of timber to prevent excess runoff, drainage, irrigation and the like. Though the extent of Soil Conservation Service activities is not nearly great enough, considering the amount of land that is still being ruined through malpractices and erosion, its work is of tremendous significance. It is the first essential, for instance, in any comprehensive plan for flood control. Even more important is the moral implication of this effort to bring about more efficient utilization of the land. It amounts to elementary recognition that the land, instead of being something to be squandered at the will of its present holders, is a public trust that must be maintained for the generations to come.

Mississippi's Joke

Mississippi legislators undoubtedly are congratulating themselves on the uproarious prank perpetrated on Negroes who sought to vote in Tuesday's Democratic primary. In a last-ditch effort to dissuade Negroes from exercising their electoral rights, the Legislature last summer passed a law requiring that all voters in the primary subscribe to party principles promulgated by the State Democratic Executive Committee. Among the gimmicks is the proviso that the prospective voter must swear his allegiance to the "time-honored and cherished tradition of the South," whatever they are (and we presume they are what the election committee makes them). The applicant also must state his opposition to such items as Federal anti-poll-tax legislation and the Fair Employment Practices Committee.

This flagrant invasion of the liberty of conscience is about as funny as a concentration camp. It is an absurd and malicious distortion of voting qualifications that places Negroes squarely in the middle, which is precisely what the white supremacy zealots intend. Either the Negro voter must forgo the privilege specifically guaranteed him 76 years ago by the Fifteenth Amendment, or he must swallow his pride and prostrate his convictions. The Mississippi law invites perjury in the latter case, and we have no doubt that election judges were aware of this in exercising the challenge. Fortunately, if it is any consolation to that body of Americans who in Mississippi are thus defrauded of one of the first attributes of citizenship, such repression is gradually eroding away elsewhere in the South. Negroes are voting as ordinary citizens in other Southern States, and incidentally with none of the dire results predicted by politicians of the Bilbo variety. Meanwhile, as long as the decent residents of Mississippi permit such disgraceful practices to go unchallenged, they can have no just cause for resentment at what outsiders say about their State.

Dollar Drain

Out of Prime Minister Attlee's speech the idea will gain currency that Britain is suffering from a dollar crisis. That is more an alibi than a description. Left to itself this description of Britain's trouble carries its own remedy. A shortage of dollars, of course, can be rectified by making them plentiful, that is to say, by an American loan. We agree with Senator Taft that any such remedy would be worse than no remedy at all.

The immediate alarm over the shortage of dollars is, of course, due to a sudden discovery in London on the heels of the return to a free currency market in London. The shift was made on July 15. It is pledged under the terms of the Anglo-American loan agreement. In June the Attlee government was looking forward complacently to the "convertibility" date as the date which would restore the world prestige of the pound sterling. It was held that the prestige would somehow offset any seepages. After July 15 the impact of lack of confidence in the financial and economic policy of the Attlee government became apparent. The hole through the exchanges through which capital had been fleeing Britain was enlarged.

Evidence of this leak of pounds into the precious British store of dollars lies in the report that you can buy pounds in a New York black market at a considerable discount. Moreover, exporters to Britain preferred to take the proceeds in pounds and translate them into dollars for immediate delivery instead of into British goods, which, because of misdirection of men and material, take from 18 months to 2 years to deliver. It is idle to add up the gold reserves at Britain's disposal for eking out its diminishing stock of dollars. The harsh fact comes out of Mr. Attlee's speech that Britain is losing dollars at an accelerating rate above the deficit in her trading account, and that at the rate given by Mr. Attlee, it would not take very long for both gold and dollars to go down the drain.

If more dollars were supplied to the British fund, there would simply be that much more to drain. All over Europe dollars are more and more coming into the hands of speculators. Strange stories of the traffic at work in gold, silver and dollars are constantly coming to our attention. The traffic will cease as soon as a working economy in Europe is reestablished. But at present neither work nor money finds an incentive in its employment. The way is paved for such an incentive in the decision of the Attlee government to make the country live within its means.

Thus the dollar crisis is merely a symptom and not a cause of the fundamental disease. It has nothing to do with the dollar shortage, for instance, that enough coal is not produced in England to send to Sweden in return for newsprint. As the Economist says, "If ever a community has been more planned against than planning, it has been Britain in the last two years." We ourselves reported the same phenomenon 18 months ago after a first-hand visit to Britain. On December 9, 1945, we summed up our impressions by saying [the Attlee government] "is pursuing reform at the expense of recovery, treating Britain as a guinea pig instead of a sick patient."

So the way to help the British, aside from postponing the application of the Anglo-American loan pledges, is to lend-lease them foodstuffs in a diminishing quantity as they swing into less dependence, not to send them dollars. Goods are what Senator Taft says he would insist upon instead of dollars in case of demonstrated need. Any such scheme, however, could not be worked out till cooperative Europe is ready to submit the basis of a Marshall Plan for continental rehabilitation. But dollars should play no part in this reconstruction pattern. Dollars would accentuate the dollar crisis—which is the misuse of dollars in a way that may bring on disaster. Lenin always said that the best way to bring revolution is to ruin the currency. Certainly this is the crisis for which the Russians have been praying. By stalemating the peace, they have held back the productive forces of western Europe. The tragedy is that they have had so much unconscious help from the Socialist managers in Britain.

With Deep Regret

President Truman's pocket veto of the National Science Foundation bill by no means implies that a science foundation itself is undesirable. As the President remarked, the move was made "with deep regret" because the bill sent him by Congress was an administrative monstrosity. There is no basis, in our opinion, for Senator Smith's charge that by the veto the President made the science foundation a political football. Indeed, in emphasizing the necessity for more precise responsibility in the foundation's control, Mr. Truman acted with courage in what we believe to be the Nation's interest. Nor is science thereby retarded. Congress provided no funds for the foundation, even if the Smith bill had become law.

The trouble with the measure that emerged from the Eightieth Congress, as we noted earlier, is that it made of the scientists assigned to administer the foundation a class apart, subject to none of the checks of our democratic system. On the pretext of removing science from politics, the bill would have limited the President's power to the appointment of a 24-member part-time board which would have named its own executive committee. The committee in turn would have selected a permanent director. Such an unhealthy pyramiding would have negated the President's authority over activities for which he is ultimately responsible. The men charged with supervising and stimulating Government research in essence would have been controlled only by their own sense of self-restraint.

Nor was that the only defect of the Smith bill. It ignored, for instance, the touchy question of patent rights on contract research—a matter that, in our opinion, should be settled definitely in favor of ownership by all the people. Moreover, it would have left the scientists in charge of the program in a half-fish, half-fowl status in that they would have maintained their private activities while serving the Government part time. This would have invited a divided sense of duty. It also would have opened the door to nepotism in favoring with research grants the institutions with which the scientists remained affiliated.

Congress still has the opportunity which it has had all along, namely to enact a bill giving the drastically needed impetus to research while retaining the essential link of administrative responsibility. The Kilgore bill passed by the Senate last year was such a bill, although it unfortunately was shorn of the provision that would have brought support to the social as well as the physical sciences. We hope with President Truman that Congress will act promptly in the new session to correct the mistakes and unwieldiness of the Smith bill. We hope, too, that any new bill put forth will keep scientific research in its proper perspective as the concern of the people as a whole rather than as the private domain of a small unassailable elite.

Mr. Brewster's Round

The question whether the current senatorial investigation into the complicated affairs of Mr. Howard Hughes was in any way inspired by his refusal to accept the terms of a proposed merger of his Trans-World Airlines and the Pan American Airways has now boiled down to a question of personal veracity between himself and Senator Brewster. In fairness to Senator Brewster it must be observed that the evidence so far given on this point is very far from persuasive, and that it has obtained plausibility only because of the Senator's advocacy of legislation to create a monopoly in overseas commercial air operations and by his acknowledged intimacy with certain officials of the Pan American Airways.

On Wednesday Mr. Hughes left both the investigating subcommittee and the audience with the impression that a witness named Heffron had been present on one of the occasions on which Mr. Brewster was alleged to have offered to drop the investigation if Trans-World Airlines would agree to the merger. But Mr. Heffron, called as a witness, testified he had heard no such offer. Yesterday, however, Mr. Hughes testified that the offer had actually been made at an after lunch conversation when he and Senator Brewster were alone. To the very reasonable question from Senator Williams of Delaware why Mr. Hughes did not immediately report such an outrageous and utterly illegal offer, he replied: "When a proposition like that is made to you in front of no witnesses, what good would it do to go to the authorities? Now I have nothing to lose. My reputation has been ruined."

The latter part of this explanation is, of course, rhetorical. The point is that since it was Mr. Hughes who made the accusation, burden of proof rests with him; and he has finally admitted that he has no proof at all. Meanwhile, the investigation has wandered further than ever from its ostensible purpose of discovering whether the contracts given to Mr. Hughes for his flying boat and his photo-reconnaissance plane were well advised, and whether the award of these contracts was in any way influenced by the sybaritic entertainments provided by Mr. Hughes and his publicity representative. The first point is so completely a technical matter that only expert testimony would be of value. But had the testimony been taken along such lines, the hearings would certainly not have aroused any of the popular excitement and political backbiting which has attended this hearing from the beginning.

Without expert testimony on the first point, testimony on the second point is valueless except as a commentary on the mores of contractors and military and Government officials. Nevertheless, the committee in its examination of Mr. Elliott Roosevelt utterly ignored the question of his technical qualifications, and examined him instead on his relationships with Mr. Johnny Meyer. In the end it allowed Mr. Roosevelt to take the examination out of its hands and has come pretty close to making the same blunder in the case of Mr. Hughes.

COLUMBINE

The rough grey rock
Lies flat upon the meadow
And, round its edge
Flutters the columbine
On stems as frail as their own shadow,
The bloom translucent red,
Perfect in bell and line.

There is a tenuous grace
About this flowering
That questions, yet is sure
Despite its outer frailty,
Tremulous, wind-blown—
More than another flower
It shall endure.

Robert J. Watt

Editor's Note: The following tribute to Robert J. Watt, United States workers' delegate to the International Labor Organization who died July 24, was written by the three members of the British delegation to the ILO. It is reprinted here from the London Times.

The death at sea of Robert J. Watt, the workers' delegate of the United States, at the age of 53, on his way home from the recent International Labor Conference at Geneva is a great loss to the International Labor Organization and the democratic principles for which it stands.

As the British government, employers and workers' delegates we worked with him for many years at these conferences and at meetings of the governing body and admired him both as a colleague and a friend. He was a man of deep convictions and great moral courage. In debate he was scrupulously fair; he had the art of the arresting phrase and a never-failing sense of humor, and he combined with it all the charm of a roguish schoolboy.

The spontaneous cheer which greeted him as he walked up to the platform at the beginning of the conference some five weeks ago to deliver a speech which was one of the most penetrating ever delivered at these conferences was unique in our experience and was evidence of the warm place he held in the hearts and minds of all.

The defense of individual freedom was the ruling passion of his life. He was prepared to defend it fearlessly at all times and in all circumstances, and the following excerpt from the speech he delivered as the workers' vice president at the close of the conference, and which was to prove to be the last he would deliver, typified the man as we knew him:

"The ILO has no meaning, and will have no meaning, unless it preaches and practices democratic liberty. Democratic liberty to me means freedom under law and under a law which is consistent with the fundamental rights and responsibilities of free men." Bob Watt was without question in the front rank of those who have devoted so much of their life to the work of the International Labor Organization and his death leaves a great blank.

We who knew him intimately realized at this conference that his recent illness had left its mark on him, and it was only his brave spirit that enabled him to carry on with all the old vigor and tense enthusiasm which had always colored everything he did. No one could know him intimately without knowing the patient, gentle, and loving wife who was everything to him and who made his home life, with his children and grandchildren, the happiest that any man could wish to have.

Hughes Investigation

The possible badness of Howard Hughes, Elliott Roosevelt, Jesse Jones and others has been duly called to the attention of the public. They have been smeared. If they want to, and can, clear their reputations publicly, let them. There is nothing new or unique in this particular case.

What is there about the present investigation that will stop big money interests and Government officials "finagling" with Government business when there is an opening? We do not need investigations to convince us of lobbying.

Any Congressman or Cabinet member suspected of using his official position for personal purposes that reflect discredit on the Government of the United States, or are contrary to the best interests of the people, should be put on trial. When an official is found guilty he should be ousted from office. Let congressional committees of any political denomination make any investigation deemed necessary. But for such investigations as are of no value to the people of the United States but are made to discredit an Administration, or an individual, for political propaganda purposes, let the expense come out of party coffers, not out of taxes, and the time out of personal time, not out of that for which the people pay for services they expect to have rendered. Some of the great hawkers of liberty love license.

British Anti-Semitism

Regarding the anti-Semitic outbursts in London: Shame on the dastardly Englishman! Hypocrites who fought a war against barbarism and nazism allowing their loved sons (Jews and gentiles) alike to be slain, then turning around and doing the same outrageous deeds they protested against!

Do not these beings realize that each man alone is responsible for his own actions and what a few people do a thousand miles away certainly was not engendered by another group who might have themselves condemned the original act?

The once admired and respected Englishman has forfeited respect himself and now licks Hitler's boots! GEORGE WALKER.

Palestine Violence

In your issue of August 5 you published a United Press message on the anti-Jewish rioting in Britain in which a direct connection is drawn between this outbreak and the hanging of the two British sergeants in Palestine last week. It now appears from a Columbia Broadcasting System correspondent's report that the English press has not been giving full publicity to the events which followed the hanging. The British public has apparently been kept in the dark about the murder of five Jews in Tel Aviv by British troops who machine-gunned them.

One wonders whether the British public is aware of the "affaire Farran," in which a British army officer is allegedly implicated in the murder by torture of a 16-year-old Jewish boy in Palestine. Perhaps the government in Britain finds it useful to let the people have a scapegoat for the feelings likely to be aroused by Mr. Attlee's "economic crisis" speech.

Jewish former servicemen in Britain, horrified at the hanging of the two sergeants, placed a wreath in their memory at the Centotaph. Perhaps the British Legion will now place a wreath there in memory of the Jewish former soldier who was killed by his former comrades when they staged their pogrom last week. FAY ORGEL.

Fair Employment

A recent visit to the Department of Vehicles and Traffic allowed me to notice the absence of Negroes behind the many windows. This department differs only in degree, probably, from the other divisions of the District government. It would be most enlightening to know the true reason underlying the apparent fact that so few nonwhite citizens of the District hold "white collar" posts in its numerous agencies.

J. W. HAYWOOD, JR.
Washington.

Reporting Of Traffic Accidents

The District law relating to the reporting of vehicular accidents is now little better than a farce.

The digest of District of Columbia motor vehicle regulations, issued by the Department of Vehicles and Traffic, names only one class of accidents that must be reported, namely, accidents causing injuries to human beings, a requirement imposed by statute. The District of Columbia Code, 1940 edition, however, requires also that a report be made whenever an accident causes damage to a motor vehicle or other property, but only when the damage is "substantial."

The operator of the supposedly offending vehicle has failed to stop, give assistance, and identify himself and his motor vehicle to the owner of the damaged car or other property or to others present. The code requires, too, that every person in charge of a garage or repair shop report every car that enters showing evidence of having been involved in an accident or struck by bullets.

In no case does the code require any report to be made in writing. Neither does it require that reports be made to the Department of Vehicles and Traffic or to the Police Department; it is sufficient that a report be made to "a police station or a police officer."

The first step toward adequate safety-control on District highways and in other public places seems to be legislation by Congress requiring every participant in a motor vehicle accident in any such place to report it promptly to the Department of Vehicles and Traffic or to the Police Department. Any law that requires reports from only the motorist who causes an accident calls for an admission of responsibility by the reporting motorist and may thus afford him at least a color of a right to refuse to make the report on the ground that to make it would amount to self-incrimination.

Multiple reporting, such as is here proposed, would render it difficult for any participant in an accident to escape identification unless all agreed not to report. Failure or refusal to make a report might well be made to suspend or default automatically the operator's license. Likewise the occurrence of more than a given number of accidents in a stated number of miles of travel as shown by the speedometer on the vehicle involved might be made to suspend a motorist's privileges until reinstated by the responsible traffic official.

Indexing all reported accidents under the name of each participant, without prejudice, together with the date of the accident and the mileage then shown on his speedometer, would afford a better index to the competence of operators of motor vehicles than any possible system of periodical examination at stated times and places, for which the examinee always has an opportunity of preparing himself.

Such a system of control would afford an early warning, too, of the onset of physical or mental disability in the motorist and afford opportunity for safety measures before a serious and perhaps fatal accident occurs. And indexing by time and place every reported accident and the conditions under which it occurred would disclose the danger spots in the highways of the District.

The method here proposed may be looked on by some as radical, but it is merely the method successfully applied throughout the United States and elsewhere for many years to prevent the spread of communicable and industrial diseases, adjusted to meet the requirements of traffic control.

Washington Calling

By Marquis Childs

The Old Refrain

A RECORD number of members of Congress are preparing to make inspection tours in Europe and Asia. This remarkable exodus drew the following comment from a veteran employe on Capitol Hill who has seen many Congresses come and go:

"Why, sure they want to get out of the country. All they hear about at home is high prices and no place to live."

That is unfair to Senators and Representatives who will go abroad in an honest endeavor to learn at first hand about the world situation, but it does point a painful moral.

According to reports from those who have had a little time to sample opinion back home, housing and high prices are the fixation of practically everybody. These immediate worries obscure even the gathering storm clouds on the international horizon.

Among the millions who are doubled up or in painfully inadequate quarters, the desire for a decent place to live is a constant and passionate longing. A letter from a Government worker in Washington expresses it eloquently and yet typically.

"I HAVE just spent another weary day looking for a place to live. Seems as though I have been walking and looking for years and years and years. All through the depression I walked and walked looking for a job, and all through the war years I walked and walked looking for a place to live.

"Five years and some months I have been in Washington and had my name on hundreds of lists, and nothing yet on my own. I had a sublet apartment for a year and a house leased for a year, and both had to be shared to afford them. My youngster was 13 when we came and has spent the entire period—with the exception of short summer vacations and Christmases when I squeezed him in—in a boarding school.

"I have looked at windows and thought how wonderful it must be to have a kitchen and a living room all one's very own. How perfectly wonderful. But how does one acquire this normal living? I do not know. One real estate man told me three months ago that if the Government would give them a rent raise, there would be hundreds of apartments available."

The writer goes on to question what all the talk about free enterprise means if free enterprise can't provide decent housing. This same question must be in the minds of many men and women who have taken on faith what they have been told about our system.

On prices there is the same troubled questioning. Only a little more than a year ago, the National Association of Manufacturers was claiming that removal of OPA would benefit the householder because it would release increased production and prices would drop to their natural level.

COMPETITION, the familiar argument runs, will force price cuts. Certainly we have proved in the past that competition is a powerful force. Many of the benefits of our system can be traced to it. But we have a right to ask how much competition is left in our system.

When he was head of the Department of Justice antitrust division, Justice Robert H. Jackson made a striking study of prices and payrolls under the hammer blows of the depression that began in 1929. The study showed, for example, that while prices of farm products fell, on the average, 57 per cent, the price of agricultural implements fell less than 17 per cent as a maximum and for most of the years only 5 or 6 per cent.

It showed that payrolls for the iron and steel industries declined about 75 per cent while the wholesale price of ingots declined only 16 per cent. Cement declined 13 per cent in price, and its payrolls 72 per cent. While agricultural implements declined 14 per cent in price, payrolls in that industry dropped by 83 per cent.

To put it as simply as possible: Prices in many lines responded hardly at all even though demand from the consumer dropped down close to zero. Thanks to the prop of monopoly domination, the so-called laws of supply and demand were conveniently repealed.

The American people are not isolationist. That has been proved again and again. But if they see opportunity narrowing in a spiral of scarcity and high prices, they will be against a program of foreign aid, no matter how many traveling Congressmen report the need for it.

Army Soft Talk

Your editorial of July 31, "Speak Softly, Sergeant!" must have been written by a soft-brained former sergeant, or an individual who was never a member of the armed forces.

Where does the writer get the idea that there is anything colorful about foul and abusive language? What makes him think that cursing a man or belittling his legitimate antecedents will get a job done quicker or better?

Instead of writhing in crocodile tears, your writer should have congratulated the Army for taking one of the most progressive steps in its entire history, and should have expressed the hope that the edict would be enforced.

The Navy has had for years a stern code which recommends specific punishment for swearing, by officers, non-coms and non-rated men. Swearing is punishable by court martial, and can be most severely dealt with depending on the rigidity of the particular board which tries the case.

Russian 'Security'

A Communication

IN HIS COLUMN of July 22, which I read a week ago in Paris, Mr. Sumner Welles pointed out the danger of the plan to strip Russia (together, of course, with the other big powers) of the veto in the Security Council of the U. N. and advocated alternative measures based on the Marshall proposal) for checking "Soviet expansion wherever it may be attempted." Yet he seems to have great doubts as regards the efficacy of those measures, for he ends his column by expressing his fear that "the last glimmer of hope which we possess of avoiding a two-world order" would be obliterated, if the veto issue were forced and the Soviets left the U. N. (italics mine.) These pessimistic words, written by a statesman with Mr. Welles' record of far-sightedness, are illustrative of the extreme gravity of the situation, especially after the USSR has vetoed the creation of a Balkan frontier commission.

The problem facing the democratic powers is clearly put by the juxtaposition of two sentences in Mr. Welles' column. The one, "The Politbureau has pursued an aggressive and expansionist course," is immediately followed by the other, "The Soviet leaders have shown themselves to be pathologically suspecious as well as increasingly fearful of the military and economic strength of the West." (The sense in which "suspicious" and "fearful" are meant is underlined by a subsequent passage, "From Russia's standpoint, her veto right is her only assurance that the U. N. will not endanger Russian security.")

The two sentences establish a relationship between cause and effect, thus ascribing the aggressive and expansionist course chosen by the Soviets to their suspicion (and their pursuit of security).

NOW, THIS relationship between cause and effect is more than questionable. But even if it were real, it seems to me that, considering the danger point we have reached, the time has come for rejecting it as totally unjustified and for proclaiming, without fear of forcing the issue, that security by expansion is incompatible with the U. N. Charter and that no power can have the U. N. cake, by means of the veto, and eat it, by means of aggression. Indeed, does one still need to demonstrate, after the period of appeasement between 1935 and 1939, that for democratic countries not to force the issue in time, when faced with power politics, is the surest way to make war inevitable?

That by every normal, democratic, nonpathological standard the Soviet suspicion is totally unjustified is proved by the following facts: As early as two years and a half ago (January 10, 1945), Senator Vandenberg made in the Senate the far-sighted suggestion of a treaty between the five great powers to keep Germany and Japan permanently demilitarized. As soon as the fighting was over, and regardless of the 300 Russians divisions maintained on the Continent, the United States started to withdraw its army from Europe and to demobilize. On April 29, 1946, at the Paris Conference, Secretary Byrnes presented a draft treaty on the disarmament and demilitarization of Germany, the discussion of which was deferred at the Soviet request. Most important of all, the U. S., still having the monopoly of the atom bomb, presented a comprehensive plan for atomic control by the United Nations. What other proof of peaceful intentions could be given to the most suspicious minds (except, of course, the acceptance of Soviet ideology)?

ON THE other hand, should the Soviets choose to assure their security by expansion, their present "iron curtains" in Asia and Europe (even if they succeeded in reaching the eastern Mediterranean) would hardly constitute an effective protection. Their next goal—and, even so, not the ultimate one—would have to be the ocean-shores of the Eurasiatic continent.

Security by expansion is a snare as well to those who seek it as to those who condone it. So is the "two-world order" Mr. Welles rightly fears. But such an order would not be the consequence of the withdrawal of the Soviets from the U. N. For we have got it already, today, with the Soviets in the U. N. We shall have it even more clearly delineated if the U. N. proves to be powerless, because of the Soviet veto and the tactics of the Communist regimes in the Balkans, to defend Greece against an obvious aggression.

In point of fact, the external security of the Soviets has been assured by the obliteration of the other totalitarian (Fascist) regimes of central Europe, and of Japan's feudal system. Consequently, when it had become obvious, after Yalta and Potsdam, that the Kremlin had reverted, despite its acceptance of the Atlantic and U. N. Charters, to its prewar, antidemocratic policy, it became imperative that a new and realistic method of dealing with the Soviets be devised. Instead of deploring Soviet suspicion, one must face the fact that revolutionists against an established order can hardly be expected to trust that order and help strengthen it.

NOBODY KNOWS this better than Mr. Welles, who, while steadfastly defending the principles, has kept his eye on the realities—unlike some writers who showed a pendular disposition to accept the "iron curtain" as a security device and a fait accompli, without realizing all the political, economic and strategic implications of such an acceptance. Therefore when Mr. Welles writes of checking, by a program of reconstruction, Soviet expansion "wherever it may be attempted", one must think he means wherever the Soviets expand beyond their own borders, which has been the case in seven countries of central and southeastern Europe with a population of over 100 million people.

But once these nations have been forced, against their obvious interest and yearning (viz, Czechoslovakia), to reject the Marshall proposal, how will the "program of reconstruction" stop the Soviet expansion to which they are now subjected? Or are we to understand that, in spite of the Truman Doctrine, American help will be extended, regardless of the inevitable political consequences, to the minority governments of Russia's subjugated "satellites" on the terms Mr. Molotov deemed acceptable (at the first Paris Conference) to what he described as "sovereign" countries? One could infer this from Mr. Welles' belief that the long-range program of reconstruction is "the only policy that may prevent war and that may eventually convince the Russian people that cooperation, rather than antagonism, between the West and the East is in their own interest."

Unfortunately, for one thing, the Russian people (who anyhow have no say in the matter) will hardly know of the slow improvement of economic conditions in the rest of the world, assuming that such improvement can be brought about, in spite of the efforts of the local Communists, whom Leon Blum has rightly called "foreign nationalist parties." For another, no program of reconstruction can solve the problem of atomic control.

DEMOCRATS are organically loath to advocate a show of force. They are not warmongers. They naturally don't think of the Soviet dilemma as of a modern "gordian knot," to be cut only by the sword. They cling to the last "glimmer of hope."

Yet the issue will have to be faced squarely. For the schemes of domination (or "security," Soviet style, which amounts to the same thing) of the Politbureau cannot be stopped by any other means than by convincing it that force will have regretfully, but inevitably, to be used if the Soviets don't stop using it themselves and if they don't accept, inside the USSR, the same international controls as every other country is ready to accept.

According to reliable information, the Kremlin leaders are convinced that President Truman is "bluffing." They must be shown that this is not so. There is no other way of preserving the peace. And it is not by maintaining the Soviet veto that one will prevent a "two-world order," leading to war; quite on the contrary, that kind of order is predicated on the veto. Much as Mr. Welles dreads "forcing the issue," it seems to me that only by doing so very soon have we still got a glimmer of hope of averting a new catastrophe.

U. S. Births to Set Record, Survey Shows

New York, N. Y., Aug. 7.—More babies will be born in the United States in 1947 than in any previous year in our history, eclipsing the all-time record of 3,440,000 babies set last year, it is forecast by statisticians of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company.

The prediction is supported by the fact that there were about 1,572,000 births up to the end of May, an increase of 456,000 over the 1,116,000 figure for the corresponding period last year. The statisticians believe, however, that this large difference will be whittled down as the year progresses, since the 1946 record, which reflected the rapid demobilization of our armed forces, was largely due to unusually high birth rates in the second half of the year.

Matter Of Fact

By Joseph And Stewart Alsop

Politics As Usual

WHILE THE world comes apart at the seams, the maneuvers of domestic politics rather irrelevantly continue. One maneuver which is at least less irrelevant than most, is the virtually final decision of Postmaster General Robert Hannegan to resign as chairman of the Democratic National Committee. Barring accidents, the long-rumored Hannegan resignation will be offered to the committee at a meeting which Hannegan is calling for September.

The current plan is that Hannegan will stay on for a while at the Postoffice, but will eventually withdraw into private business. His ambition is to own a baseball team, and he and his friend, Edwin Pauley, have been trying, thus far unsuccessfully, to buy one of the major league clubs.) His reason for leaving the National Committee is the ill health which has plagued him for more than a year.

At first glance all this seems innocent enough. Yet behind it there is something more than meets the eye. And that something is an incipient revival of the ancient Democratic feud between the party's conservative Southern faction and more progressive Northern wing.

It is true that Hannegan's decision to retire was based on his high blood pressure and nothing else. But it is also true that the Southerners have for some time wanted him out of the National Committee owing to his pro-labor views. Hannegan has in the past rather angrily intimated that the only thing that could make him change his mind about laying down his burdens would be a Southern effort to force him to do so. If this develops, by the odd logic of politics, he will fight for what he does not want. It seems more likely that there will be no fight, and he will resign as planned. And if he goes, the still more important question of his successor will remain to be settled.

UNTIL A DAY or so ago, this question seemed to have been settled in favor of Secretary of Agriculture Clinton Anderson. The President meant to draft Anderson from his Cabinet post to head the party in the election year. But, Anderson's greatest ambition is to enter the Senate. The able Carl Hatch of New Mexico has decided to leave the Senate at the end of this term. And Anderson will therefore now retire from the Cabinet only to run for Hatch's Senate seat. That leaves the field open for the successor to Hannegan. The most frequently named contenders are Judge Sherman Minton, whose New Deal Senate record would please the Northern Democrats, and Sam Jackson, the Indiana politico who was chairman of the 1944 convention and is now favored by some Southerners as a conservative.

The genuinely significant fact in this morass of trivia is that the President was first inclined to put Anderson in Hannegan's shoes. He was urged for the National Committee chairmanship by the most eminent of the Southerners, House Leader Sam Rayburn. By nature as well as record, Anderson could have been counted on not to maintain the close liaison with the labor groups on which Hannegan has always insisted.

In conjunction with the labor bill veto, such presidential veerings hardly seem logical. The veto no doubt proceeded from the President's honest conviction as to the Taft-Hartley law, yet it was also aimed to solidify the labor groups for the Democrats. It brought back into the fold the bitterest of labor's dissidents, A. F. Whitney of the Brotherhod of Railroad Trainmen. It would seem plain folly for the President even to consider jeopardizing the labor support thus garnered for him.

THE QUIRKS of the President's character cannot be discounted, however. In principle, he is pro labor. But in practice, he has a strong distaste for labor leaders, which is encouraged in him by such members of his circle as Secretary of the Treasury Snyder and his large, loud military aide, Maj. Gen. Harry Vaughan. Following the veto, according to a report circulating among labor insiders, Whitney, Philip Murray of the CIO, and William Green of the AFL all signified their willingness to call at the White House in evidence of their support for Truman. The rival labor chieftains might even have marched in together—an impressive demonstration. The last thing the President wanted, however, was anything of the sort; and the labor leaders' march to the White House did not occur. Holding allies at arm's length is not the best way to cheer them on.

To all this must be added still another factor in the President's political situation: the Democratic organizations, in most States, are suffering either from advanced hardening of the arteries, or galloping factionalism or both. By dint of a telephone call from Washington in which young Franklin Roosevelt participated, James Roosevelt's unfriendly maneuverings in California were somehow halted, yet California is still rent with strife. New York hardly contains two Democratic leaders on speaking terms. Pennsylvania is divided between the dilapidated David Lawrence of Pittsburgh and the still more dilapidated Joe Guffey. And so it goes. Under the circumstances, one would suppose Truman would want all the enthusiastic allies he could muster.

Lie Announces Plans for U. N. Home in N. Y.

Lake Success, Aug. 7 (AP).—Secretary General Trygve Lie today announced preliminary plans for the United Nations skyscraper home in Manhattan which would be constructed at an estimated cost of $84,831,450 and take at least four years to complete.

No decision has been reached on where to get the money.

Lie's report was directed to the general assembly, which will debate the plans at its September meeting. Demolition work already has started on the 17-acre tract along the East River, but actual building must await Assembly approval.

Tentative Plans Ready

Tentative plans call for the first building, probably a 40-story structure, to be finished by the early spring of 1949. There would be sufficient accommodations there to move the headquarters from this Long Island community.

The report was accompanied by sketches of a series of skyscrapers and low buildings in the midtown area bounded by Franklin D. Roosevelt drive, First avenue, East 42d street and East 48th street.

The first building would have the appearance of a sandwich standing on edge and would be designed to give maximum light, air and scenery to workers and delegates. Adjoining structures would be two or three floors high and cover most of the central portion of the site. Another tall building for delegations and specialized agencies was planned for the other end of the area.

U. N. officials were understood to be attempting to pare the costs sharply and have even considered putting up only one building and delaying the rest until financing arrangements could be worked out.

Five Possibilities Listed

The report listed five possibilities for raising the money:

1. Contributions from the 55-member governments on a scale similar to their contributions to the regular budget. This would mean that the United States would pay slightly more than one third.

2. Financing by government loans from one or more members. The report said "the United States and others are already giving the matter serious study."

3. A U. N. bond issue backed by the assets and the pledge of the organization.

4. A loan from private sources, guaranteed by member governments or by some sort of mortgage on the assets of the U. N.

5. A loan from the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development. The report said this was unlikely "because of the provisions of the Bank's charter."

Counterfeit Bills Show Increase

By Dillard Stokes
Post Reporter

Counterfeiting is climbing back to prewar levels, with European operators coming into the market.

Secret Service Chief James J. Maloney said yesterday that many seamen and refugees are bringing bogus money into this country. They are mostly innocent victims, he said, having taken the worthless bills abroad, often in black markets where they sold their belongings to get money to bring to the United States.

Bills Are Poor Quality

This European output has generally turned up in seaport cities and is of poor quality, which ought not to fool Americans, even though it was taken readily by refugees who are not used to our money.

Fairly good copies of American bills used to come in from China, the Secret Service said, but none has been detected recently, indicating that the source went out of business.

Maloney pointed out that there is a danger of heavy losses from forged terminal leave bonds, which will be payable in cash starting September 2. He urged banks to secure themselves by insisting on positive identification of veterans for whom they cash terminal leave bonds.

Three Hundred Jailed

Maloney reported to Secretary of the Treasury Snyder that $256,000 worth of counterfeit bills and coins was seized in the fiscal year ended June 30, and that $60,000 of this was made abroad. During the previous fiscal year only $75,000 was seized. There were 92 arrests and 69 convictions for counterfeiting in the last fiscal year.

During the same year the Secret Service investigated the forgery of 2000 Treasury checks, and 16,000 forged Government bonds, worth in all nearly four million dollars. About 300 persons were sent to jail in these investigations.

Truman Planning No U. S. Rail Trip —For the Present

President Truman told reporters yesterday that he was not planning any trip across the United States by rail. He said no such trip had ever been under consideration.

"This year or next year?" asked a reporter, thinking of the '48 presidential campaign.

Mr. Truman joined in the laughter, and said he was referring to this year.

In response to another question, the President said he hoped that the First Lady and Miss Margaret Truman would accompany him on his forthcoming flight to Rio de Janeiro. He said his wife and daughter had been invited.

Liner Flies From Miami To Detroit in 3½ Hours

Miami, Fla., Aug. 7 (AP).—An Eastern Airlines Constellation flew from Detroit to Miami in 3 hours, 55 minutes and 59 seconds today in an officially timed flight for a commercial speed record. The highest speed was 410 miles an hour.

Capt. H. T. Merrill flew the 60-passenger craft on the 1237-mile course, cutting former air travel time in half. Eddie Rickenbacker, EAL president, was a passenger.

Reborn Europe, Powerful Asia Seen Imperiling U. S. by 2049

A grim forecast of a United States weakened by luxury and a declining birth rate overwhelmed within a century by reborn, Russian-dominated Europe and an industrialized Asia was published yesterday by the University of Maryland.

The pamphlet, entitled "The Population Prospect in Relations to the World's Agricultural Resources," was written by O. E. Baker, former Agriculture Department authority on population trends and now a geography professor at the University.

This is the way he foresees the future:

The United States will be facing, within a century, an Orient doubled in population, largely industrialized, youthful in age distribution, vigorous and probably no less resentful than now of a United States immigration policy that excludes Orientals.

Sees a United Europe

Across the Atlantic, this country probably will be facing a united Europe having a population perhaps ten times our own, perhaps nationalized under Russian leadership, youthful and probably as recentful against the immigration policy as the Orientals.

The United States, "weakened by the love of luxury and ease and by a decline in the integrity of the family as an institution for the reproduction of the race," may have fewer people than today.

"Can 100 million people, let us say, living in relative luxury and with an abnormally high proportion of aged persons, keep out one to two billion people in the Orient possessing an industrial power many times greater than at present?" Baker asks.

"On the other hand, across the Atlantic, a new Europe, probably consolidated by that time under one government, may well have a billion people, half or more Russian," he said.

Hopes for Peaceful Penetration

"A people who do not care to have children will gradually cease to exist and other peoples with greater love of life and children, with more thought to the future and greater sense of responsibility, cannot be blamed if they press into a partial vacuum."

Baker expressed hope that "this penetration will be peaceful." He added:

"Perhaps by that time it will be welcomed, as it was a century ago."

Referring obviously to Communist Russia, Baker said the present day Occidental civilization, as typified by this country, faces "a very efficiently organized group possessing a desire for power, associated with a very materialistic philosophy of values; also, strangely, with a religious conviction which makes a strong appeal to the masses of Europe and Asia who will increasingly feel the pressure of population on the natural resources."

Two U. S. Officers Face Charges on Trieste Contracts

Rome, Aug. 7 (AP).—The U. S. Army public relations office announced today two American and two British officers of the Allied Military Government in Trieste and a score of Trieste contractors had been rounded up on charges of irregularities in the public works division.

Major E. H. Richardson of Wayne, Pa., described as "lately chief of the public works division of the AMG," was accused on seven counts of "corruption" involving about 20,000,000 lire ($57,000 at official rate) in connection with contracts "granted by him," the announcement said.

The statement said Capt. Thomas Cockerham, formerly of the public works division of the Allied Military Government, had been returned under arrest from the United States. (Specific charges and his address were not given.)

Theater Chain Reports 19% Climb in Net

By S. Oliver Goodman

District Theatres Corp., which operates a chain of 38 movie houses in Washington and in seven Virginia cities, yesterday reported consolidated net income of $265,221 for the first six months this year, equal to 82 cents a common share. This compared with $224,167, or 69 cents a share in the same 1946 period. Gross operating revenues for the first half of 1947 totaled $2,028,771 compared with $1,734,267 in the like 1946 period, according to President Harry Freedman.

PCA CUTS COSTS: Pennsylvania Central Airlines Corp., which operates Capital Airlines, is chopping expenses. President C. Bedell Monro yesterday reported additional economies in operations which "by the end of August will result in a saving of more than $100,000 a month." Current payroll is down to 3181 from 4766 last year. Innovations made in reservations and ticketing procedures. New techniques introduced both in ground and flight operation. Result: break-even load factor has been reduced from 80 per cent to about 56 per cent. This is percentage of seats which must be occupied to equalize costs with revenue.

WHO'S WHO TODAY: Lieut. Col. William T. Rice, superintendent of Potomac Railroad Yards in Alexandria, Va., was awarded Legion of Merit for Army transport services in African-Middle East during war . . . C. M. Flint appointed research director of American Newspaper Publishers Association . . . Frederick Baker, Blaw-Knox Co. treasurer, named member of United States Chamber of Commerce foreign commerce committee . . . James C. Victor Adding Gets $666,396 Tax Credit

By The Associated Press

The Treasury ruled yesterday that the Victory Adding Machine Co. of Chicago had been over assessed $666,396.68 on income and excess profits taxes and interest for the years 1941 to 1944 inclusive.

More than half the tax credit, the Internal Revenue Bureau said, results from the allowance of additional deductions for "ordinary and necessary business expenses," and from larger deductions for the amortization of emergency plant facilities. The credits will be offset in part by an increase in the company's liability for excess profits tax.

Early Training Urged to Curb Delinquency

Early and continued discipline in the home is the best solution of juvenile delinquency, Bernard M. Suttler, FBI special agent, told members of the twenty-fifth annual 4-H Club Week at the University of Maryland yesterday.

"Crime prevention does not start with the electric chair," he declared, "but with the high chair."

Juvenile delinquency is a serious problem today, but very few people are doing anything about it, Suttler said. He placed the prime responsibility for this on the parents.

Increase Stressed

Suttler pointed out to the farm youths that figures for last year showed a larger crime increase in rural areas than in cities.

The 4-H clubbers were told by Mrs. Joyce R. Shank of Frederick that they must live their pledge not only in their clubs, communities and country, but in the entire world.

"Our projects teach us that personal responsibility in a democracy means respect for other persons' responsibility and for the achievements of others," she said. "We must keep idealism always before us and at the same time have the stamina necessary to bridge the gap between it and realism in today's great conflict."

Urged to Think More

The youths were told to "step up their thinking" by Dr. Mark W. Woods, associate professor of botany of the university.

"We are living in an atomic age in which new patterns and ideas are necessary and too many people are continuing to think and live by the old patterns."

Highlighting today's program will be a dress review at 2 p. m. in the New Armory. Girls will model dresses made by themselves with the winner competing against other State women in a national contest at Chicago during the winter convention there.

103 Delegates To Boys' Forum Are Graduated

Graduation exercises yesterday at American University for the 103 teen-age delegates to the American Legion Boys' Forum wound up their crowded week's study of what makes the national Government tick.

After an address by Darrell T. Lane, member of the American Legion's National Americanism commission, the boys were presented with graduation certificates on the satisfactory completion of "the prescribed course as a practical approach to the operation of the Federal Government.

Earlier in the day, the boys, all high school students or recent graduates, visited the FBI where Lee Pennington, special investigator, explained the process by which the FBI tracks down criminals.

The youngsters, who were addressed by President Truman, Cabinet members and other top Government officials during their stay here, started trickling out of Washington for their home towns yesterday afternoon.

3 Women Lawyers Of Europe to Be Bar Guests Today

Three European women lawyers will be guests of the Women's Bar Association of the District of Columbia today for a tour of local institutions and for a 12:30 p. m. luncheon at the Raleigh Hotel.

The three visitors, who are on their way to the convention of the International Federation of University Women to be held in Toronto, Canada, from August 11 to 16, are Miss Mary E. Rankin of Glasgow, Scotland, Mrs. J. E. C. Willett Roosenberg of Regentesselman, Holland, and Dr. iur Anny of Berne, Switzerland.

Guests of honor at the luncheon, besides the foreign visitors, will be Judges Ellen K. Raedy and Nadine Gallagher of Municipal Court, and Fay L. Bentley of Juvenile Court. Miss Mary Frances Glenn, president of the Women's Bar Association, will preside.

Alcoholism Study

New York (U.P.).—The Cornell University Medical School will carry out a five-year study on the causes of chronic alcoholism under the sponsorship of the Research Council on Problems of Alcohol and several large distilling companies.

10,000 Pistols Seized

Sydney, Australia (U.P.). — Ten thousand pistols of all types surrendered to or seized by the New South Wales police will be disposed of shortly. The department either will dump then into the sea or send them to an engineering firm to be melted.

Rough Voyage Hurts

New York (U.P.).—More than 10,000 pills for seasickness were issued to passengers on the Swedish-American liner Gripsholm on an 11-day January crossing from Goeteborg, Sweden.

Col. Ginsburgh Failed To Receive Promotion

By Drew Pearson

There was one thing Secretary of War Patterson did not do before he retired which a lot of people around the War Department hoped he would do—give Col. Bob Ginsburgh the promotion long overdue him.

Col. Ginsburgh

Colonel Ginsburgh not only fought in two world wars, but did something almost more difficult—served as assistant to various Secretaries of War and Undersecretaries. His last job was as executive assistant to Patterson.

When Ginsburgh took over this job, Patterson's public relations had reached rock bottom. Interviewed by GI's on Guam, shortly after VJ-Day, Patterson had shown he knew absolutely nothing about demobilization, and every enlisted man in the Army seethed in protest. Morale sank to a new low.

Ginsburgh, then attached to General MacArthur in Japan, immediately was transferred to the staff of the Secretary of War. Almost immediately the change began. Not only did Patterson's press relations improve, but he became more human, more tolerant, made fewer mistakes.

Some years before, Ginsburgh had worked for Patterson, then Undersecretary of War, in boosting worker morale in war plants. Addressing thousands of meetings, Ginsburgh told workers how their product was being used, how essential it was to the war, sent labor leaders to Fort Knox to ride in jeeps and tanks, so they could go back and tell fellow workers how important their job was.

It was a great stimulus to war production.

Later Ginsburgh went to the Pacific, where MacArthur three times recommended him for promotion to Brigadier General. But the brass hats back home blocked it. Promotions to others were given out a dime a dozen.

Ginsburgh, a Regular Army officer, has 30 years' service. But he began the war as a colonel, ended as a colonel. And when Patterson finally stepped out as Secretary of War, he left behind his faithful aide—without promotion.

Reason: For some religious groups, top promotions seldom occur in the Regular Army.

Help to Short-Selling

Add to the list of pocketbook Congressmen: Robert W. Kean, Republican of New Jersey.

A pocketbook Congressman is one who backs legislation serving his own personal interest, rather than the public interest. And in the closing rush of Congress, Kean slipped a bill through the House Ways and Means Committee which would cut out the 6-cent stamp tax on loans of stock passed during the Hoover Administration to discourage short-selling. It was short-selling which contributed to the stock-market slump at that time.

Though a member of Congress, Kean is also a partner in the New York Stock Exchange firm of Kean, Taylor and Co.

His bill, which would save a lot of work for investment firms, slipped through the House of Representatives—thanks to clever management—without public hearings.

In the Senate, Colorado's Senator Millikin shot the bill through his finance committee like greased lightning—so fast the unsuspecting public knew nothing about it.

Note—It may take some time for the public—and even for some Congressmen themselves—to find out all the Eightieth Congress passed in the last hectic days of its first session.

Utah Doesn't Stick Together

The sparsely populated State of Utah doesn't get too many top jobs in Washington, so it isn't often that two Utah Senators will wrangle over the appointment of a fellow Utahan to an important post. This is exactly what happened, however, when President Truman appointed former Senator Abe Murdock to the National Labor Relations Board.

GOP Senator Arthur Watkins, who defeated Murdock in the last election, rushed in to attack Murdock's pro-labor record and succeeded in delaying Senate confirmation.

But what the public doesn't know is that Truman almost yielded to the Republicans. And it was only last-minute intervention of the other Utah Senator, Elbert Thomas, Democrat, that kept the President from giving up the fight.

Truman had taken the attitude that the Taft-Hartley bill was the Republicans' worry. If they insisted upon ignoring both his veto message and, later, his appointees, they could take the consequences. Therefore, he had planned to drop the Murdock appointment to the Labor Board.

When Presidential Assistant John R. Steelman informed Senator Thomas of this decision, the philosophical Utahan reflected for a moment, then inquired:

"Have you read Senator Watkins' statement?"

"No," Steelman admitted.

"Did you know it is an attack on President Truman, at attack on myself, an attack on labor?" Thomas continued. "Did you know that the Taft-Hartley bill did not amend the findings and policies of the original Labor Relations Act? So the present act in theory rests on the original act. It is for us to respect the Democratic Labor program."

Thomas also pointed out that the Democrats had successfully blocked a move by Senator Joe Ball, Minnesota Republican, to foist a clause in the Supplemental Appropriations bill, taking away the President's right to make interim appointments.

"We saved this authority for the President. He ought to take advantage of it," Thomas observed.

He also reminded Steelman that Murdock was a former Senator and a good Democrat, that the President was morally obligated to stand by him.

Senator Thomas ended by pleading: "Utah is a small State. We cannot afford to divide and fight each other on a national line. You must help us unite the State on this issue."

In the end Truman agreed.

Note—Some time ago another Utahan, Republican Edgar Brossard, was up for reappointment to the Tariff Commission. Franklin Roosevelt was President then. And it was Senator Thomas who went directly to the President to fight for his fellow Utahan, even though a Republican.

Truman's Old Committee

One man who isn't enthusiastic about the Senate War Investigating Committee's bizarre handling of the Howard Hughes case is the former Chairman of the Committee—President Harry S. Truman.

When hardworking Representative Estes Kefauver of Tennessee jokingly referred to the publicity which the old Truman Committee is getting under its new management, the President snorted: "It turned out to be a different animal than when I was running things. I am sorry to see politics get mixed up in it."

Pouring Oil On the Water Proves Costly

Pouring oil on the water, a seafarer's means of inducing calm, has brought nothing but trouble for a British freighter in Alexandria harbor.

The engineer of the vessel paid a $25 fine for pumping oil-filled bilges into the Potomac and its agent yesterday had paid damages to boat owners whose crafts were smeared by the black tide.

Owned by the Rodney Shipping Corp. of London and chartered to a Canadian paper firm, the ship, Caicos Empire, brought a cargo of newsprint to a Washington newspaper.

Sergt. Phillips Burton, of the police harbor precinct, said oil had leaked into the bilges and when Engineer John Lynch turned on the bilge pumps, the oil poured out into the river. Lynch, of Renfro, Scotland, paid the $25 fine.

Old 'Scat' Singing Wild New Fad

By Bill Gottlieb

New York, Aug. 7.—On a record date about 20 years ago Louis Armstrong dropped his lyric sheet in the middle of singing "Heebie Jeebies." There was no time to pick up the sheet; recuts were expensive. So Satchmo pulled a mess of nonsense syllables out of the air and sang them, helter skelter, like he was playing a trumpet. There, according to the historians, scat singing was born . . . the stuff that Cab Calloway carried to a commercial peak with his hi-de-ho . . . the stuff that's suddenly becoming a "new" fashion in singing. (Not that any of it's really new. Coloratura sopranos and flute players did as much hundreds of years ago when they first began chasing each other around arias.)

Jo Stafford

Most fabulous vocal record of the year is Ella Fitzgerald's "Lady Be Good," a scat extravaganza by the greatest natural singer of the day. The vogue for scat was revived, with bebop embellishments, by a couple of former Krupa singers, Buddy Stewart and Dave Lambert, who went wild with a surrealist tribute to Dave's mother-in-law, "Gussie G." (Keynote.)

They were followed by some gone characters named, so help me, Babs With His Three Bips and a Bob. Meantime, Mel Torme and Sarah Vaughan (both Musicraft) began popularizing their highly instrumentalized techniques, but using real words. (Hear Mel's new "One For My Baby" and Sarah's "Lover Man.") Then came Ella, surpassing them all. And now King Cole, another great natural singer, has come on (for Capitol) with "That's What," a wordless what-is-it that's the tip-off for a forthcoming surge of plain and fancy scat.

ALBUM CONTEST: You have until next Friday night to suggest a week's program of records (three sides a day for seven days) that I can use on the musical portion of the State Department's broadcast to Russia. Include a paragraph of under 100 words explaining what you think should be the guiding thoughts behind such programs. Each of five winners will get from Benny Goodman and me any available popular album desired (name it in your letter) plus written acknowledgment from Benny, and listing in Swing Sessions. Jackson Lowe, WWDC, is also awarding albums for suggestions given me through his station. Write Bill Gottlieb, 2415 RKO Bldg., New York 20, N. Y.

QUARTER NOTES: According to the Billboard poll of college editors, the top bands belong to Stan Kenton, Tex Beneke, the Goodman Sextet and the King Cole Trio. Frank Sinatra and Jo Stafford won the vocal slots. Best according to the disc jockies polled are Kenton, Goodman, Eddie Howard and Cole . . . Dorothy Shay, who sings hillbilly songs at fashionable clubs while dressed in sleek gowns, just taken off for Paris to buy some dresses. Her Columbia album is second in sales only to Jolson's; and her version of "Feudin' and Fightin' " has brought in imitations by Joe Stafford, Tex Beneke, Kate Smith and others . . . The record business has finally begun to slump badly enough for the disc companies to start catering to customers seeking older items. Most exciting platter to be dusted off is Muggsy Spanier's "Relaxin' At The Touro" (Victor), still the greatest Muggsy side, even after half a dozen years . . . Roy J. Carew, intimate of the late Jelly Roll Morton while the great jazz genius languished in Washington, has just published Jelly Roll's "Frog-I-More Rag." Carew lives at 818 Quintana pl. nw.

RECORD BESTS: Hal McIntyre's danceable "Chicasaw Limited" (MGM) . . . "Naughty Angeline" by Kay Kyser (Columbia), Art Lund (MGM) and Nat Cole (Capitol) . . . The Hollywood Hucksters, super band that includes Benny Goodman, Red Norvo, Benny Carter and Charlie Shavers, on "Them There Eyes" (Capitol) with a plattermate, "Happy Blues," that has hilariously hip vocals by Benny and Stan Kenton . . . Raymond Scott with his typically diverting mechanics on "Tired Teddy Bear" and delightful "Huckleberry Duck" (MGM) . . . Singer Martha Tilton and Joe Alexander, she on "All of Me" and he on "Cling to Me, Baby" (both Capitol) . . . The Golden Gate Quartet's meaningful swing spiritual "High, Low and Wide" (Columbia .) . . Wingie Mannone's boisterous "Box Car Blues" (Capitol) . . . Two hip sides by Black and White: Jack McVea's "Groove Juice" and Helen Hume's "Be-Bop Bounce."

John Locke Green Seeks 3d Term in Arlington Post

John Locke Green, two-term Republican Arlington County treasurer, yesterday announced he would be a candidate for a third term in November.

Arlington Republicans will meet tonight to nominate GOP candidates for the November 4 election and Green said his name would be presented to tonight's convention.

Long a staunch opponent of the Virginia poll tax, Green recently waged an unsuccessful fight contesting the constitutionality of the tax in a Federal Court.

He also gained prominence in his fight to unseat the late Carter Glass during the legislator's long illness, contending that Virginia was inadequately represented in the United States Senate.

Green has also been a State Republican leader though at times a controversial figure in the Virginia GOP because of his independent actions.

NNC Files Charge Negro Woman Abused by Police

Charges that police manhandled a 39-year-old Washington woman who had protested the overrunning of her property by a bulldozer yesterday were filed with Maj. Robert J. Barrett by the National Negro Congress.

Barret promised an investigation and a report, Mrs. Marie Harris, executive secretary of the Washington Council, NNC, said following an interview with the Metropolitan Police Chief.

The woman, Mrs. Bernice Smith, 4616 Benning rd. se., declared that after the altercation with the bulldozer operator, she was smacked in the face by a policeman while another hit her with his pistol. She was fined for disorderly conduct later. Her attorney, Reginald C. Audrick has filed motion for a new trial.

The woman's husbanr, William LeRoy Smith, 40, was arrested at the same time, charged with firing several "ineffective" shots at Edward Simmons, 216 Maryland ave. ne., driver of the bulldozer, with a .45-caliber pistol.

Up for arraignment in Municipal Court yesterday, Smith asked for a jury trial and was freed on $300 bond after his not guilty plea. His trial was set for September 24.

Back Hurt in Odd Way

Mrs. Alice Menshaw, 38, of 4921 Chevy Chase blvd., Chevy Chase, Md., received a possible broken back yesterday when an ice box door swung open and knocked her against a wall.

Mrs. Menshaw, an employe of Standard Brands, Inc., 2505 Mills ave. ne., was walking through a passageway between two buildings, police said, when the door struck her. She was taken to Casualty Hospital.

Goodwill Bargains

Goodwill Industries have just opened a new store in Alexandria at 120 N. Fayette which carries everything from tricycles to iceboxes at what can be safely called best prices in town.

Everything is second hand. All the items are discarded pieces of furniture and clothing that have been repaired and refinished by blind people, amputees and others so handicapped that they cannot find a place in the competitive job market.

Purpose of Goodwill Industries is to give these people training and employment. The work is financed by contributions and the sale of the renovated articles.

Melodramatic Antics

'Cry Wolf' Mixes Stanwyck, Flynn

By Richard L. Coe

"CRY WOLF," at the Earle, is a very movie-like movie—faces in doorways, screams in the night, and madness in the family. Its melodramatic antics are rather fun.

Because the beginning is better than the final reels, we found ourself trapped by the bizarre notion that the stars, Barbara Stanwyck and Errol Flynn, were playing the reverse of what you'd expect when you get these two in a picture together. We even achieved the plane of considering that Barbara was playing Flynn and Flynn playing Barbara.

You'd expect, if you can't forget "Double Indemnity," for example, to find Barbara with mayhem in her heart and assorted cruelties in hand for someone. And you'd certainly anticipate watching Errol jump over walls, clamber around rooftops and behave with all the derring-do of a costume hero, even if this is a present-day story.

But not in "Cry Wolf." In this one Barbara is practically without blemish. Her only questionable action has been marrying a millionaire so she could "finish my doctor's degree in geology." (Honest, that's what Barbara says in "Cry Wolf.") And it's Barbara who rushes about the old homestead, hauling herself up the dumbwaiter at three in the morning, skedadelling over a damp rooftop and discovering a madman's hideout in the woods. It's certainly the sort of thing Errol used to do.

And Errol, mes cheris, you'd hardly recognize. The "new" Flynn plays Mark, an austere chappie, apparently some sort of scientist who keeps his lab tightly locked. He's not the least pleasant about welcoming his nephew's widow to the family manse, he seems to be plotting to drive his young niece out of her mind (which he does, she splashing most untidily on a concrete terrace) and being pretty tight-lipped toward his brother, who is of all things an ambitious United States Senator. Most of the time Errol just stands around and looks menacing.

Begins Well

The only touch of the old romantic Flynn is a sneaked smack on the Stanwyck lips, which she rewards with a powerful slap on the face. (She hits the top of the Mark—adv.!)

So you can see with this reversal of accustomed activities, how the faithful worshipers of Stanwyck and Flynn may manage to be engrossed by "Cry Wolf."

The beginning is neatly eerie, with Barbara coming unexpectedly to the bereaved home where her wedding license is indeed news. Her welcome is not exactly warm, and the house doesn't look too well heated, either. She becomes pals with her husband's young sister—the lass who messes up that terrace. We'll tell you no more except that "Cry Wolf" should be seen from the beginning, if you happen to wander into it.

Elliott in Newsreels

Among the supporting players you'll find John Ridgely, as one of Flynn's henchmen; John's an old C. U. drama student. Richard Basehart as the geology patron looks quite different from his "Hasty Heart" days, and Helene Thimig, the dancer who was married to Max Reinhardt, is a solemn housekeeper.

And certainly no note on yesterday's new bills, whether at the Earle or elsewhere, would be complete without mention of the newsreels. The new edition has some mighty striking shots of Elliott Roosevelt testifying before Whatshisname's committee. Elliott turns in a mighty convincing performance, as the reviewers' phrase has it.

"CRY WOLF." Warner Brothers release. Produced by Henry Blanke. Screen play by Catherine Turney from the novel by Marjorie Carleton. Music by Franz Waxman. Directed by Peter Godfrey. At the Earle Theater.

Bette and Bogey Work Hard To Little Avail in Old Picture

The film-goer who attends a picture 10 years old should be wary, first of all, lest he be afflicted with the reaction which stunned a woman sitting near us, viz:

"I seen this—10 years ago."

Other impressions, presumably of a more lofty nature, occur to the patron as he inscrutably stares through "Marked Woman," currently creaking along at Keith's. Set down most assuredly at random, some of these might be:

Bette Davis and Humphrey Bogart have come a long way, as the phrase goes, since this picture was made. Whether a similar happy conclusion can be reached regarding films as a whole is something else. Bette was young and fresh and round in those days. At one or two points she even appeared to be doing a thoughtful piece of acting. That these moments were but fleeting can only be ascribed to the hunch that the most anybody could have done with this script was try. Bette certainly gave it the old college fight.

Bogey did, too, though this is not to say that the A for Effort is an end in itself. Anybody can try. The difference, as we reflect, in the work of both actor and actress, now and 10 years ago, is essentially one of pace and experience. Bogart had not, in that cozy prewar day, attained the high Hollywood spot he occupies now, a niche he reached by, if not learning how to act, at least deporting himself before the camera in a manner which pleases the public, which pleases his bosses, which pleases Bogey. Let's say experience did it.

With Bette, it's a matter of pace. Where in 1937 she was likely to slip you in labored fashion the equally labored line her authors had provided, today she could take material fully as footsore and make it look almost inspired.

The story is the thin one about the night club girl who is too smart for her boss (the dirty crook), the eager, earnest young assistant D. A., and some really disturbing machinations. Bogey doesn't even get the girl. She just wanders away in the fog. What were they thinking of back in 1937?

Just two more items for your scrap bag: Allen Jenkins had a bit part in this one and the picture picked up perceptibly at that point. At another juncture, who should wander into things but Raymond Hatton. If that doesn't give you the nostalgia, nothing will.

John Garfield and Priscilla Lane are in the other half of the Keith double bill, a subjunctive number dated 1939 called "Dust Be My Destiny." Both pictures end with courtroom scenes, so don't be confused. ORVAL HOPKINS.

"MARKED WOMAN." Reissue of a 1937 Warner Brothers release. Original screen play by Robert Rosson and Abem Finkel. Directed by Lloyd Bacon. Sharing double bill with "Dust Be My Destiny" (Warner release, 1939) at RKO-Keith's Theater.

Truck Driver Posts Bond In Collision Death of Boy

Steuart Morrisette Faces Manslaughter Charge in Fatal Scooter Accident

Steuart W. Morrisette, 32, of Westgate, Md., yesterday posted $1000 bond on manslaughter charges growing out of the death of 16-year-old Charles Lewis Martin, jr., in Hyattsville, Wednesday night.

The youth, who lived at 3902 Jefferson st., Hyattsville, died in Leland Memorial Hospital at Riverdale of a skull fracture sustained when his motor scooter collided with Morrisette's truck Tuesday.

Morrisette is scheduled for a court appearance August 28.

Other Traffic Accidents

Also scheduled in court that day on a reckless driving charge is Louis Portin, 59, of Baltimore, Md., who suffered a possible fractured spine early yesterday morning when his car struck a guard rail at Crain highway and Marlboro pike. He was brought to Casualty Hospital here.

In Washington two of eight persons injured Wednesday night in a streetcar collision remained in Casualty Hospital yesterday. They are:

Charles E. Shreffler, 65, of 221 Florida ave. nw., with a possible fractured shoulder and Dorothy Hunt, 17, of 1210 N. Capitol st., who suffered a possible fractured left arm.

They were injured when a streetcar, operated by John R. Brown, 23, of 614 M st. sw., rammed the rear of another operated by William L. Puckett, 23, of 1009 9th st. se. Police said Puckett had stopped his car at 4th st. on Florida ave. ne., when the other car struck his.

The Martin youth, a freshman at Hyattsville High School, was born in Washington, but moved to the Maryland suburb with his parents about seven years ago. He is survived by his parents and a 7-year-old brother, Glenn Martin.

Funeral services will be held at the Gasch Funeral Home, 4739 Baltimore blvd., Hyattsville, at 11 a. m. tomorrow. Burial will be in Oak Hill Cemetery.

Nine Agencies To Move Here

SEC and War Assets, which is being shifted to the temporary buildings on 17th st. nw. near the Reflecting Pool.

SEC has about 890 employes in Philadelphia of whom 643 indicated they will return here.

PBA has set the transfer here of Civil Service's fourth regional office in Winston-Salem, N. C., for early in November. The office has 195 employes and 105 will return.

Meantime, PBA will move all Civil Service activities here into four buildings, the Main Building at 7th and F sts. nw., the Tariff Building across the street, and temporaries D and E on Independence ave. The regional office will go to the temporary structures.

Immigration and Naturalization Service will be brought back in early December. It has 937 employes in Philadelphia and 550 say they will move here with the agency. The agency will be given quarters in the temporary buildings at Buzzards Point now occupied by War's Quartermaster Corps.

The Bureau of Employes Compensation isn't scheduled to return from New York until after January 1. About 250 of its 350 employes say they will make the transfer. The agency will be placed in either the Social Security or Railroad Retirement Buildings.

PBA had hoped to start moving Veterans' Administration's actuarial insurance offices here from New York in September. The transfer, however, is likely to be postponed for several months.

VA had first planned to bring back 1500 jobs and 500 people, the remainder to be recruited here. Now the agency wants to return upward of 2500 insurance jobs and PBA hasn't been able to work out the additional space. It had been planned to put the offices into the temporary buildings occupied by the War Department and other agencies on 25th st. back of the new State Building. But now, it seems, the Secretary of National Defense has asked for some of that space.

One thing is sure—PBA will not rent office space for the returned agencies. PBA has given up quarters in 28 leased buildings here in the past six months, and it plans to release 30 additional rented buildings in the next six months. Space must be found here in Government-owned structures or else the return of the agencies will be delayed temporarily.

In the general reshuffling of offices now under way, Commerce agencies are being taken out of 10 rented buildings and consolidated in temporaries 4 and 5 at 17th st. and Constitution ave. State Department has been reduced from 32 to 17 buildings and additional consolidations are in the works.

GAO: This agency yesterday sought to allay rumors of mass firings by telling their employes in detail of layoffs and downgrading plans. The statement issued by Comptroller General Lindsay Warren explained:

That the General Accounting Office will make further reductions in force of 1050 during the 1948 fiscal year, and that additional downgrading also will be made. Both reductions and downgradings will be gradual.

Warren said that GAO had 10,550 employes on July 1 and that it must get down to 9500 by June 30 next year. About 650 employes here will be fired.

PEOPLE: The President yesterday accepted the resignation of Katherine C. Blackburn as chief of the Office of Government Reports. He praised her for her work . . . John C. McFarland will retire soon as general counsel of the General Accounting Office. Senator Byrd says his fundless economy committee will continue to gather monthly reports on Federal employment.

High School Boy Dies of Injuries

CHARLES L. MARTIN, Jr., 16, Hyattsville High School freshman, died at Leland Memorial Hospital as a result of injuries suffered when his motor scooter collided with delivery truck Tuesday at 38th and Hamilton sts., Hyattsville

D. C. Issues New Orders On Collateral

Change in Charges For Traffic Cases Effective August 15

The District Commissioners yesterday issued new orders covering the amount of collateral to be posted by persons violating the traffic laws.

The new order was placed before the Commissioners by George P. Barse, Chief Judge of the Municipal Court for the District of Columbia. The new amounts go into effect on August 15.

Purpose of the order, it was explained, is to bring into better alnignment the amount of collateral charged for specific traffic violations with the fine for such violations.

Noise Cost Reduced

Among changes in minimum collateral under the new order are the following: Unnecessary horn noise, reduced from $10 to 5; failure to slow for an intersection, raised from $5 to $10; improper lights or no lights, each violation raised from $3 to $5; cutting in, in traffic, raised from $5 to $10; permitting an unsafe mechanical condition or having a car in unsafe mechanical condition, raised from $20 to $25.

Among changes in collateral for parking violations are a reduction from $10 to $3 for parking at a bus stpo, from $10 to $5 for obstructing a crosswak; from $10 to $5 for obstructing an intersection; from $10 to $5 for overtime parking in excess of 18 hours; from $10 to $5 for parking on the sidewalk.

Drunken Driving Unchanged

Also reduced was the collateral for operating a car without a District permit, from $100 to $50. Drunken driving was continued at $500, and reckless driving at $300 collateral. Collateral for driving through an occupied safety zone was increased from $20 to $25.

Changes in collateral for taxicabs included reduction from $5 to $3 for failure to display badge, from $10 to $5 for cruising, from $15 to $10 for failure to pull to curb to discharge a passenger; from $15 to $10 for soliciting fares.

Increases in collateral for taxicabs included collateral from $40 to $50 for unlicensed taxicabs.

Collateral for automobiles weaving in traffic was increased from $5 to $10.

Beetle Fight Mapped for Next Year

Increased Ravages Of Pest Bring Pleas for Action From Northern Va.

The Japanese beetle menace to croplands neighboring Washington yesterday brought pleas for immediate Senatorial action and plans for an all-out fight against the voracious pests next year.

From Loudoun and Clarke counties, Virginia, came petitions to the office of U. S. Senator Harry F. Byrd, (D., Va.) complaining that Jap beetles were destroying gardens and farms of his constituents.

And from Frederick, Md., came word that Maryland State authorities will outline plans to local groups for an intensive assault against the pests next season. Dr. George S. Langford, of the University fo Maryland Service, declared it too late this year to put the plans in operation.

Infestation More Severe

M. J. Menafee, secretary to Senator Byrd, was of somewhat the same opinion. He said he relayed the Virginia complaints to Agriculture Department officials and was advised that the destructive season of Japanese beetles will soon end.

The Agriculture Department, Menefee said, confirmed the report that infestation is more severe this year than last in the two Virginia counties and added that indications are that their numbers are greater in the Virginia area in general.

The invading army of insects now covers about 40,000 square miles and is adding about 3000 to 4000 more square miles yearly, the department reported.

Public Support Necessary

The Maryland State program to lessen ravages of the beetles will be submitted to the Rural-Urban committee of the Frederick Rotary Club within the next three weeks, according to County Agent Henry R. Shoemaker.

Shoemaker assailed previous public apathy to the problem, declaring "we have had a hard time in getting public support up until about a year ago."

The State plan, he said, would attack the pests early in the season, when they infest hedgerows, bushes and trees before they spread to the cornfields.

Alexandria Woman Held For Grand Jury

Miss Mary F. Codyer, 32, of 1030 Cross dr., Alexandria yesterday was ordered held for the Arlington grand jury on a charge of leaving the scene of an accident.

At a police court hearing, Miss Codyer testified she was unaware the car she was driving had struck a 4½-year-old child at 31st rd. and Abington st. on July 25.

Police said the child, Francis Butler of 4623 S. 31st rd., was admitted at Arlington Hospital but later released. A witness reported the tag number of a car which struck the child, police said.

Murder of Infant Is Charged to Unwed Mother

Hagerstown, Md., Aug. 7 (Spl). Dorothy McCarty, 21, of Hancock, Md., today was formally charged with the murder of her day old infant, according to Deputy Sheriff Leister Isanogle.

The official said the unmarried mother admitted after lengthy questioning she had strangled the infant and placed it in a shoe box found in the old C. & O. canal on August 2.

Police said she is also the mother of a 4-year-old child. A man she described as her boy friend was picked up at the same time but later released. The young mother told police she and the man had already applied for a wedding license.

162 More Indicted In Jobless Aid Fraud

Baltimore, Aug. 7 (AP).—The Baltimore grand jury today returned 162 indictments on charges of defrauding the State of unemployment compensation, bringing to 600 the number of such true bills returned.

The prosecutions are being made by the Employment Security Board, the former State Unemployment Compensation Board.

H. F. Rivers Is Appointed To District Parole Post

Hugh Francis Rivers yesterday was appointed paid member of the District Parole Board by the District Commissioners to fill a position created in the 1948 Appropriation Act.

Rivers

Rivers, who has served as executive secretary of the board since it was established in 1932, was designated "full-time parole executive" at a salary of $7,102.

A native of Washington, Rivers is 40 years old. He was graduated from Columbus University Law School in 1931 and admitted to the District bar in 1932.

During World War II, he served for more than three years in the Navy, saw service on an aircraft carrier in the Atlantic and rose to the rank of lieutenant commander.

The new members lives at 524 Ashford rd., Silver Spring, with his wife and two children.

A. B. Starnes

Fredericksburg, Va., Aug. 7.—A. B. Starnes, 71, retired Baptist minister, died last night at the home of his niece, Mrs. Paul Jones, at Post Oak, Spotsylvania County. He was a native of Afton, Tenn. The body will be taken there for burial.

Foreign Students Get Orientation In U. S. Customs

By Howard Dutkin
Post Reporter

The freedom granted American women is sometimes misconstrued by foreigners as freedom to make passes at them.

Combatting this misconception forms part of the orientation course for foreign students, now current at the Wilson Teachers College, under the direction of Mrs. Margaret Emmons.

The course, which, depending on the individual, lasts from a week to three months, provides a working knowledge of American customs, geography and social and political problems for students from other countries who will enter various universities in this country on scholarships provided by the United States or their native lands.

"We have noticed that some of the male students, unaccustomed to seeing nice girls go about unescorted in their own countries, think that the latitude granted girls here make them easy prey," Mrs. Emmons said.

"Once however, it is explained to theme that it is merely a difference in social custom, they respond quickly," she explained.

64 Students Enrolled

The course is provided for by the State Department Division of International Exchange of Persons which selected the local institution for the indoctrination program. There are currently 64 students enrolled in the course.

The students are selected originally by a joint board composed of Americans and their own fellownations. Most of them hold governmental positions in their own countries and will return to their jobs strengthened by new theories and methods learned here.

Esther Ortiz, pretty, brunette Guatemalan public health nurse was enthusiastic over women's freedom here.

"In my country one cannot go out at night unaccompanied," she said a shade ruefully."

Love of Freedom Impresses

Another impressed by the ideal of liberty was Wibun Worawan, a Siamese law student, who will enter the Georgetown University School of Foreign Service this fall.

"I am most impressed by the great love for freeedom displayed by Americans," Worowan, who has been in this country a month, declared. "While in my country women cannot go out alone, I think it is all right for them to do so here. They are so well educated, they can be trusted to take care of themselves."

While most of the students were uttering the usual complaints about the beauties of Washington, Guillermo Blanco, a professor of biology frem Venezuela, found a flaw.

Need More Showers

"Washington boarding houses do not have enough showers," he said. "I believe a shower is more hygienic than a bathtub."

Blanco will study public health and hygiene at the University of Minnesota.

Ena Rodriguez, of La Paz, Bolivia, here to study public health nursing thought everything just fine except that Americans "talk too fast."

Baseball impressed Manuel F. Munoz, Guatemalan civil engineer, who will continue his studies at the University of North Carolina. He saw his first game at Griffith Stadium recently. Although he agreed it was a splendid game, Munoz was a trifle vague about who had won.

Fire Unit Discussed

Fredericksburg, Va., Aug. 7.—A meeting to consider formation of a volunteer fire department for the northern portion of Stafford County will be held at Midway Island August 18 at 8 p. m. A steering committee which has been studying the matter will make its report.

Bethesda Man Chosen for Court Officer

Edward M. Carr, 5612 Glenwood dr., Bethesda, Md., will be appointed Assignment Commissioner of Municipal Court, Chief Judge George P. Barse announced yesterday.

The position, provided for under the Appropriation Act for the District of Columbia, signed recently by President Truman, carries a P-5 rating and a salary of $5905. Carr is now chief clerk of the Office of the Administration of Rent Control.

Carr will have as assistants Miss Katherine M. Duckwall, deputy assignment commissioner, and Edward G. Shipley, jury clerk.

Miss Duckwall is now jury clerk in the civil division of Muncipal Court, while Shipley is assistant financial clerk of the criminal division.

System Has Operated Well

The assignment commissioner is to allocate pending cases to the various judges as they become available. Previously, judges were required to do this work in addition to their regular court assignment.

Judge Barse said:

"The assignment commissioner system has operated satisfactorily in the District Court and we consider that it will be of great value in the Municipal Court, and will enabl eus to dispose of the business in the Civil Division more efficiently."

Carr organized the small claims branch of the court. He attended Washington and Jefferson University in Pennsylvania and received an LL.B. degree at Columbia University in 1939.

Miss Duckwall, who will be a P-3, at $4149, graduated from Western High School and received LL.B. and LL.M. degrees from George Washington University. Shipley attended pre-legal classes at night at George Washington University.

Judge Barse said no date had been set for swearing in the personnel, but he hoped the office of the assignment commissioner will begin operating about October 1.

Judge Is Riled

7 Sentenced Or Fined as Park Drunks

With the aid of winter weather, Municipal Court Judge John P. McMahon hopes to put a stop to the drunks in Washington parks.

In high dudgeon, the judge yesterday handed out fines up to $50 and sentences up to 45 days to seven men charged with "lying around drunk in the parks."

"It's getting so decent people don't want to go into the parks," the judge said.

Russian Skipper Held for Dumping Bilge at Baltimore

Baltimore, Aug. 7 (AP).—In the first prosecution under a new State law, a Russian sea captain was arrested as he was about to board his ship and posted $1000 bail on a charge of dumping oily bilge water into Baltimore harbor.

He was docketed as T. P. Rynkus, master of the S. S. Nicolaev, out of Odessa. Rynkus had his clearance papers, a pilot already had boarded the vessel to guide it down Chesapeake Bay, and a tug was coming alongside when the skipper was arrested.

Port authorities and groups trying to eliminate pollution in the harbor recently initiated a campaign to keep ships from dumping oil. A conviction on the charge against Captain Rynkus carries a maximum penalty of 90 days in jail or a $500 fine. No hearing date has been set.

Crash Near Petersburg Kills 1, Hurts Another

Hopewell, Va., Aug. 7 (AP).—One man was killed and another was injured when an automobile crashed into a tree on the Petersburg-Hopewell road at Cousin's Store, about six miles east of Petersburg.

The dead man tentatively was identified by police as T/5 Charles J. Taylor of Martinsburg, W. Va.

Five Youths Held In Holdup of Baltimore Pair

Annapolis, Md., Aug. 7 (AP).—Five youths charged with holding up a Baltimore couple at Stoney Creek July 27 were held for grand jury action today by magistrate David B. Dunker.

One of the five, Darwin L. Murphy, 18 of Brooklyn, Md., pleaded guilty to the charges, but others pleaded innocent.

The others are: Philip J. Patti, 19, of Baltimore; August J. Patti, 20, of Brooklyn, Md.; Elmer L. Dehn, 21, of Baltimore; and Henry Dehn, 19, of Brooklyn, Md.

Chest Drive To Be Shorter For This Year

The Greater Washington Community Chest drive will be shorter and more intensified this year—limited to two weeks in November—it was announced yesterday.

Previous money-raising campaigns for the 125 welfare and health agencies in Washington, Alexandria, Arlington and Fairfax Counties, and Montogmery and Prince Georges Counties, have run 30 to 60 days.

Leaders of the chest federation feel, however, that the past drives were too long, and as such dampened the enthusiasm of the volunteer collectors, according to Edward H. Foley, jr., campaign chairman.

The drive will get under way November 12 and close November 25.

Polio Rate Shows Sharp Decline in Four Years

D. C. Incidence Continues Low; Seasonal Peak Still to Come

The nation's continued high incidence of polio cases during the past four calendar years has dropped sharply and comfortingly, according to figures released yesterday by the U. S. Public Health Service.

In the District of Columbia, where records do not follow the national polio pattern, the break in high numbers of infantile paralysis cases came last year, and the incidence continues low.

National and local health officials, however, were cautious in their elation. They warned the public to follow the usual summertime precautions against polio, pointing out that seasonal peaks in the disease are approaching.

August Peak Month

The Nation's peak number of cases reported in one week last year came in mid-August, when 1816 were recorded. The highest number reported in the District in 1946 in one week was but four cases, during the first week of September.

Last year's national, peak week total of 1816 cases contrasts to a total of 1955 cases reported throughout the country for the entire 31 weeks of this year, ending August 2, the health service records show. In the corresponding 31-week period of last year, 5450 cases were recorded.

Since March 15, the accepted date of lowest incidence, records for this year show there have been 1344 cases, as compared to 4983 cases for the same period a year ago.

"I doubt that the peak week this year will have more than 400 cases," said a spokesman of the United States Public Health Service. He asked that his name be withheld because "with polio, anything can happen."

Outbreak Still Possible

"It is not really too late for a sharp rise—that is, a fairly limited explosive outbreak—in a particular locality of the country," he declared.

"But, from the figures to date this year, the indication is that the high incidence of the past four years for the country as a whole will be broken."

The full-year case totals for the past four "bad" years show:

1946, second worst epidemic year on record—25,247 cases (the record high was reached in 1916 when approximately 30,000 cases were recorded over the Nation).

The Public Health Department of the District of Columbia has recorded but three polio cases within the District this year. The number is one less than the four cases reported to the same date last year.

District Record Fair

Total number of cases recorded in the District for the past four years, showing that the District suffered only two years during the Nation's four years of high incidence:

1946—32 cases; 1945—139; 1944—194 (the highest number of cases in any one year of District records), and 1943—12. In the national epidemic year of 1916, the District had but 39 infantile paralysis cases recorded.

The District Public Health Department also supplied comparative figures for the 31-week period of this year for the District and the State of Maryland and Virginia, and the ccorresponding period totals for past years. They show:

Polio cases recorded in first 31-week periods of years designated.

Pistol Packing Girls Guard Bank's Cash

Albany, N. Y. (U.P.).—Bandits should steer clear of the National Commercial Bank and Trust Co. here.

Five comely girl bank tellers, who have a friendly smile for persons on legitimate financial business, are prepared to give gunmen a hot reception.

The girls are all proficient marksmen with the .38-caliber Colt revolvers which the bank furnishes in each teller's cage. The girls learned to shoot after taking over teller jobs left vacant by men entering service during the war.

Idea Would Shield Illegitimate Children

Boston (U.P.).—A new type of birth certificate designed to protect illegitimate children is suggested by Miss Maud Morlock of the U. S. Children's Bureau.

Miss Morlock, a consultant on services to unmarried mothers, told a meeting of social workers that legislative approval should be given to certificates bearing only the holder's name, race and date and place of birth.

Only eight States have such a system now, she said, adding that the present method of naming parents made the 100,000 illegitimate babies born annually in the United States "vulnerable to tragic discrimination."

In Maryland and Virginia

Fisheries Dept. Asks Plane, 2 Patrol Boats

Annapolis, Md., Aug. 7 (AP).—The Department of Tidewater Fisheries asked the Board of Public Works today to put more pep in its law enforcement fleet by permitting the purchase of another amphibious plane and two modern patrol boats.

Department Chief John E. Clark said that two landing craft had been acquired from the Government without cost. He asked that the $12,000 allocated in the emergency bond issue for these craft be used to purchase 35 binoculars, 35 rifles and 35 automatic pistols and radios for present patrol craft.

Only a few of the boats are fully equipped now, he said, because of the shortage of such materials during the war.

Clark asked for $6000 for one patrol boat and $4000 for another. He said both craft would be fast enough to overtake oyster poachers in the Potomac and the Chesapeake Bay.

Through cooperation with Virginia, he said it might be possible to get some financial assistance on the purchase of the second plane.

After discussion, the board referred the problem to the attorney general to decide whether it had power under the emergency bond issue to authorize the action requested by the department.

Whisky Tax Take Drops

Annapolis, Md., Aug. 7 (AP).—Consumption of hard liquor in Maryland during July was off approximately 57 per cent compared with July, 1946, a report of the State Comptroller's office showed today.

Taxes collected on distilled spirits totaled only $263,719 for July, compared with $610,009—this continuing the trend of recent months in Maryland.

Chief Deputy Comptroller Joseph O. C. McCusker, said "I guess the people just don't have the price." He said that in arranging the State budget, fiscal experts, had estimated receipts almost twice that figure.

Beer tax receipts were up, however, from $125,274 in July, 1946, to $155,535 last month. Wine receipts changed little—$24,424 last month and $25,581 a year ago.

Bottlers Begin Operation

Fredericksburg, Va., Aug. 7.—The Cliquot Bottling Co. of Fredericksburg began operation here today in a new plant at 1101 Sophia st. It will serve 12 counties in this area. Robert Landreth of Washington is president and treasurer of the company, and Albert Goodgame of Chattanooga, Tenn., is general manager.

Wanted: Wooden Bottle

Baltimore, Aug. 7 (AP).—The Druid Hill Park Zoo today sought a wooden bottle that looks real enough to fool an elephant.

Minnie the elephant, officials explained, now brandishes a glass bottle with her trunk while staggering and swooning through her daily drinking act.

They fear Minnie may drop the bottle and step on it, putting an end to the act.

Elephants' hides are thick, the Zoo said, but their feet are "extremely tender pads."

Utility Loan Approved

Richmond, Va., Aug. 7 (AP).—The State Corporation Commission today authorized the Petersburg and Hopewell Gas Co. to borrow $50,000 from First and Merchants National Bank in Richmond, proceeds of the loan to be used for the construction of improvements of the company's facilities and for the improvement and maintenance of service.

Turkey Growers Meet

Harrisonburg, Va., Aug. 7 (AP).—A technical discussion of turkey problems at the Sunny Slope Farm, owned by Charles W. Wampler, sr., ended the two-day meeting of the Virginia Turkey Growers Association here yesterday.

The gathering of growers and representatives of allied industries from eight States honored Wampler, a pioneer in the commercial poultry field in Virginia. He and Mrs. Wampler entertained the 150 attending at lunch. The farm of his son, Charles W. Wampler, jr., had been the scene of the morning session.

Dumping Penalties Set

Richmond, Va., Aug. 7 (AP).—The State Highway Department pointed out today that those "no dumping" signs put up along highway rights-of-way soon will have effective legal backing.

And for the skeptical, the department pointed out that a regulation was passed by the Highway Commission at its quarterly session on June 25 and becomes effective 60 days thereafter. It provides strong legal support for the department's long-standing effort to keep Old Dominion roadsides neat and clean.

The regulation makes it unlawful for "any persons, firm or corporation to dump, pile or scatter . . . any debris or rubbish upon any portion of the Commonwealth." Violation is a misdemeanor, and those guilty "shall be civilly liable to the Commonwealth."

$2000 Fine Paid

Richmond, Va., Aug. 7 (AP).—The Federal District Court office here has received $2000 for payment of the fine imposed on Roanoke Realtor D. E. Nelson when he was convicted of aiding in misapplication of funds of the Fredericksburg Farmers and Merchants Bank.

Nelson was one of nine persons, including Dairyman Hugh N. Rakes, accused by the Government of taking part in a check-kiting scheme to finance Rake's dairy operations. All were convicted.

Judge J. Waties Waring of Charleston, S. C., who heard the case here, sentenced Nelson to $2000 fine or three months in jail.

State Gets 18 Roads

Fredericksburg, Va., Aug. 7.—The Stafford County Board of Supervisors added 18 county roads to the State secondary system yesterday.

During their monthly meeting, the supervisors also heard objections from citizens of the Belle Plains vicinity to the proposed enlargement of a fish processing plant on the Potomac River and amended the sanitary ordinance to require all persons to obtain permits for installing septic tanks.

Capt. Thomas Promoted

Richmond, Va., Aug. 7 (AP).—Capt. William C. Thomas, executive officer of the Virginia State Police, has been promoted to major and will take over some of the duties formerly asigned to Maj. James R. Nunn, who resigned last week.

Col. C. W. Woodson, superintendent of State Police, in announcing Thomas' promotion, said he would enter the superintendent's office as a result of "reallocation of duties."

Former Major Nunn served as acting superintendent during Colonel Woodson's absence in war years and more recently had been personnel officer.

Light Training Set

The 340th Searchlight Battalion, 260th Anti-Aircraft Artillery Group, D. C. National Guard, now on 15 days' field training at Fort George G. Meade, Md., will conduct a searchlight exercise at 8:30 tonight.

New Sheriff Named

Blackstone, Va., Aug. 7 (AP).—Circuit Judge J. Garland Jefferson today appointed E. C. Ellett, jr., to fill out the unexpired term of Sheriff Charles G. Ashmore, who was found dead Tuesday night. The term will expire December 31. Sheriff Ashmore was defeated for renomination by Ellett in the Democratic primary.

Hospital Is Named

Annapolis, Md., Aug. 7 (AP).—The State Board of Public Works decided today the name of the new hospital now under construction on the outskirts of Salisbury shall be "Deer's Head State Hospital."

It is designed for the treatment of persons on the Eastern Shore who have chronic diseases and lack the means for hospitalization.

2 Hurt by Train

Martinsburg, W. Va., Aug. 7.—Mrs. Beatrice Fellers of this city and Mrs. Roxy Holton of Cherry Run, near here, walked into a slowly moving train at a grade crossing here yesterday, receiving injuries described as not serious.

Police said the women, who were on their way home from work, did not see the train. A third woman with them, Mrs. Pauline Fletcher, stopped in time to avoid being hit. Mrs. Holton suffered head and shoulder injuries, while Mrs. Fellers had minor cuts and bruises.

Flood Repairs Rushed

Winchester, Va., Aug. 7.—All available highway department men and equipment have been sent to the western section of Frederick County to repair damage caused by last Sunday's flash floods to secondary roads, resident Highway Engineer F. M. Yellott said today.

Yellott said many roads are impassable, while in low sections, culverts as well as roads are filled with top soil washed from orchards and cornfields. He estimated damage at thousands of dollars.

Hog Figures Given

Richmond, Va., Aug. 6 (AP).—The Cooperative Crop Reporting Service announced today that 1,258,000 hogs were slaughtered in Virginia during 1946.

In what it described as the first report on livestock slaughtered in the State, the crop reporting service said 678,000 hogs were killed in nonfarm slaughter houses and 580,000 on farms.

Also during the year there were 138,500 cattle slaughtered on and off farms during the past year; 103,000 calves, 40,400 sheep and lambs. The crop service pointed out that most of the lamb crop is shipped out of the State as is a large part of the cattle herds.

The figures were obtained from reports of the United States Bureau of Animal Industry and from wholesale and retail slaughterers made to the Bureau of Agricultural Economics. This makes the first time that complete figures have been available on livestock slaughter, the crop service stated.

50 Dogs Rounded Up

Frederick, Md., Aug. 7.—Sheriff Guy Anders said today his force had rounded up about 50 unlicensed dogs since the new dog law took effect here July 15. County Treasurer James H. Falk placed the number of dog licenses issued thus far at approximately 6900 and said quite a few applications are still being made for licenses. The final total is expected to be well over 7000.

352 Experts Asked to Give Ideas on D. C. Home Rule Plan

Experts on local government across the Nation yesterday were urged to offer ideas and suggestions on home rule and reorganization of the District government.

Altogether, 325 "outstanding" specialists were invited to assist the House District subcommittee headed by Representative James C. Auchincloss (R., N. J.) in preparing a preliminary plan for a streamlined District administration.

The experts, selected from the membership directory of the American Political Science Association, included more than a score from Washington.

Griffenhagen Queried

Among the nationally prominent experts queried are Edwin O. Griffenhagen of Chicago, who made a study of District government in 1937; Louis Brownlow of Chicago, one-time District Commissioner; Dr. John A. Fairlee of University of Illinois, former president of the American Political Science Association; Dr. Ernest S. Griffith, director of the Library of Congress legislative reference service.

Each expert has been mailed a pamphlet containing charts of the present District government and an explanation of them. In the accompanying letter, Chairman Auchincloss wrote:

"The government established for the District . . . as provided by the Constitution . . . is the sole responsibility of Congress and during the years past it has expended and grown in a more or less haphazard fashion. It is well known that the residents of the District do not enjoy suffrage and this is a matter which is being given a great deal of attention in our studies."

Called Burden to Congress

In commenting on the work of the subcommittee, which held 25 meetings and heard 100 witness in the recent session of Congress, Representative Auchincloss said:

"The District is the seat of the Nation's Capital. . . . Congress has exclusive authority to run the District. That is not any reason, however, why it should continue to act as a municipal council for the District which has been the case since 1874.

"In a world where there are pressing national and international problems of paramount importance, it is wasteful of the time of national legislators to legislate on all the affairs of one city. This year, Congress had to pass a bill to remove two stone pillars near the White House.

"The time has come when Congress, retaining suitable controls over District, should be relieved of the housekeeping duties of Washington. The question is no longer what Congress should do—but how it should do it. For that reason, we are seeking the advice of the outstanding experts in the country on municipall government."

Among the Washington experts, as identified by the directory of the American Political Science Association (1945), from which the list was compileld, are the following:

Dr. Gladys L. Baker, Agriculture Department; Eugene C. Brown, Navy Department; Dr. Charles H. Coleman, sr., former War Production Board official; Dr. Robert H. Connery, Catholic University professor; Edwin M. Duerbeck, Federal Public Housing project planner; Edward R. Gray, Census Bureau.

Dr. Anna Haddow, American Association of School Administrators; Dorsey W. Hyde, jr., National Archives; Miss Dorothy W. Kaufman, Bureau of Census; Miss Alice Fraser MacDonald, writer; Fritz Mortstein Marx, Budget Bureau; Dr. Dale Pontius, National Resources Planning Board.

Dr. Henry Reining, jr., National Institute of Public Affairs; Charles S. Rhyne, National Institute of Municipal Law Officers; Geddes W. Rutherford, political science lecturer here; Dr. Harold Seidman, Budget Bureau; Dr. Karl E. Stromsen, National Institute of Public Affairs; Carl W. Tiller, Budget Bureau; Dr. Herman Walker, jr., Agriculture Department, and Waldo E. Waltz, University of Maryland lecturer.

Cracker Munching Mounts in U. S.

Chicago (U.P.).—Americans are taking kindly to a liquid and cracker diet.

The biscuit industry national convention reached that conclusion, but neglected to say which is promoting the other.

One company official presented figures. H. A. Clemmer, New York, said the industry sold 419 million dollars worth of cookies and crackers last year. He predicted snacking-tippling habits of the Nation will be an unlimited market for more cookies and crackers.

He said they generally are washed down with orange juice, pop, milk, coffee and tea, as well as beer and mixed liquors.

Clemmer contended that frequent nibblings are better than "three-times-a-day stuffing."

Legion Seeks Building

Winchester, Va., Aug. 7.—The Conrad-Hoover American Legion Post is in the black now and accumulating funds for building or buying a post headquarters. L. E. Hill, retiring commander, has told members. A membership of 758, fourth largest in the State, was reported, with a goal of 1000 for the year.

NOW SHE SHOPS "CASH AND CARRY"

Without Painful Backache

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 50 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Girl Bitten by Snake

Baltimore, Aug. 7 (AP).—Barbara Lerch, 9, of Knoxville, Md., was pronounced in "satisfactory" condition today at University Hospital after receiving anti-venom serum for copperhead snake bite.

Barbara said she was playing with her sister, Judy, 5, near her home in Frederick County yesterday when a snake "crawled out of some bushes and bit me."

State Police said the snake was a copperhead.

Water, Sewer Connections Rise 50 Pct.

Spokesmen for the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission pointed out early yesterday that installation of sanitary connections for individual homes during the first six months of this year is up 50 per cent over the same period last year.

This statement was made in answer to charges that the commission is failing to provide such service for new homes in Prince Georges and Montgomery Counties.

New connections were made for 2965 homes in the area through June, as against 2041 a year ago, they reported. An additional 518 connections were made last month. In 1945 only 1389 homes were connected to the commission's mains.

Admitting that a large backlog of unserviced homes exists in the two counties, the WSSC cited three factors which contribute to this. Most of the new home construction is in outlying areas beyond existing mains which have to be extended before connections can be made.

The number of contracting firms which handle the main installation is limited, as is the amount of work each can accomplish, and shortage of materials handicap them further in completing the installation.

Many builders do not notify the commission of their need for extended sanitary facilities until construction has actually begun, with the result that the homes are often completed before the commission has even drawn up specifications for water and sewer mains.

Fireman Gets All Wet in Second Baptism

Houston, Tex. (U.P.).—Fire Inspector R. L. McNalley was baptized 25 years ago. He has just been baptized again, this time without benefit of clergy.

McNalley was inspecting the wiring in the First Baptist Church when he noticed a closed door.

"What's in there?" he asked the building superintendent.

"That's the baptistry," the superintendent replied. "But it's been drained."

McNalley opened the door and stepped down several steps right into his second baptism. He got out shivering and dripping.

Fewer Hawaii Flowers

Honolulu, T. H.—Flower exports from Hawaii in 1946 showed a 25-per-cent decline from 1945, but the shipment of 12,514 packages during December set an all-time monthly record. Ruth Elliott of the University of Hawaii said the reduction in total exports may be attributed to the smaller number of military personnel in the territory.

Miss Caldwell, Fla. Governor's Sister, Dies

Miss Jeanne Elizabeth Caldwell, 47, sister of Gov. Millard F. Caldwell of Florida, was found dead yesterday on the porch of 4518 30th st. nw., where she had lived the past seven years.

Mrs. Elizabeth Clark, owner of the house, said Miss Caldwell had left for work at the General Accounting Office shortly after 8 a. m. Her body was not discovered on a porch couch until 11:30 a. m.

She was pronounced dead at 12:15 a. m. by Dr. Donald Fedt of Emergency Hospital. She had been under a doctor's care for some time.

Born October 18, 1899, at Knoxville, Tenn., she had worked for GAO as a claims examiner since 1942.

Tuck Recommends Members for Rent Control Boards

Richmond, Va., Aug. 7 (AP).—Governor Tuck today forwarded to Frank R. Creedon, Federal housing expediter, his recommendations for membership on rent control advisory boards in the Petersburg-Hopewell and Lexington defense rental areas.

The Governor's nominations for the two boards today, as in his recommendations for five previous boards, were based on recommendations from mayors in the cities concerned and the Circuit Court judges in the counties. Recommendations announced today:

Petersburg (independent cities of Petersburg and Hopewell; Counties of Dinwiddie and Prince George and Matoaka Magisteral Districts in Chesterfield) — Petersburg: I. J. Andrews, Samuel B. Harwell and William H. Worth. Chesterfield: Wilbur S. Dishman, Colonial Heights. Hopewell: Ashley P. Cutchin, jr. Dinwiddie: J. R. Burgess of Petersburg. Prince George—Frank W. Colona, Route 2, Hopewell.

Lexington (magisterial district of Lexington in Rockbridge County)—W. A. Kinnear, J. MacKenzie Tabb, Marry Deaver, jr., Finley Waddell and George Allison.

Va. Enrollments To Continue High, Researcher Says

Charlottesville, Va., Aug. 7.—During the next six years the number of college students in Virginia will be well above the normal level, Prof. John L. Lancaster, research associate in the University of Virginia's bureau of population and economic research, said yesterday.

In an address before the summer meeting of Phi Delta Kappa, professional education fraternity, he attributed this enrollment increase to the large number of veterans in attendance. The peak will be reached in 1948-1949, when out of a total of 43,500, 18,500 are expected to be veterans.

Professor Lancaster stressed the need of an abnormal expansion of facilities on a temporary basis through 1953. Housing for approximately double the number of persons cared for during the 1939-1940 academic year will be required in 1948-1949, he estimated.

Only 36 Saved From Scharnhorst

London, Aug. 7 (AP).—Only 36 German sailors of her complement of about 900 officers and men survived the sinking of the Scharnhorst, Adolf Hitler's last seaworthy battlecruiser, off the north cape of Norway December 26, 1943, a British admiralty report disclosed today.

The report, signed by Admiral Sir Bruce M. A. Fraser, commander in chief of the British home fleet at the time, described the stalking of the Scharnhorst by units of the home fleet as the German war vessel sougth to attack a convoy en route to Murmansk.

Counting Pennies with Carolyn

Lots of people are talking about the beautiful Business Center at Shirlington and how much they enjoy shopping there. It isn't just the weekend bargains, they say. It's the pleasure of shopping where all the stores are only a step from each other, the ample parking space in the center of things, the beautiful architectural surroundings. It's the convenience of being able to shop Friday nights till nine, all day Saturday till six, when city stores are closed. It's the courteous, interested attention you receive everywhere.

You just catch a bus from 10th and F or Pennsylvania at 12th Street, and go straight to Shirlington. It's a delightful drive by car along the broad traffic-free Shirley Highway, without a light all the way.

One lady we know tells us she finds Shirlington so convenient that she goes to a dentist in the Medical Building over the Shirlington Theater where several doctors and dentists have splendid modern offices.

The Post Office is wonderfully handy, too. It's big enough to handle mail for a whole city, but there are no crowds. There, you can mail your parcels in a jiffy.

Woolworth's, a Shirlington enthusiast tells us, is the place to shop for those picnic things you need most summer weekends. This is a spacious and attractive store, with just about everything you need for your home, for you, even for your garden. It's so easy to find what you want in a hurry, too, because everything is in plain sight !

Here's good news for the young man of the family, getting ready for the next semester, and his Dad too. Ted Louis has a fine stock of new gray flannel suits, single or double-breasted, at $50. They're tailored with the clean precision men of all ages admire—come with short, regular and long trousers. Father and son may both choose fine Dobbs hats to complete their outfits—spend from $8 to $12.50 for them.

You, milady, will find this week-end a good time to stock up on nylons at Nugent's while the 42-gauge weight are priced at a low of 99c. To restock your lingerie wardrobe, after frequent summer laundering has made yours a bit seedy, there are lots of lovely, dainty underthings . . . Corette Slips at $3.99, lace-trimmed or tailored fine rayon crepe gowns from $3.99 to $6.99, Merry-Go-Round and Bias-Cup bras in rayon satin or cotton at $1.99 and $1.50, respectively, and Melody's two-way-stretch girdles. While you're at Nugent's, be sure to try on the Fall dresses that are just coming in.

With the garden in full bloom, you may not have sufficient attractive flower containers. Your floral arrangements show off to artistic advantage in the new California Pottery, now at the Gift Shop, and priced from $2.10. Charming for entertaining at this season and all year round are California Ceramic luncheon settings at $10.95, hors d'oeuvre plates at $1.50. For attractive, yet inexpensive wedding present ideas, you'll be impressed with Barth-Art crystal console sets of flower bowl and candlesticks at $4.

Pictures framed by Cohen are an easy way to add new life to a decorative scheme. You can have your own pictures framed, or get ready-framed reproductions of famous paintings at this shop—choose mirrors to open up new vistas in your home from a fine selection.

Besides the many attractions already offered, there will be free dancing under the Stars in the Shirlington Pavilion at 8:30 Wednesday and Friday evenings starting next Wednesday. Admission is free.

Cards Cut Dodgers' Lead to 4 Games

This Morning

With Shirley Povich

JOE CRONIN, who knows that his boss, Mr. Tom Yawkey, wouldn't like it if the manager of the Red Sox conceded the pennant to the Yankees at this point, went out on the limb as far as he tactfully could yesterday. "I'll say one thing," grinned Cronin, "the Yankees are the team to beat."

POVICH

That statement stands as this week's tops in innocuous admissions, I'd say. He could have made the same comment back in May when the Yankees were also comfortably out in front and not leading the league by 13 games with seven weeks to play. Nothing short of an atom bomb now figures to halt the Yankees' pennant schedule.

If the Red Sox are not thinking in terms of next season, they ought to be and probably are. They are giving attention, of course, to the business of winning second place from the Tigers with the greater individual share of $400 that it represents to each player, but the men in the office know full well the woes of Cronin with his present cast of athletes. The club needs replacements for 1948.

CRONIN MAY BE ONE of those men in the Red Sox office next season. The belief persists that Yawkey, who has been devoting time from his other business interests to direct the Red Sox, wants Cronin to move up. General Manager Eddie Collins, supposedly wants out because of ill health and one of the replacements the Red Sox may be seeking is a replacement for Cronin as manager.

Yawkey has never admitted that he offered the manager's job to Joe McCarthy but correspondents with the Red Sox say he did. A few weeks ago in Detroit, Yawkey called a special press conference to repeat that newspaper reports of a new Red Sox manager were unfounded, but when he added, "When a new manager is to be named, I'll be the one to name him," the inference was he had some plans.

Cronin has said nothing about any ambitions to move into the front office, but he's a rare manager if he doesn't have them. Just about every man who has been managing a big league ball team for a long time would like to shed the knee-pants monkey suit of the diamond and feel the greater dignity of a front-office big shot.

THINGS HAVE BEEN ROUGH with the Red Sox all season. Dom DiMaggio, who hit .315 last year is off 60 points. Bobby Doerr is more than 50 points under his .306 of the previous season. None of the club's regulars have been maintaining their 1946 pace when the Sox cake-walked to the pennant, and the pitching has lost a lot of its glitter.

When Dave Ferriss was licked by the Nats the other night, it was his tenth defeat against nine victories, a far shout from his record in 1946 when he won 25 games. Tex Hughson, who won 20 last year, is struggling this season with nine wins and nine defeats, and Mickey Harris needs 15 wins quickly to equal his output of 17 victories in 1946.

Harris' sore arm has been a blow to the Sox. He hurt it just before the season opened, was out for more than a month, tested it briefly and hurt it again. Thus far he has started only twice and has two wins without a defeat. Harris in his few times at bat has a .400 average, which together with his misleading 1.000 average as a pitcher, leads to the crack that "Harris leads the Red Sox in pitching, batting and time off."

FOR THE SECOND YEAR, the Red Sox are struggling without an adequate third baseman. They had no fewer than seven candidates in training camp and none of them panned out. Sam Dente is the current employe at third base but his .229 average is not exciting and Cronin, or the next Red Sox manager, will be in the market for a third baseman who can hit.

If it weren't for the tardiness of a Red Sox scout back in 1944, Boston's third base troubles would have been solved. The scout liked the looks of a young third baseman he saw on the New York sandlots and sent him up to Fenway Park for a two-week tryout. He went to the lad's house a few days later to get his parents signature on a Red Sox contract.

"You're the second baseball man to knock on the door this week," he was told. "Eddie just went west with the Washington club yesterday." And that's how the Red Sox missed out on Eddie Yost."

Bosox Pound Early Wynn In 12-2 Rout

By Shirley Povich
Post Reporter

The Red Sox suddenly obstreperous and weary of being shoved around by the Washington pitching, poured it on the Nats yesterday with Ted Williams' 25th home run just an incident in Boston's 12-2 victory.

They blasted Early Wynn out of there in four innings before 5870 somewhat startled customers who watched the Nats' No. 1 pitcher take a six-run shellacking in the fourth. By that time the score was 7 to 0, and the Nats were out of the ball game.

Altogether, the Nats got some dubious pitching of the 15-hit type from Wynn, Chic Pieretti and Scott Cary while Mr. Dennis Galehouse was permitting Washington only six hits, none of any kind until two were out in the sixth inning.

Galehouse Does It Again

It was Boston's second victory of the year at Griffith Stadium in nine tries, and both were the products of the venerable Galehouse, the right-hander who was lately reclaimed from St. Louis after being sold to the Browns seven years ago.

Williams struck the first important blow, a home run over the right-field wall in the second inning, but First Baseman Murrel Jones contributed the most productive swat. That one was a three-run two-bagger in the Sox's big fourth inning in which Wynn was hit with everything except a Johnny Meyers expense account.

Pieretti who gave up four Boston runs after Wynn had yielded the first seven, made one notable contribution, however. Just as faint visions of a no-hit game were being conjured by Galehouse's pitching, with not a Nat reaching base, Pieretti got Washington's first hit, a single to left with two out in the sixth.

Yost Makes Amazing Play

Johnny Pesky, maker of three of the Boston hits, opened the fourth with an infield single and the Red Sox were halted momentarily when Eddie Yost made an amazing play on Dom Dimaggio's grounder over third base.

The ball hit the bag, in fact, as Yost was lunging to his knees and from that position he picked it off with one hand, scrambeld to his feet, and made the throw to first to retire Dimag.

Then Wynn lost control. He gave Williams an intentional pass and Doerr an unintentional pass to fill the bases. In this spot, Jones lined a two-bagger between Spence and Robertson, and everybody scored except Jones.

A bit later, Christman made a wild throw to Yost on Partee's grounder and the fourth run scored. Dente singled, Galehouse hit a long fly, and Mele singled home the sixth run of the inning.

Christman Hits a Triple

Pieretti gave up a run in the fifth, and three runs in the eights. In that latter inning, he was socked for singles by Pesky and DiMaggio, a triple by Doerr and a single by Jones.

In the ninth, Dente's double and Mele's triple to center wrenched a run out of young Cary.

Mark Christman drove in the Nats' first run with a triple to left center with two out in the seventh, scoring Robertson who drew Galehouse's only pass of the game. Priddy scored Christman with a single to center.

The Nats got two hits in the ninth, which were nullified when Vernon tried to go from first to third on Spence's single to right. He was out . . . Williams' second inning homer happened when Wynn tempted him with a slow curve. It barely cleared the wall . . . Christman was promoted to fifth place in the Nats' batting order and Priddy was dropped to sixth . . . The Nats-Red Sox series now stands at seven-seven for the season . . . It was the Nats' Griffith Stadium farewell until August 15, Travis night . . . Tonight Ray Scarborough pitches against the Athletics in Philadelphia.

Pep Gets $35,000 Offer

Manila, Aug. 7 (AP).—Promoter Jess Cortes said today he had offered a guaranteed purse of $35,000 to World Featherweight Champion Willie Pep for a title fight here this fall.

A Wealth of Talent

'Skins Won't Miss Bagarus in Backfield

Los Angeles—This may bring some loud guffaws over in the Los Angeles Rams camp but a number of gentlemen around the Washington Redskins summer bivouac at Occidental Colllege opine they are not going to miss Steve Bagarus for a minute.

To fill in for the latecomers, Steve was traded to the Rams a while back in exchange for Tom Farmer, a halfback, and Ralph Ruthstrom, fulllback.

"Naturally" said Coach Turk Edwards yesterday "we figured we got the better of the deal or wouldn't have made the trade. Farmer loks very good and Ruthstrom? gosh, his defensive play robbed us of the world's championship in 1945."

Who will take Bagarus' place? Well, Washington has such right halfbacks as Jim Gillette, another former Ram who was with Boston last season, Bob DeFruiter, and a chap named Bob Nussbaumer. The last of these might be the gentleman who will make 'Skin fans forget all about Double-oh Bagarus. Nussbaumer was a great scoring back at Michigan and ran 67 yards to a touchdown against Washington for Green Bay last season. Bob is slender and weighs less than 180 pounds at the moment, but he proved he was rugged last season by doing a lot of blocking for the Packers.

No. 1 offensive fullback probably will be Sal Rosato, 228 pounds of line smasher. He suffered a groin injury last year that shelved him at a time when Edwards was short of backs. But he's ready to go again. Ruthstrom will get a lot of defensive work with Jack Jenkins spelling Rosato as line smasher.

A rookie named Bill Gold, who packs his 218 pounds with a lot of speed has come up from the strong Tennessee eleven of last fall. And don't overlook one Bob Musick the former Trojan.

And from what the coaching staff has seen so far it is pleasantly impressed by Bob. Left halfbacks? Shucks, the Redskins have 'em in droves.

Giants Whip Phils, 5-2; Trail by Five

New York, Aug. 7 (AP).—Although held to only four hits by three Philadelphia hurlers today, the New York Giants took advantage of an error and two wild pitches to score four runs and defeat the Phillies for the third straight time, 5-2. The victory put the third-place Giants only five games back of the league-leading Dodgers.

Clarence (Hooks) Iott, who relieved starter Sheldon Jones in the fourth inning for the Giants, pitched scoreless ball the rest of the way to gain credit for his third victory

Scant 698 See Browns Lose To Chisox, 8-4

St. Louis, Aug. 7 (AP).—Ralph Hodgin and Rudy York led the Chicago White Sox to an 8-4 triumph over the hapless St. Louis Browns today for a clean sweep of a three-game series that drew a total of only 5912 cash customers. Only 698 braved the 96-degree heat to witness today's contest.

Hodgin collected a single, a double and his first home run of the season. The White Sox broke a 3-3 deadlock with a four-run splurge in the sixth inning on York's triple a double by Dave Philley, a single by Taft Wright and three on balls. Hodgin added another marker with his circuit clout to the right field pavilion in the eighth.

The Browns scored once in the first on a wild pitch by Starter Red Ruffing, who was credited with the victory, and tied the score with two runs in the second on three singles and a walk. Doubles by Don Kolloway and Wright, two singles and a miscue by Brownie Al Zarilla gave the White Sox three runs in the first.

Maryland Deer Hunting Extended

Baltimore, Aug. 7 (AP).—Deer hunting now is permitted when there is snow on the ground during the open season in four Maryland counties, the State Game and Inland Fish Commission announced.

The commission yesterday added Frederick County to the list after a public hearing on 11 proposed new regulations.

Under the old deer law, only Garrett, Allegany and Washington counties were specifically permitted to hunt with snow on the ground.

Joe Louis Wins Pittsburgh Golf

Pittsburgh, Aug. 7 (AP).—Joe Louis, world heavyweight boxing champion, won the Eastern Golf Association amateur championship today at the South Park course.

The Brown Bomber played 15 holes in four over par to defeat Jacques Isler, New York attorney, 4 and 3, in the final match.

Hazel Foreman, Washington, D. C., took the women's crown, defeating Lorraine Sawyer, Philadelphia, 3 and 2, in the final.

U. S. in Britannia Meet

London, Aug. 7.—The United States and Greece have entered teams in the Britannia Shield sports competition scheduled during Battle of Britain Week ending September 17.

It's Mr. Williams

Ted Williams hit his twenty-fifth homerun of the season yesterday as the Bosox mauled the Nats, 12-2, but he had no leisurely stroll around the bases in scoring on the play shown above. In the fifth inning, Ted had to run for all he was worth to cross the plate safely on Sam Dante's single. Catcher Al Evans of the Nats takes the throw to the plate. Umpire Cal Hubbard is at the right.

Birds Win Seventh In Row as Bums Lose

Braves Hand Dodgers Another Loss, 3-1

Boston, Aug. 7 (AP).—The Boston Braves, behind the three-hit pitching of Charlie (Red) Barrett, defeated the Brooklyn Dodgers today, 3-1, for ther third victory in a row over the National League leaders. The loss was the Dodgers' sixth in seven games since their 13-game winning streak was terminated.

The defeat coupled with St. Louis' victory over Cincinnati left the Dodgers only four games in front of the Cardinals.

Brooklyn's three hits were all singles, one of them leading to their only score in the first inning. Eddie Stanky led off by working Barrett for a walk and after Jackie Robinson fouled out, he raced to third when Gene Hermanski singled to right. Dixie Walker's grounder scored Stanky.

Braves Roar Back

The Braves got their run back in their half of the first off Rookie Harry Taylor, and with the score tied at 1-1 in the bottom of the sixth, Barrett, himself, started the winning rally with a double along the left-field line.

Red scampered to third when Tommy Holmes was safe on a fielder's choice, Holmes racing to second when Pee Wee Reese's throw went past Third Baseman Johnny Jorgensen. Johnny Hopp, who singled and scored the Braves' first run, then singled to center, scoring both runners.

The victory was the ninth for Barrett. He has lost eight. Taylor also went the distance, allowing five hits.

Higbe Beats Cubs For Pirates, 3-0

Chicago, Aug. 7 (AP).—Kirby Higbe held the Chicago Cubs to seven scattered hits today to give the Pittsburgh Pirants a 3-0 decision and a sweep of their two-game Chicago stand.

Hank Borowy allowed only five hits, the first of which was Ralph Kiner's home run over the left field screen. It was Kiner's twenty-seventh circuit smash of the year.

Pittsburgh got to Borowy for a single by Higbe and a double by Cully Rikard in the fifth, and then counted its final two runs on walks to Jim Russell and Frank Gustine and a long fly to left by Kiner.

The Cubs threatened frequently but lost their only chance to score when Bob Scheffing stumbled while rounding third in the second inning.

St. Louis Whips Cincinnati, 9-2

Cincinnati, Aug. 7 (AP).—The St. Louis Cardinals unleased a 16-hit attack today to down the Cincinnato Rers, 9-2, and draw within four games of the faltering Brooklyn Dodgers, who lost to Boston.

The victory was the surging Cards seventh in a row and, although hight-hander Jim Hearns shut out the Redlegs for eight innings, he weakened in the ninth and had to give way to Reliefer Ted Wilks.

Two Reds Injured

The game was marred by injury to two first-line Cincinnati players, Shortstop Eddie Miller and Outfielder Frankie Baumholtz, who collided as they chased a Texas leaguer from the bat of Del Rice in the sixth.

Three stitches were required to close a gash in Miller's chin and Baumholtz, who was carried from the field in a stretcher, suffered a slight concussion. It was not known immediately how soon they would return to the lineup.

The Cardinals teed off on Lefty Kent Peterson in the first inning, scoring one run on a single and double.

Hursey Returns Here for Drill Today in Public

Smuggy Hursey, the local 19-year-old who registered a stunning 41-second, first-round knockout of Danny Kapilow in their recent bout here, works out in public at the Liberty Athletic Club's gymnasium 2 p. m. today in preparation for his third meeting with Kapilow at Griffith Stadium Monday night.

Hursey concluded his New York training yesterday with a final workout at Billy Grubb's Harlem gymnasium where he has been boxing with Welterweight Champion Ray Robinson and Billy Grubb.

Kapilow checks in here tomorrow for a final drill at the Liberty Club at 3:30.

Smuggy wears Henry Armstrong's famed iron mask in final workouts here today and tomorrow, and will box with Billy Terry and other sparmates selected for him by Trainers Harry Armstrong and Pee Wee Beale.

Intercity Golf Match Sunday

The fifh annual intercity team match between amateur golfers of Baltimore and Washington Sunday at Woodholme Club in Baltimore will find the local contingent considerably weakened by injuries, vacations and other tournament play, but Team Capt. George Voigt has confidence in the reserve strength.

Outcome Pays $54.80 in Winning Feature at Hagerstown

Long Shots Clean Up in 1st 6 Races

Hagerstown, Md., Aug. 7.—Horse players who go in for long shots cleaned up here today in the first six races, including the Antietam Purse, feature mile-and-one-sixteenth event.

In the headliner they picked up $54.80 when Stillson H. Hall's Outcome was the winner. Mrs. Mary Knierem's Red Wrack placed.

Virginia McKenny of Washington, who ran the favorites in the fifth and sixth races, saw her Ariel Gift go down to defeat in the latter race, making it a very disastrous day for the form players.

The meeting's first dead heat for top money occurred in the 6½-furlong opener when J. S. Wiley's White Rocket, $5, and M. Slifkin's Good Pasture, $17.20, hit the wire on even terms. White Rocket set the early pace and just failed to stave off Good Pasture's rush in the center of the track. H. R. Brown's Blitz Foot was third.

Stanley Austin, who handled Good Pasture in the opener, put up a whale of a ride to enable E. Winstead's Boleyngrey, $58.60, to land the second, also ran over the 6½-furlong route. P. O. Bowmen's The Huntress placed, with A. M. Hine's Miss Economy third.

There were two daily-double pay-offs, the 1-3 combination of White Rocket and Boleyngrey paid $95.40, with the 6-3 combination of Good Pasture and Boleyngrey netting holders of those pasteboards a $159-for-$2 pay.

G. C. Dunaway's True Lass, favorite in the second, threw a hoof while leading and was pulled up. She was destroyed by the track veterinarian.

Long shot players picked up $12 when Mrs. Ira Down's Joy Wes led home B. M. Creel's Clever and G. M. Eburg's Squimp in the 6½ furlongs of the third.

Favorite players suffered their fourth consecutive setback when J. N. Fishback's Larkaround $34.80 landed the fourth race, also run over the 6½-furlong route. The place went to A. S. More's Gal Royal, with D. H. Tabler's Grey Prince showing the way to the others.

Jack Trapnell's Busy Moose $18 continued the winning procession of longshots by annexing the five eights of the fifth. J. E. Crider's Comedy Player outgamed W. B. Casilear's Idle Gossip for the place.

TONY'S FIND, $7.30, $3.50, $2.80; NOWADAYS, $3.30, $2.60; TOURELAY, $3.60.

TONY'S FIND, slightly restrained while forcing fast pace, was kept on inside to save ground entering stretch, wore down NOWADAYS through last sixteenth of a mile. NOWADAYS displayed good speed setting pace, came trifle wide into stretch and could not match winner's late speed. TOURELAY, off last, came with good energy through stretch. ROYAL FLUSH, with first flight early, tired.

SIXTH RACE—Six furlongs. The Angler. Purse, $3500. For 3-year-olds. Start good. Won ridden out; place driving. Went to post 5:04. Off at 5:04½. Winner, A. F. East's ch. g. (3) by Jack High—Rosetown by Jamestown. Trained by A. F. East. Value, $2200. Time, $1:11⅘.

HIGH TREND, $7.00, $3.20, $2.70; LITTLE HARP, $2.90, $2.50; I DECLARE, $3.50.

HIGH TREND, trailer until top of stretch, came to outside and closed with excellent speed to win ridden out. LITTLE HARP assumed good lead from start, tired when winner passed him near sixteenth pole. I DECLARE had speed to force the pace, tired in late stretch and race should help her. BIG BUSTER picked up tired horses. MOUNTAIN LION, on the inside, stopped.

SEVENTH RACE—One mile and one-sixteenth. Purse, $3000. For fillies and mares, 4-year-olds and up; claiming. Start good for all but Tchada. Won driving; place same. Went to post 5:34. Off at 5:35. Winner, H. W. Fielding's b. f. (4) by Pharamond 2nd—Whimsical Miss by Supremus. Trained by Don Yates. Value, $1850. Time, 1:48.

Aussie Netmen Top Canadians

Montreal, Aug. 7 (AP).—Australia made a clean sweep of the first day's singles matches in the North American zone Davis Cup competition today.

Dinny Pails won the opening match against Henri Rochon of Montreal, 6—1, 6—4, 6—1, and Geoff Brown had little trouble in disposing of Brendan Macken of Montreal, 6—4, 6—4, 6—1.

The victories meant Australia needed to win only one of three remaining matches to qualify to meet Czechoslovakia, European zone champions to decide the right to challenge the United States for the historic trophy.

Pails displayed too much polish for his less experienced but game French-Canadian opponent and was in command all the way. Rochon drew cheers from the sellout crowd of 3500 in the second set.

Hogan, Keiser Hold Early Lead in Spokane Golf

Worsham Has 31 for First Nine

Spokane, Wash., Aug. 7 (AP).—Poker-faced Ben Hogan of Hershey, Pa., and a big, quiet guy from Akron, Herman Keiser, carved five strokes off tough Indian Canyon's par 70 today and took the early lead in the four-day, 72-hole $10,000 Esmeralda Open golf tournament.

Even these stellar performances, however, did not leave them safely in front, as Open Champion Lew Worsham of Washington, D. C., and George Payton, Hampton, Pa., both made the nine-hole turn in 21, four under par.

Treading on the leaders' toes was Ed Furgol of Pontiac, Mich., whose 66 had made him the leader for half an hour—until Keiser came boiling in. Ted Longworth of Portland, Ore., Ellsworth Vines of Los Angeles and Bill Nary of Phoenix were close up with 67s.

Ward Shoots 72

Western Amateur Champion Bud Ward scrambled to a 72, and top spot among the simon-pures went to his fellow Spokaneite, Ken Storey, who had 69. Linked with storey was John Bulla of Phoenix, Ariz.

A sharp cross-wind on the north-and-south fairways made the day comfortable for the good-sized first day gallery but played tricks with drives and approach shots. A dozen scores were on the board for the out nine before Emery Zimmerman of Portland came in with the first sub-par card, a one-under 34.

Furgol, matched it a moment later after callling for a huling on one poke which had trickllled down a gopher hole. Course rules permitted him to dig the balll out without penalty.

Chief interest centered on the trio of Ward, Hogan and George Schneiter of Ogden, Utah, the Professional Golfer's Association tourney chairman.

Trailed By Gallery of 400

A galllery of 400 was trailing them and the clubhouse crowd was kept informed by walkie-talkie. Halfway through the first nine Hogan and Ward were one under par.

Only entrant missing among the name pros was E. J. D. (Dutch) Harrison of York, Pa. Jim Ferrier of San Francisco, fresh from his triumph in the St. Paul Open, arrived just before tee-off time this morning. The entry total was 125, with professionals slightly outnumbering amateurs.

U.S. Stars Play Canadian Kids

Baltimore, Aug. 7 (AP). — Coaches of the United States and Canadian all-star boys baseball teams which open an international amateur baseball series in Municipal Stadium tomorrow night remained silent on starting selections today, but it seemed certain that a pair of young pitching sensations would get the mound calls.

They are Frank (Pancho) Womack, 17-year-old Houston, Tex., southpaw, and Glen Sonmor, 18, lanky right-hander from Hamilton, Ontario, and only undefeated pitcher in the Intercountry League, reputedly the fastest junior circuit in Canada.

The same clubs meet again Saturday night, with the winner playing the Baltimore All-Stars, chosen from 400 local sandlot teams, Sunday afternoon.

In the event the U. S. and Canadian teams split, a third game will be played Sunday afternoon, the victor meeting Baltimore as part of a double-header.

Dudley's Job Open at Virginia; Eddie Bryant Isn't Interested

CHARLOTTESVILLE, VA. The University of Virginia was in the market for a new backfield coach today after Bill Dudley, the Cavaliers' all-America halfback of 1941, yesterday signed a contract to play professional football with the Detroit Lions of the National League.

One thing apparently was certain as the Cavaliers began their search for a new backfield mentor. Dudley's successor won't be Eddie Bryant, present head coach at Staunton Military Academy, who played in the backfield with Bounding Bill during their collegiate careers.

Bryant, who had been rumored as a possible successor to Dudley since the Bluefield Bullet began to consider Detroit offers, said at Staunton "I'm not going."

Brig. Gen. Earl McFarland, Military Academy commandant at Staunton, had this to say about rumors Bryant would succeed Dudney at Virginia:

"There has been no change in Bryant's status at SMA. He is still our football coach."

Hogan Vardon Leader

Spokane, Wash., Aug. 7 (AP).—Ben Hogan of Hershey, Pa., with an average of 70.07 is setting the pace for the Vardon Cup which goes each year to the professional golfer with the best scoring record, George Schneiter announced today.

Other leaders were:

Jim Ferrier and Ed Furgol, 70.90; Johnny Palmer, 70.95; LOU WORSHAM, 90.97; Sam Snead, Herman Keiser and Toney Penna, 71-20; Chick Harbert, Vic Ghezzi and Fred Haas, jr., 71.30; George Schoux, Dick Metz and Clayton Haefner, 71.40; Ellsworth Vines, 71.48; Ky Laffoon, 71.50, and Herman Barron, 72.

Kay Menzies Retiring

South Orange, N. J., Aug. 7 (AP). Kay Stammers Menzies, Wightman Cup player of Great Britain, has decided to retire from active tennis after 17 years of topflight competition.

"I have had my fill of the game," she said today, "and besides my husband loathes tennis. This will be my last year. After that the youngsters can take over."

Kelly Tries One Oar

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 7 (AP).—Jack Kelly, who won fame rowing with two oars, is going to try one.

Holder of the Diamond Sculls and the Canadian singles titles, Kelly plans to go out for the University of Pennsylvania crew in 1949—after he has made in a bid for the Olympic sculling title next summer.

Phila. Exempts Foes

Philadelphia, Aug. 7 (AP).—Nonresidential baseball players of visiting American and National League teams were exempted today from Philadelphia's 1 per cent wage and earned income tax.

Assistant City Solicitor Abraham Wernick said representatives of both leagues had reached an agreement with the city. The city has collected 150 million dollars from residents and nonresidents under the levy during the past seven years.

Monarchs Show Another Hopeful Shortstop Here

Although the Kansas City Monarchs, who face the Washington Homestead Grays, Sunday, in a double-header, have lost two shortstops to the big leagues, they believe they have another hot prospect.

Jackie Robinson, who went up to the Brooklyn Dodgers, and Hank Thompson, Robinson's replacement, who recently joined the St. Louis Browns, are former Monarch shortstops.

Thompson's replacement is a 17-year-old youngster, Curtis Roberts, who was picked up on the Pacific Coast. Satchel Paige will twirl one of the games against the Grays, the first game to start at 2 p. m.

Large Indoor Boxing Arena Needed for Sport to Expand

THE DISTRICT BOXING Commission yesterday called for an adequate indoor boxing arena as the "greatest need for the advancement of boxing in the District."

In its thirteenth annual report to the District Commissioners, the boxing regulators declared that boxing annually "loses in the winter what it gains in the summer because the small arena space available precludes the use of higher priced talent."

"The big gates will go to the city with the facilities for staging the shows," the boxing commission stated.

The commission report showed that while in some boxing centers in the country, a recession has set in in gate receipts, such receipts here have not shown a decline.

However, while this year's income was higher than last year, the Commission noted a steady decline in receipts from indoor shows influenced by a boycott by Negro groups.

"VARIOUS ORGANIZATIONS of colored people," the report stated, "organized a boycott against Uline's Arena because, while colored people were not barred from boxing, they were barred at other events at Uline's that were not under the control of the boxing promoter concerned. The boycott at first registered only a slight reduction in gate receipts but gained momentum as it went along and finally resulted in the area being abandoned entirely for boxing purposes."

The Commission also gave itself a pat on the back in its report, declaring that "the administration of boxing in the District enjoys an enviable reputation among boxing people throughout the country."

"nOly recently newly formed or reorganized commissions sent for and adopted our rule book in whole or in part. These commissions were Kansas, Vermont, New Hampshire, Cuba, the Argentine, and Savannah, Ga.

The report listed the Beau Jack-Danny Kapilow bout as the leading gate for 1946-47, with a take of $32,003.46, excluding Government tax. During the year, a total of 49 "shows" were staged under commission regulations, as compared with 51 each for the two preceding years.

Bob Falkenburg Ousts McNeill On Grass Courts

South Orange, N. J., Aug. 7 (AP). Bobby Falkenburg, the big Beverly Hills, Calif., kid, might not be the best tennis player in the world, but when he keeps his blazing service under control, he's virtually unbeatable.

Don McNeil, 1940 National champion, had the misfortune to come up against Bobby in the quarter-final round of the Eastern Grass Courts Championship at the Orange Lawn Tennis Club today, and was literally blasted off the courts by young Falkenburg's service, as Bobby fashioned a 6—3, 4—6, 6—4 triumph.

bracket also was filled with the

The remainder of the semifinal top three seeded players coming through as expected. Ted Schroeder of Glendale, Calif., topped Earl Cochell of Forest Hills, N. Y., 12—10, 6—3; Gardnar Mulloy of Miami, Fla., No. 2, turned back Ed Moylan of San Francisco, Calif., rated sixth, 6—2, 6—2, and Bill Talbert of New York, third-ranked, put the skids on Pancho Segura of Ecuador, seventh-seeded, 2—6, 6—3, 6—2.

Duquesne Gridders Train in Maryland

Pittsburgh, Aug. 7 (AP).—Duquesne University announced today that its football squad will train at Mountain Lake Park, Md., August 24 to September 6.

Coach Cassian (Kass) Kovalcheck will take 44 players to camp in Garrett County, about two miles from the county seat of Oakland. The Dukes are returning to intercollegiate football this season after a wartime lapse.

Ritzenberg Loses Count And Match

By Bill Burnett
Post Reporter

Two seeded players who lost track of their own score stole the crowd's attention yesterday as the Middle Atlantic Tennis Tournament—which actually is an all-Washington affair—went through a heavy schedule before showers postponed several matches late in the evening.

Dave Johnsen, rated No. 3, was the winner of the controversial match, beating sixth-seeded Allie Ritzenberg, 6—3, 6—3. But he was forced to argue himself out of a second set victory when the count was only 5—3. Thi is how it went:

Ritzenberg, after leading 3-love in the second set, saw his classy opponent run off five straight games, by which time he was disgusted enough to lose count. He rushed to the net, extending his hand in congratulations, thinking the match was over.

Johnsen Refuses

Johnsen refused the hand, shaking his head, and some spectators thought a rift had developed between the players. But Johnsen argued for another game, finally convinced his opponent, and took a 30-15 lead in the game before officials stepped in for 20 minutes to settle the issue.

Joining Johnsen in the men's singles semifinals were the tourney's top-seeded Jim Thackara and Barney Welsh, who had varied success in their matches. Thackara wobbled sadly before the onslaught of unseeded Bill Gifford, finally winning by 6—4, 6—4. Welsh was little troubled in a 6—2, 6—2 triumph over Nick Powell.

Match Rained Out

The fourth quarter final, involving John Curtiss and Don Leavens, in the fourth and fifth spots, was rained out after a bitter 2½-hour struggle. Curtiss took the opener, 7—5, before Leavens bounced back for a 6—2 margin. The third set was called with Curtiss leading, 4—2.

All except one men's doubles event was halted by the rain. The feature was leaning toward Welsh and Dooley Mitchell, who won their first set from Thackara and Phil Neff and were all even in the second, 3—3.

Anne Gray, ranking favorite in the women's section, won her way into the semifinals with a 6—2, 6—0 victory over Clare Barnett. Featuring the mixed doubles was the husband and wife victory of George and Willie Herbert over the Galbreaths, Martha and Ed, 6—1, 6—3.

Out Fishing...

By Jack Bell

A CASTING TOURNAMENT for the championship of Maryland will be held Sunday at the Pangborn Lake Casting Club, Hagerstown.

The tournament, sponsored by the League of Maryland Sportsmen, headed by Glen L. Martin, and under the auspices of the Pangborn Club, will get underway at 10 a. m. (DST). Casters from Maryland and the District are eligible.

We have been asked, "Why the District of Columbia?" One only has to attend a meet once and see the good relations between Marylanders and resident sportsmen of D. C.

There was a time when anglersportsmen of the District were considered "furriners." That day is now behind us.

FOUR EVENTS ARE scheduled: The wet and dry fly accuracy; ⅜ ounce, and ⅝ ounce plug accuracy. National Association of Angling and Casting Club rules will govern the scoring.

Seven trophies will be awarded winners in the championship events, while special prizes also will be awarded to novices in each event.

Registration fees will be $1 for the first event, and 75 cents for each additional event.

E. L. Heard, Pangborn Club, advised us that lunches and picnics will be permitted in Pangborn Park, and the club invites non-participants.

Fete to End 'Shop Silver Spring Week'

"Shop Silver Spring Week" ends tonight with a full schedule of entertainment for the townspeople.

The climax of a week in which 103 of 119 merchants reduced their prices to cost or below, as a blow against inflation, will feature a parade through the business section at 6 p. m. The parade will be followed by a coscert by the Elks Boys and Girls Band of Silver Spring on the steps of the post office at 6:30 p. m., and a vaudeville show at 7 p. m.

The two-and-a-half-hour vaudeville show with Mike Hunnicutt as Master of ceremonies, will include Jimmy Daniels, piano-playing vocalist; Joby Reynolds, radio singer; "The O'Dwyers," singing quartet, and the "Rhythm Rangers," directed by Johnny Baze.

Some merchants reported an increase in business of from 300 to 500 per cent over last weekend and sales were described as satisfactory to all. Sponsor of the anti-inflation project was the retail merchants division of the Silver Spring Board of Trade.

Maryland U. Plans Strike New Snag

Stadium Proposed

Cash Bonus Made Legion Parley Issue

Attorney General Must First Approve Financial Setup

Baltimore, Aug. 7 (AP).—Cash bonuses for war veterans were injected as an issue when delegates to the twenty-ninth annual convention of the Maryland American Legion got down to business today.

The resolutions committee also got a proposal from a Baltimore post that the convention go on record regarding a site for Baltimore's new stadium.

Samuel J. Cohen, 52-year-old Hagerstown businessman and World War I veteran who has been commander of the western Maryland district for the past year and is campaigning for the State commander's post, said he would introduce a bonus resolution.

It would propose that the Legion sponsor a bill at the next session of the General Assembly for a cash payment.

Cohen said he also favors a proposal that veterans of World War I be paid a pension when they reach 55 or 66.

The stadium question was brought up by the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Post, largest in Baltimore. It suggested that the convention back the present location of Baltimore's Municipal Stadium as the site for a new athletic plant.

A Baltimore stadium committee has proposed that the State and city join in the erection of a giant stadium as a memorial to war veterans, and there has been some talk of moving at least to the edge of the city.

Tonight's contests at the stadium for junior and senior drum and bugle corps was an entertainment high spot of the four-day program which winds up with the election of new officers Sunday.

The campaigning for State commander hadn't warmed up today, but there were at least two other announced candidates in the race besides.

They were Harry S. Allen of Laurel, a veteran of World War I, and H. Winship Wheatley of Hyattsville, first veteran of World War II to seek the Legion's highest State office.

County Jobs Higher

The 1100 delegates attending sessions at Fifth Regiment Armory heard a report today that the percentage of veterans employed in Maryland industry runs higher in Maryland's county areas than in Baltimore.

Grafton Lee Brown, veterans' employment representative and chairman of the Legion's employment committee, reported there are 273,000 veterans now employed in 665 establishments in the State. About 21 per cent of them are World War II veterans.

Visiting delegates, Auxiliary members and guests were expected to number 15,000 tonight.

Various Funds Help

In the financing scheme figured funds held by the university's athletic board, GI students fees, increased general students fees for two years, and a loan to be floated by the board and paid off with athletic receipts.

Governor Lane said the attorney general had called into question the use of carry-over funds and students fees in the financing, and the Board of Public Works agreed that the attorney general should give the program an O. K. before it would.

The program includes besides the stadium a $900,000 physical education building, a $350,000 chapel and a $300,000 swimming pool.

Byrd had asked that work be started this summer so that the stadium could be used next year.

To Meet Wednesday

The board will meet next Wednesday at Baltimore and the attorney general's opinion on the plan may be ready by that time.

At today's session, the largest portion, $776,000, for a heating plant for the University of Maryland.

The board awarded the contract to the Riley Stoker Co. of St. Louis, but stipulated to the university board of regents that any extra costs such as putting in a railroad siding and purchasing rights of way be held within the $850,000 allawed in the emergency construction bond issue.

The board approved a host of minor projects including work at four State teachers colleges: $50,545 for dormitory reconstruction at Bowie; $52,000 for a dining room extension, rewiring new pumps, and a shower room, and $7080 for the science laboratory at Frostburg; $1126 for the Salisbury tennis court.

Other Projects Approved

It gave the go-ahead at Towson State Teachers College for acoustical material studies.

The board put general approval on furniture and equipment for the Morgan State College girls' dormitory, but declined to pass a 6 per cent architects' fee on furniture specifications.

The board permitted the purchase for $45,000 of a 200-acre farm owned by Percival P. Burroughs 16 miles southeast of the University of Maryland to be used as a tobacco experimental station.

It told the Department of Education it might hire personnel to canvass war surplus property inventories for State institutions with salaries totaling $14,225, but said the department should find the sum in its own budget.

J. J. Seidel, assistant State superintendent of schools, said approximately $2,500,000 worth of surplus property had been bought for State institutions in the past year and a half.

Jealous Suitor Kills Woman And Himself

Cambridge, Md., Aug. 7 (AP).—A jealous admirer accosted Mrs. Olive Abbey Bradley on the street as she was on her way to work this morning, shot the 41-year-old widow to death and killed himself.

State's Attorney Charles Edmondson identified the suitor as Henry H. Collins, 57-year-old operator of an automobile repair shop in the nearby village of Secretary.

Dr. Joseph K. Shriver, Dorchester County medical examiner, issued a certificate of murder and suicide.

Mrs. Bradley was on her way to work at about 8 a. m. at a shirt factory, the State's attorney said, when Collins crossed the street from his garage, spoke to her for a few moments, then produced the pistol and shot her twice in the arm, knocking her to the ground.

Collins fired twice more, Edmondson reported, shooting the woman in the head. He then crossed the street, shot himself once, and fell dead in front of his garage.

Edmondson said Collins and Mrs. Bradley had been going together three years and apparently quarreled recently.

He said a note found on Collins' desk and dated July 30 accused the widow of devoting her attention to another man and disclosed that Collins intended to leave Secretary with Mrs. Bradley.

A 20-year-old son survives Mrs. Bradley. Collins is survived by a daughter.

Gallant Homer Makes Himself at Home

New York (U.P.).—A blue-black pigeon with a droopy left wing flew into a window of the Long Island College Hospital and strutted around until he had made friends with the white uniformed girls in the X-ray department.

He had chosen the proper department. The girls X-rayed his wing and found an old fracture, which was healing. They gave him a drink on the house and some birdseed, and named him Homer. In a week his wing was thoroughly healed, but Homer refused to leave.

"Homer," said Miss Joan Hart, a technician, "is a very fresh pigeon. He sits on your finger and bites it. He sits on your shoulder and pecks at your ear."

Red Cross Again To Hunt Missing

By the United Press

The American Red Cross has resumed its service of searching for missing civilians in foreign countries.

The service was suspended in August, 1945, when normal mail channels were reopened. National Red Cross Headquarters said resumption of the service followed State and War Department requests for it.

Under Red Cross procedure, local chapters will accept individual inquiries for missing civilians only after ordinary communication channels have proved unsuccessful.

During the war Red Cross chapters handled more than 1,750,000 messages, inquiries to and from this country concerning missing friends and relatives.

Rembrandt 'Beard' Puzzle Is Solved

Vienna (U.P.).—The experts finally solved the mystery of Rembrandt's beard. For a while it was a puzzler.

Examination revealed that the centuries-old self-portrait by Rembrandt was taking on a slow growth of face whiskers, after it had been taken to Zurich, Switzerland, as part of an Austrian art exhibition.

A few closer looks, however, showed that it wasn't Rembrandt coming back to life, but simply the appearance of some sponges which were favored by the Zurich climate.

The experts explained that the paintings had been sheltered in salt mines during the Allied bombings of Vienna and that the artists had used home-made paints that contained ingredients particularly edible for sponges.

The scientists announced that Rembrandt will get a shave—with insecticide.

Md. Legislators Visit Factories In Cumberland

By A. Whitney Shoemaker
Associated Press Staff Writer

Cumberland, Md., Aug. 7.—Members of Maryland's Legislative Council saw how a substantial portion of this city's wage earners make their living and went into an informal huddle with local officials on western Maryland problems.

Some 50 county, town and city officers joined the legislators for a round-table discussion of mutual problems after the visitors dined at Ali-Ghan Country Club.

Two questions which have aroused widespread interest in the State's two westernmost counties will come into focus tomorrow when the touring lawmakers visit Frostburg State Teachers' College and several mining areas.

A State commission on higher education has suggested the abandonment of Frostburg as a teachers college on the grounds it turns out too few instructors for the money spent. Education leaders in the area oppose the move.

Kimble said he was particularly anxious for his fellow legislators to see the "eyesore" left by strip mining operations. A bill requiring restoration of stripped areas by the operators was passed at this year's General Assembly session but vetoed by Governor Lane.

They saw almost 13,000 workmen at their jobs today in tours of the Kelly Springfield tire plant and the big Amcelle works of Celanese Corporation of America.

Nearly all the members of the Allegany County delegation in the legislature joined the party for a tour of the tire factory. J. C. Warden, general superintendent, guided a trip which followed the processing from raw materials to finished tires. About 2300 are employed there. The visitors had breakfast at the plant and spent more than two hours in their inspection.

A similar visit to the celanese plant, which employs upward of 10,000, followed luncheon.

60 Apartment Tenants To Fight Rent Hikes

About 60 tenants of the Greenway Apartments, Minnesota ave. and East Capitol st., formed the Greenway Tenants Organization last night to fight rent increases proposed by the owner, Morris Cafritz.

Robert E. Williamson, 11 Ridge rd. se., was chairman of the meeting, held at the Greenway recreation hall.

N. C. Tobacco Averages $50 Per 100 Lbs.

Raleigh, N. C., Aug. 7 (AP).—First returns from border belt tobacco markets today indicated an early average price of close to $50 per hundred, with growers reported satisfied.

All of the 17 market towns in North Carolina and South Carolina were crowded with tobacco farmers and their families.

Production of the belt is estimated at 233 million pounds.

At Kingstree, where from 500,000 to 600,000 pounds, were on warehouse floors a top of $60 was paid, and the early overall average was estimated at $52. The quality was good.

A booking system, whereby farmers were allocated space and time in advance, was instituted at Kingstree to avoid confusion on the warhouse floors. Warehousemen said they believed no other market in the belt had a similar arrangement.

The quality was unusually good, with none of the baskets selling for less than $30 per hundred.

Md. Tenant Farmer Faces Kidnap Charge

Deputy Sheriff Tom Stewart said Cornelius Ellsworth Whiting and the girl were seen last night heading here from the nearby town of Wye Mills. Stewart said he learned the man's wife left him recently because of his attentions to the girl.

The girl's father, another tenant on the farm where Whiting worked, did not enter a complaint. The kidnap warrant was sworn out by the Talbot County State's attorney.

8 Certified By GOP for Va. Election

Richmond, Va., Aug. 7 (AP).—Eight Republican candidates for the Virginia General Assembly have been certified to the State Board of Elections with the deadline for certification at midnight Tuesday night.

Certified with the board by the GOP were:

Fourth Senatorial District: S. P. Stewart, Bedford, to oppose Senator I. Paul Wailes, Democrat.

Sixteenth Senatorial District: C. S. Pendleton, sr., of Gate City, to oppose Senator Lloyd M. Robinette, Democrat.

Fourteenth Senatorial District: Senator S. Floyd Landreth F. Galax, Republican incumbent.

Smyth County: Ralph L. Lincoln, Republican Incumbent, to run for reelection.

Virginia Democrats have lined up 39 candidates for the State Senate with only one District—the strong Republican Fourteenth comprising Carroll, Floyd and Grayson counties—lacking a nominee from the State's dominant party.

With Tuesday's democratic primary out of the way, two House districts still were without nominees—Bland and Giles and Carroll and Floyd—both like the Senate's Fourteenth in southwest Virginia and covering some of the same area.

Apple Crop To Fall Far Off Estimate

Martinsburg, W. Va., Aug. 7.—The Department of Agriculture overestimated the coming apple crop in the four-State Applachian belt by approximately two million bushels, a survey by Appalachian Apple Service indicated today.

Secretary Carroll R. Miller of the service said his survey pointed to a harvest of between 11 million and 12 million bushels, in contrast to the 13,300,000 forecast by the USDA. Last year's crop for the area totaled 28,500,000 bushels.

Miller said his survey was made among 80 area producers, representing about 15 per cent of the total apple acreage in the four States, including the two Virginias, Maryland and Pennsylvania.

Pennsylvania will show about 45 per cent of the crop this year, Miller continued, with production running heavily to Stayman and Yorks. In Virginia the winesap variety fared best, while West Virginia, whose 47 per cent showing is up slightly from earlier production, will yield mostly Yorks.

Production for each of the States in the area, based on Miller's survey, includes (last year's total in parentheses).

Pennsylvania, 5,250,000 (8,568,000); Virginia 3,500,000 (12,975,000); West Virginia, 2,400,000 (5,075,000); Maryland, 500,000 (1,872,000).

Red Canary Search Has Strange Results

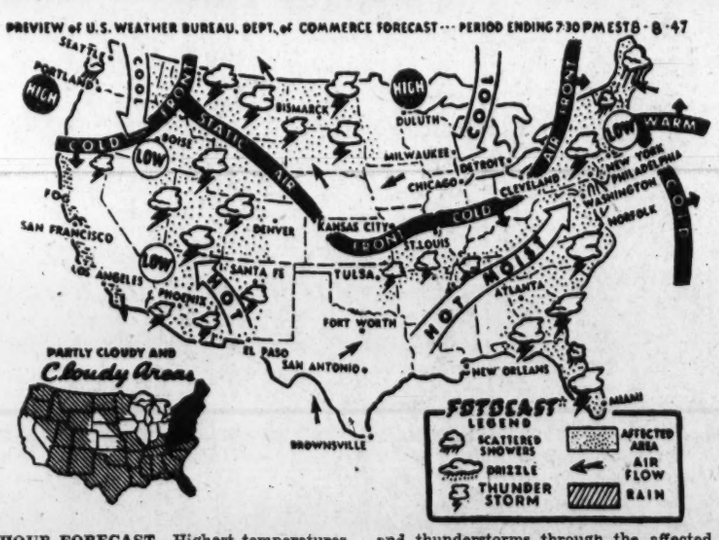
Springfield, Ill. (U.P.).—Canaries' yellow coats are not safe in Springfield. Raymond F. Patton wants to turn them red.

Patton, a member of the American Color Breeders Associations, has been working for eight years to breed a scarlet canary. So far he has been only partly successful. His latest attempt sports "shocking pink" feathers.

In his breeding experiments, Patton has turned canaries orange, copper, maltese, mahogany and apricot-colored.

National Weather Summary

Copyr., 1947, Edw. L. A. Wagner



24-HOUR FORECAST—Highest temperatures this afternoon will be in the 80s in New England and along the Canadian border from New York to Minnesota. Cool air which has been building up in a high pressure cell in central Canada will push down toward the cold air front from New York to Illinois. (See Fotocast.) This front marks the leading edge of the cool air.

It will be uncomfortably hot and sultry with afternoon temperatures of 90 degrees or higher from Pennsylvania to the Gulf States, the central Plains and the Rockies. Moist southerly winds off the Gulf of Mexico are flowing over these areas. (See air mass and air flow arrows.)

Forecasters say warm southerly winds will pick up moisture while passing over the Gulf of Mexico and build up into towering thunderheads, the tyrant of all clouds, from Florida to Maine, over the central Mississippi Valley, the Dakotas and the Rockies. These tall clouds will release their energy in the form of showers and thunderstorms through the affected areas in the coming 24 hours.

The scientists tell us the "boiling up" of these tyrant clouds sets up high voltages between different sections of the cloud as well as the cloud and the earth. Lightning which we see is merely an electric spark of very large size and intensity. Thunder, in turn, is an explosion of air through which the lightning passes.

Highest temperatures in the Nation will be recorded in Louisiana, Mississippi and the Southwest Desert region where the mercury will soar above 100 degrees. Afternoon readings will be in the 80s in the Far West with fog along the California coast as cool air flows around the Pacific high pressure cell.

Maximum temperature forecasts include Nashville, 98; Tulsa and Kansas City, 96; Atlanta, 92; Philadelphia, St. Louis, Pittsburgh and Cleveland, 90; Buffalo, 88; Washington and Albany, 87; New York, 85; Hartford and Chicago, 84; Boston, 82, and Milwaukee, 80.

U. S. Scientists to Study South African Man-Apes

Berkeley, Calif. (U.P.).—Study of the age of ancient man-apes, believed to be some place between 500,000 and three million years ago, will be one of the goals of the University of California's South African expedition.

Dr. Frank Peabody will have charge of the study of animal fossils which may be found in the limestone caves near Johannesburg, where fragmentary specimens of the ancient man-apes have been found.

Dr. Charles L. Camp, supervisor of the expedition, said it was hoped the man-ape's place in evolution could be assigned as a result of the trip.

Filed July 22, 1947. CHARLES H. STEWART, Clerk.
IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF THE United States for the District of Columbia. Erma Williams, et al., Plaintiffs, vs. Ada Randall Marshall, et al., Defendants. Civil Action No. 37165. The object of this suit is to secure the partition and sale of certain real estate in the District of Columbia known as Lot 232 in Square 2595, improved by premises 724 Gresham Place, N.W., and to distribute the proceeds from such sale among the parties entitled as their interests may appear, and to establish the presumption of death of the defendant, Fred Ferguson (also known as Freddy Ferguson) by reason of absence for more than seven years. On motion of the plaintiffs, it is this 22nd day of July, 1947, ordered that the defendant Fred Ferguson (also known as Freddy Ferguson) cause his appearance to be entered herein on or before the fortieth day, exclusive of Sundays and legal holidays, occurring after the day of the first publication of this order; otherwise the cause will be proceeded with as in case of default. Provided, a copy of this order be published once a week for three successive weeks in the Washington Law Reporter, and The Washington Post before said day. BOBITHA J. LAWS, Justice. Attest: (Seal.) CHARLES E. STEWART, Clerk. By ELLA McDONALD, Deputy Clerk.

Building materials have eased up, and the quality has improved considerably during the past year, making it more advantageous to build at present.

If you are looking for a lovely lot to build your home, we can supply your need now.

We are proud that since January 1, 1947, we have sold 61 lots at Lanham Park. That is a lot of lots and the reason is simple. They are an excellent value. Nowhere else can you get a lot containing 17,000 square feet (being nearly half an acre) with beautiful oak trees, ideally located and well drained for only $750. Pure city water, phone and gas—mail delivery—fast train and bus connections—roads installed—close to school site. Low county taxes.

Come out and look around; there is a lot of activity in Lanham Park.

VIRGINIA

OUTSTANDING VIRGINIA FARMING ESTATE

2 hours from Washington in the beautiful Virginia Piedmont on a farm of 1,000 acres is this handsome Georgian house. Its gracious 50 ft. center hall leads to a dining room 24x24, drawing room and library, each 40x24, and an informal paneled game room. The stairway climbs gracefully to the 2d floor, where the master bedrooms are 24x24, the others 22x22. There are 4 baths and numerous closets. Decorations are by Tiffany, of New York. If one could build such a house at all today, its cost would be above $300,000. Other buildings include a handsome old brick colonial house, 2 tenant houses, and 3 barns. The land is fertile and responds to good management. The price of the property is $175,000 and inspection is by appointment. Shown by

D. C. Training School Escapes Held Averaging 30 Per Month

An averages of 30 inmates, many of them dangerous threats to society, escape every month from the District Training School for the Feeble-Minded at Laurel, Md.

This was disclosed yesterday by Dr. James Lewald, superintendent of the institution.

The school has no walls and no security facilities in its buildings. Congress has twice refused to approve appropriations for a maximum security building at the institution to house chronic runaways.

Almost 1400 patients have been committed to the school since it was opened in the spring of 1925.

What has happened to these 1400? More than 650 are still there; about 170 have been adjusted and returned to normal life, about 150 have died, between 70 and 80 have been transferred to other institutions, and about 350 have escaped—and are still at large.

Many more than 350 inmates have escaped from the school in the 22 years. In fact, about that many walk away in a year. But 350 of them over this period have remained free.

Dr. Lewald estimates that between 150 and 200 of these missing inmates can be classified as potential menaces to society.

One of the latest to "go over the hill" is Walter Douglas, 18, who has made 18 escapes from the school since he was committed in 1939. His criminal record includes carnal knowledge of a 13-year-old girl and assault on a 6-year-old.

Money for plans for new buildings which would provide the institution at Laurel with the security facilities it needs was provided by Congress in the fiscal year of 1945.

But in 1946 and 1947, Congress turned down requests for appropriations to finance the buildings. The item was left out of the 1948 budget submitted this year.

One of those who feel that Congress must be made to realize the importance of greater security at the school is Representative Dansdale G. Sasscer (D., Md.), in whose Congressional district the school is located.

Wartime Controls Are Restored on 40 Steel Products

By The Associated Press

The Commerce Department last night announced restoration of wartime export controls on 40 to 50 steel products effective October 1.

Exporters will have to get permits for shipments and state the use to which the metal will be put overseas.

For almost two years exporters have been able to ship under "consolidated" licenses, lumping their foreign orders without Government scrutiny of the use to which the iron and steel is to be put.

The change will provide "a more equitable distribution among foreign countries," the department said, and will allow this Government some control in seeing that foreign purchasers use the material for essential reconstruction purposes.

M. E. Sweeney, chief of the export control division for general products, told a reporter first consideration in issuing licenses will go to shipments destined for the rebuilding of basic industries.

Chiang Reported In Yenan for Defense Parley

Nanking, Aug. 7 (AP).—Semi-official sources said Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek flew today to Yenan, one-time Communist capital, to confer on strengthening his government's defenses in that northwest area.

Yenan fell to a Nationalist assault last March 19. There was no new word on fighting which has persisted north of there ever since, but in Shantung Province to the east, government successes were reported.

The American mission of inquiry, headed by Lieut. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer was in Tsingtao and was expected to return to Nanking Friday. It heard new reports from United States businessmen concerning trade difficulties and from a Chinese group which reiterated allegations of Russian aid to Chinese Communists.

Diplomats Wanted

Oklahoma City, Okla. (U.P.).—Mayor Allen Street may become the first municipal chief to have a committee on foreign affairs. The mayor threatened to name such a committee after receiving three foreign language letters in one day. The first was written in French—the mayor thought. The second was addressed to "the burgomeister," and he decided it was in German. The only word he could read in the third was "Italia."

3 Teen-Agers Arrested for Assault, Robbery

Three teen-age boys were arrested by police early yesterday and charged with assaulting a 42-year-old man during an attempted robbery.

Police identified the victim as Alexander B. Gaylor, 719 10th st. ne. They said the three boys attacked Gaylor in an alley in the rear of his home at about 1 a. m., struck him over the head with a bottle, then fled with his empty wallet.

Gaylor was admitted to Casualty Hospital with a fractured lower left leg and head lacerations.

The boys—two of them 15 and one 14—were arrested a short time later near the scene and police said they admitted the assault. They were turned over to juvenile authorities.

Meanwhile, police were trying to identify three soldiers who beat up a cab driver at about midnight Wednesday night during an attempted robbery near Canal and Foxhall rds, nw.

The cab driver, Donald C. Loweth, 35, of Clinton Md., told police he picked up the soldiers at 16th and I sts. nw. and they asked to be driven to Glen Echo. He said they forced him from his cab at Canal and Foxhall rds., beat him and searched him for money. They fled when another cab passed by.

Loweth, who was treated for head lacerations at Emergency Hospital and then transferred to the Naval Hospital at Bethesda, had the last laugh. He had $220 hidden in his sock.

Grenadier's Waterloo

Out of Mouths Of Misses Come Unguarded Digs

By Mary Van Rensselaer Thayer

BELLE OF THE BRITISH ISLES is tow-headed Sharman, Ambassador Lew Douglas' 19-year-old daughter. Wonderfully photogenic, her picture rather than her famous papa's studs England's gazettes. Her uninhibited remarks are tossed about London dinner tables with pleasurable gusto.

Recently a smart young officer escorted Sharman to the Grenadier Guards mess for luncheon. The various Guards regiments are considered the ne plus ultra in military chic. To be invited to one of their regimental messes is rated a minor social achievement. After lunch the officer and his pals gave Sharman a serious dissertation in the Guards traditions—starting heaven knows how many years ago and winding up with the present "do" in Palestine.

Sharman listened, then replied politely, "How interesting—of course I know very little about such things because we haven't a Home Guard in America."

Now England's Home Guard, we hasten to add, is the scrapings of the manpower barrel, the gallant but unstylish retreads organized to battle possible invaders. Sharman's beau retired with a punctured ego and the permanent label of Home Guard warrior.

Junketing for Junk

RIGHT AFTER THE WAR, Congressmen junketed dizzily around Europe, more intent on picking up a good camera than tending to their official knitting. One group, we remember, hung up some sort of record visiting 19 countries in 20 days. The plane finally turned up in Belgrade eight hours later, putting the official schedule hopelessly out of kilter.

The exhausted pilot reported bitterly to two American correspondents: "We're late because of hangovers and last-minute scrambles for cameras. The back of the plane is so darn' cluttered with junk that if they buy one more round of souvenirs we'll never be able to pry open the exit!" The Congressmen were hastily shuttled to a cocktail party hoisted by Tito in the requisitioned royal palace, ate pastries probably concocted from UNRRA sugar and hors d'oeuvres which would have supplied a week's nourishment to a dozen Yugoslav families.

That was just about all the boys saw of Yugoslavia. Undoubtedly they returned burbling about Tito's charm, the success of his benign distatorship.

Practically a Blueprint

FORTUNATELY the day of the happy-go-lucky Congressman may be over. The 19 who are going abroad under the aegis of Congressman Christian Herter of Massachusetts are sailing in one group ("to keep them from escaping," one of the directors said). Then they'll separate to different countries, settling down and keeping carefully to a minimum expense account.

Wherever they go, a staff of interpreters and writers to help prepare reports will go with them. They'll remain six weeks—except for the Agriculture Committee headed by Congressman Andresen, which plans several months' stopover. Before they shove off, the 19 will be put through a stiff briefing. Questions they ought to ask will be lined up, definite reading lists will be prepared and special discussions will be planned with experts on the subjects they need find out about.

One of the most important angles will be getting the coal picture—and really deciding what to do about it. Basically, they'll find out for themselves the effect of communism's impact on Europe. On the home front their findings will be evaluated by Bernard Baruch's alter ego, John Hancock, and Julius Klein and Allen Dulles. All in all there won't be much time for chasing souvenirs.

Bidault Grows in Stature

TRAVELERS back from Paris report, for once, an amusing bit of friction at a conference. The principals were Bidault and Bevin. Bidault is short, looks like a smoother Maurice Chevalier.

See THAYER, Page 6, Column 1.

For a Summer Sunday Evening . . .

Fried chicken—Crusty, tender, and delicately browned—is still tops on the list of Sunday evening favorites. Some like it hot and some like it cold. Serve it in the way that's most convenient, along with a salad, hot rolls, and a cool fruit compote dessert, for a Sabbath supper everyone will enjoy.

A quick trick when time is short and guests are coming for supper is this Hawaiian sandwich. There's a bit of the glamour of far-off places about this combination of cheddar cheese, pineapple slices, and Holland rusk. Spread the rusk with mayonnaise before topping with pineapple and cheese. Place under low broiler heat until the cheese melts, then serve with parsley and carrot curls.

There's cool refreshment—and plenty of nourishment, too—in these tall glasses of coffee float. Accompanied by a plate of fudge-nut squares, they're just the thing to serve when friends drop in on a Sunday night. Coffee base for the float can be quickly made by mixing 3 tablespoons of instant coffee with 2 cups of water and 2 tablespoons of sugar. Mix one-fourth cup of this base with a cup of milk, cool with ice cubes, and top with a big scoop of coffee ice cream.

Paris Halts Falling Hem At Fall Show

By Peggy Preston

Paris, the city that initiated the longer skirt trend over a year ago, has apparently decided to call a halt, at least for the time being.

Reports from the Queen City of Fashion, where the fall style showings are now in progress, indicate that designers are maintaining the status quo—they're leaving the hemline at 13 or 14 inches.

That makes it unanimous, so far as the dictators of world fashion are concerned. Last month in New York the consensus of our own top designers was that the hem should stop at mid-calf length for general all-around wear. When Britishers displayed their latest creations in London last week the skirts remained definitely at the 13-inch line. Now Paris gives the moderately longer skirt her blessing.

Stop Fretting

So, now we can stop fretting about those ankle-length skirts we heard were in the offing. We're not being forced back to the Dark Ages or even to When Grandma was a Girl. All that has actually happened is that our skirts are a couple of inches longer than they were during the last ten years.

The austerity that continues to rule life in Britain and on the Continent is undoubtedly responsible for this checking of the extravagant use of material in clothing. Even in America, the land of plenty, manufacturers are telling us that there will be a serious shortage of woolens this fall as a result of the fuller, longer styles in women's clothes. Also, vast amounts of these fabrics are being shipped abroad to countries still unable to manufacture an adequate supply of their own.

So it is apparent again that economics, and not designers and the much berated "little woman," is the important factor in shaping fashion.

Capt. Edouard Molyneux, who makes the dresses for the British Royal household, showed his fall collection in London last week and this week in Paris. Scores of American buyers looked on.

English Are Moderate

What impressed them most, judging by press reports, was the length of skirts. None of the Molyneux skirts, excepting dinner and evening gowns, go below mid-calf. He has designed primarily for the English way of living which calls for tailored suits and morning dresses.

Lucien Lelong, a top-ranking Paris designer, featured slightly longer skirts in his collection but Maccy Rouff kept hers in line with those of Molyneaux. Many other prominent designers will display their collections before the showings end next week. Their designs are carefully guarded secrets and no one can say what will turn up before it is all over. But it seems safe to assume that Paris has no startling fashion innovations up its sleeve.

Is Man a Sap? A Laborer, He Often Washes Supper Dishes, Takes Care of Baby, So Wife Can Go Out, But She Won't Fix His Breakfast

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: We are just an ordinary family in the lower income bracket—not millionaires. Our trouble is the matter of getting up in the morning and preparing breakfast. My wife and I have clashed several times on the subject. Now I would like an outsider's viewpoint.

For background: I am not narrow minded. I don't believe in a woman's staying home all the time. So when my wife wants to attend her club meetings I help out by staying home nights to wash the supper dishes and mind the baby.

That's what I've done three nights this week; but when I want a little help in the mornings so I can get to work on time, I don't get it. I've made my own breakfast five days this week and packed my own lunch four days.

Wife Is Outraged When Called Lazy

WHEN we were first married my wife fixed breakfast; but during her pregnancy and later, when the baby kept her up nights, I encouraged her to sleep late. Now she's got in the habit and won't quit. I tell her it's a man's duty to provide for the family and a woman's duty to prepare the meals and keep house.

Recently when I told her she was lazy and neglected her duties she was outraged. She says I am behind the times; that at least 50 per cent of modern housewives don't fix breakfast for their husbands. She says 7 a. m. is an ungodly hour to get up; she thinks she should sleep until 9 or 10 o'clock. Now, what is your opinion? Am I old fashioned or am I a sap?

J. J.

Man's Attitude Seems Civilized

DEAR J. J.: You are neither old fashioned nor a sap, but rather a civilized man. Far from being old fashioned, indeed, you are ultra modern in your decent disposition to give your wife a lift with the housework, often and amiably, so she can have time for recreation.

As a matter of fact, the typical old-fashioned husband took for granted that woman's place was in the home, that she had no business gallivanting around at night, unless trotting dutifully at his heels. Family life was keyed to the theory that he—Lord and master in the relationship—had indisputable right to be waited on hand-and-foot by his wife, during time he chose to spend at home.

As for Papa's doing the dishes and minding baby night after night to give Mama evenings out, 99 per cent of old-fashioned men wouldn't have countenanced such goings-on, even supposing they ever heard of the idea. From their viewpoint, it would have been a matter for blush—so unmanly in the male, so "pants-wearing" in the wife.

Wife's Argument Isn't Acceptable

MOREOVER, in our father's and grandfather's day men, especially of the laboring class, didn't give much thought—not even the best of them—to "humoring" pregnant or child-nursing wives. On the contrary, they confronted women with the rigorous theory that these are natural feats, to be taken in stride; and the ladies—God bless 'em—for the most part bore up gallantly to their last breath.

Study the grave-markers in any old cemetery, to see how many wives-per-man died young, trying to oblige the old-fashioned man's theory that a matron's constitution is made of iron. So as I say, your thoughtful attitude towards your wife—including your accent on mutual fair play—is distinctly modern and civilized.

As for her argument that 50 per cent of modern wives don't fix breakfast for husbands, I don't believe it. But even supposing it were true, the more shame to them! How stupid; how slothful. Intelligent mastery of any job, whether at home or in the marts of trade, begins with early rising.

The kitchen is the heart of the home, and the lady of the house—key-figure in the family—should get it going early, if she wants to knit her family together. If as a rule she shirks this duty she's a lazy sponger, in my opinion.

Miss Hughes, Mr. Collins Wed in N. Y.

A wedding of wide interest in the Capital took place in New York yesterday when Miss Mary Beth Hughes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Edward Hughes of New York, formerly of Washington, became the bride of Taber Loree Collins, son of Comdr. David M. Collins, USN (ret.), and Mrs. Collins of Orange, N. J.

The Rev. James Kelly, assisted by the Rev. Christopher Weldon, performed the ceremony in St. Patrick's Cathedral. A reception followed at the home of the bride's parents.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a princess gown of ivory satin with a deep bertha of heirloom lace. Her Belgium lace veil fell from a coronet of rose-point lace and she carried white orchids and bouvardia. Miss Anne Von Glahn, maid of honor, was gowned in yellow organdy and lace and she carried delphinium. Bridesmaids, wearing organdy pastels and carrying old-fashoned bouquets, were Misses Jessie Taber Collins, Jean Brisse, Gloria Hopkins, Rita Shelley, Mary Elizabeth Byrne and Joan Christie.

Midshipman Loree Collins and David McLernon Collins, jr., were best men for their brother. Ushers were Robert K. Tubman, Richard Tubman, Leonor F. Loree, Robert F. Loree, jr., John Spencer, Snultan, Rogers Rienicki, Wallace Shanks and Lewis D. Barding.

Mr. and Mrs. George F. Shea are at the Homestead at Hot Springs, Va., until early September.

Gay Folk Music and Dancing For First Ecuadorian Party

By Marie McNair

THE new Ecuadorian Ambassador and Senora de Ponce who will entertain at their first large party at the embassy on Sunday will give their guests something new in the way of entertainment. Sunday is Ecuador's Independence Day, and instead of the usual crowded reception for diplomatic and official society, Senor and Senora de Ponce will bring together a group primarily interested in inter-American cooperation. They will include members of various government departments as well as private and educational institutions.

There will be an exhibit of Ecuadorian art objects including some rare examples of colonial art. There will be singing and Ecuadorian folk music, and words of welcome by the Ambassador. Stanley Grand, chief of the cultural relations section for Venezuela, Colombia and Ecuador, of the Department of State, will also give a talk. In colorful costumes more than half a dozen Senoritas and their partners will put on the San Juanito, folk dance of the Andean Indians.

It was on August 10, 1809, in Quito, high up in the Andes that the people of Ecuador revolted against Spain and declared themselves free. One of the revolution's heroes was Eugenio de Santa Cruz and his bust has a prominent place among outstanding patriots in the Pan American Union building in Washington.

BOUND for "My Old Kentucky Home are Mrs. Fred Vinson, wife of the Chief Justice, and her younger son, Jimmy. They left yesterday for Ashland where the Chief Justice and Fred, jr., have been for several days.

The Vinsons have always kept up with the "home folks" in both Ashland and little Louisa, where they grew up together. On Sunday the Chief Justice, who is a Son of the American Revolution, has been asked to dedicate the Daughters of the American Revolution Vancouver marker, put up as a tribute to a valiant soldier. Vancouver headed a band of pioneers and encouraged them to hold out against Indian attacks. Later he fought in the American Revolution. Jimmy is leaving town, a defeated young man. His high school team on which he was catcher, lost the baseball championship last week.

TOWN TOPICS

Mrs. John Allan Dougherty has recuperated from a recent illness and left yesterday for New York. She'll visit Mrs. Fenton Turck at the Savoy-Plaza for several days and pay a visit to Westport, Conn., where she once had a summer home.

Mr. and Mrs. John R. McLean, who are at Newport for the season, have as their guest Mrs. James F. Curtis of New York.

Miss Leahy to Be Third Generation Capital Debutante

Newest debutante to be added to the winter group is Miss Louise Leahy, daughter of Capt. William H. Leahy, USN, and Mrs. Leahy, and granddaughter of Fleet Admiral William D. Leahy, Chief of Staff to the Commander in Chief of the Army and Navy.

Miss Leahy, a student at Hollins College, Roanoke, Va., will be presented to society at a tea dance on December 30 at the Washington Club.

The debutante is the third generation of her family to make her bow to Capital society. Her mother, the former Miss Elizabeth Beale, made her debut in 1923 at a tea dance at the Washington Club and her grandmother, Mrs. Robert S. Beale, who was Miss Sophie Stuart, came out at the Georgetown cotillion.

Wm. T. Barrys Have Guests From Hawaii

Mr. and Mrs. William Taylor Barry of Alexandria have had with them for a visit their cousins, Associate Justice and Mrs. Louis Alfred le Baron and their daughter, Miss Deborah le Baron of Honolulu.

The le Barons will motor to California and will leave their daughter in Palo Alto where she is a senior at Stanford University.

Promotion Party For Chilean Attache

Officers of the Chilean Military Mission entertained at a cocktail party yesterday in the Pan American room of the Mayflower for Brig. Gen. Milciades Contreras, in celebration of his recent elevation from the rank of colonel. General Contreras, who is Military Attache of the Chilean Embassy, is also head of the Chilean Military Mission in Washington.

Son to Lieut., Mrs. Reuben Woodall

Lieut. and Mrs. Reuben Farrior Woodall announce the birth of their second son, Jonathan Hill, on August 5 at the Naval Hospital in Annapolis. The baby is the grandson of Capt. and Mrs. Donald Johnston of Washington and of Reuben R. Woodall of Springville, Ala.

Dutch AAUW Delegate Asks Better Laws for Children

By Genevieve Reynolds

Visiting European delegates en route to the International Federation of University Women's Conference in Toronto, Canada, arose at dawn yesterday to take in the sights and institutions of the Nation's Capital. Their hostess-escorts who are members of the Washington branch, American Association of University Women rounded out the full schedule with a gala, formal dinner last night honoring the 23 distinguished scholars and professional women.

Mrs. G. R. Wilhelm, president of the local branch, and Dr. Helen Dwight Reid, AAUW's national associate in international relations, were the chief speakers at the dinner. Both gave a rousing welcome to the university women. Followlowing the banquet, the guests assembled in the large drawing rooms for an informal reception.

During the day, the delegation split into small groups to tour the institutions and places that interested them most. Members of the Women's Bar Association of the District of Columbia took the feminine barristers and social welfare workers in tow. After inspecting Child Welfare Centers they gathered at the Raleigh Hotel for an informal luncheon.

Barristers Honored

Honored guests at the affair included Miss Mary E. Rankin of Glasgow, Scotland, a solicitor; Mrs. J. E. C. Willett-Roosenberg, a solicitor and practicing attorney in the Amsterdam Courts; Dr. Anny Vollenweider of Berne, Switzerland; Miss Florence Sayer of Hull, Yorkshire; Mrs. Stina Siberg, formerly of Sweden, now of London; and Mlle. Sylvie Charrot of Paris, France.

Among the well-known local Portias honored at the luncheon were the Assistant District Attorney, Helena D. Reed; Nadine Gallagher, Associate Judge of the District's Municipal Court and former president of the Women's Bar Association; Judge Lucy Somerville Howorth, also a past president of the association, and Judge Annabel Matthews, first woman member of the U. S. Board of Tax Appeals.

In a brief speech, Mrs. Willett-Roosenberg of Holland, who specializes in divorce and children's cases, appealed to the women of the world to create and pass better laws "so that children will have a safe and happy world."

Her sentiments were reiterated by Judge Howorth and Mlle. Charrot, an English teacher and lecturer in the Parisian schools.

Mlle. Charrot also told how European women worked diligently during the war and occupation to keep up high moral standards. "Women's suffrage in France will bring many changes," she said. "We will continue to work to strengthen the same ideas of democracy for which you stand. But we will need your help.

Understanding Needed

"We need understanding as well as food, planes and cars," she continued. "It will be a long process to develop a United World but we must keep trying."

Miss Mary Frances Glenn, president of the Women's Bar, welcomed and introduced the honored guests. Miss Irene Jarvis, chairman of hospitality, greeted the delegation at an informal reception preceding the luncheon.

The foreign AAUW delegates will be honored by the Philippine Women's Club of Washington at a luncheon tomorrow in the Congressional Room of Willard Hotel.

Mrs. Juan A. Barretto, president of the Philippine Women's Club and wife of the Financial Attache of the Philippine Embassy, will greet the guests following the introduction by Mrs. Maria A. Batoon. Misses Trophy Ocampo and Pilar Lozada will present Philippine folk dances with Mrs. Tomas Benitez accompanying.

Mrs. C. R. Wilhelm will speak. Mrs. Narciso Ramos, wife of the Minister Counsel of the Philippine Embassy, will conclude the program with a presentation of Philippine flags.

Has Anyone Told You . . .

BACON FRYER for those who want their strips flat is made with a perforated top that fits into the fryer. This eliminates turning and prevents grease splatter.

CLEANER for greasy pans and stoves has other uses, too. Put a small amount in the scrub water for floors and walls and the job will be much easier. It can be used in cleaning marble, tile, linoleum, wood. Action of this degreaser is instantaneous in hot or cold, hard or soft water.

PAINTERS will be glad to hear that a liquid has been developed that eliminates the pesky chore of sandpapering. Wipe the painted surface with this liquid and the gloss is taken off. It is effective on enamel, lacquer, shellac, varnish, as well as paint.

AFTER four years of "involuntary retirement" a picnic ice is back. It is so simple to use: Put two or three tins of this in the refrigerator overnight so that it will freeze solid. Then when you are packing your picnic basket with cold foods and drinks, put the three tins in the center of the hamper. There will be no messy melting of ice. The beauty of this product is that it can be used over and over.

GAS RANGES have been designed with four burners in the center of the stove. That leaves work space on the two outer surfaces. Burners and grates are made of porcelain. Fiberglas insulation promises good baking and the broiler drawer is easy to slide out.

OPEN ALL DAY SATURDAY

Busy business girls have few moments to spare caring for their hands. Frequent washings, necessitated by handling pencils and carbon papers all day long, often dry out the skin and leave the hands chapped and rough. A small bottle of hand lotion, kept in your desk drawer, can help prevent this condition and give your hands a well-groomed look

Tune for Business Woman

A Little 'Time on Your Hands' Will Make You Proud of Yours

"Time On My Hands." That's a little tune that lots of business women whistle while they work but never put to actual practice. We all have the same trouble; no one denies the value of well groomed hands and nails. But finding the time to keep them that way—well, that's something else again.

Yet our hands are on parade every minute of our day. In the office they are busy answering the telephone, typing letters, holding pencil and pad while taking dictation. After office hours they are in the spotlight again while dancing, applying lipstick or handling a cup, knife or fork.

Carelessly cared-for-hands remind observers that you are careless about other things. It can actually be to your advantage to spend a little extra time with your hands.

Be Hand Proud

First of all, be proud of your hands, whatever their size or shape. After all, they're among your most valuable and irreplaceable assets. Also, their response to a small amount of routine care will surprise you.

So, if you're interested in turning over a new leaf in this direction, here are a few hints on hand-grooming.

You'll have to resign yourself to a certain amount of manicuring. Let the nails grow out on the sides before shaping them, to prevent splitting and breaking. Then file with an emery board to a length that is practical for the work you do. Never file down on the sides of the nails below the ends of the fingers. This may mean weakening the nail or encouraging hangnails. Follow this procedure and you'll find that your nails are far stronger than when you attempted to give them a sharp, pointed look.

Hands should be soaked in warm soapy water to soften the cuticle for a manicure. Use a strong brush to help get rid of stubborn dirt that clings under the nails. Clean under and around the nails with an orange stick wrapped in a bit of cotton. Never use a sharp, pointed metal instrument.

If the cuticle is rough and dry, soften it further with oil between manicures. But don't cut it or any rough skin on the fingers. After warm sudsy soaking, rub off the rough skin with an emery board. The cuticle should be gently pushed back with the flat end of the orange stick and cut only if broken skin is likely to be torn further.

An old and easy trick is to push back the cuticle with a towel each time you dry your hands. Clip hangnails with sterile manicure scissors and apply an antiseptic.

Best Bet

Applying nail polish is such a chore that many women are now leaving it off entirely. However, if you handle carbon paper and pencils all day you probably find that the dirt grinds into the surface of your nails and it is all but impossible to keep them looking clean. In that event it is best to use a protective coat of clear, neutral polish.

Neutral polish is the best bet for the office worker because it is not so noticeable when it chips off. If you haven't the time to apply fresh red nail enamel frequently it is best to leave it alone altogether.

During the cold weather months it is a good idea to keep a bottle of hand lotion in your desk drawer. Use it after you wash your hands and you'll notice a marked change in the texture of the skin.

How to Be a Lady

Model Schools Give Finishing Touch

By Betty Clarke

NEW YORK.—Model schools now are offering more than the "how to walk" and "how to smile" routine. New courses concentrate on self-improvement in respect to the social graces.

Mariana Smillie, model school directress, has found that many engaged girls are interested in courses on social requirements. She says:

"The teen-ager who has sadly neglected her social education and has become a victim of bad speech habits and sloppy dress is desperate for information on how to be a lady. She is either in love or engaged and she hasn't the slightest idea how to cope with her new role."

Taught Respect

In the course on family relationships, the young girls are taught good manners, courtesy and consideration. Miss Smillie says most of our subdebs think their mothers are old fashioned; consequently they treat them discourteously and would rather take advice from outsiders. Hence her course is designed to impress on them the importance of family life.

If you remember to "be yourself" you can acquire personality, Miss Smillie advises. In facial expression be alert, alive and vital. A look of genuine interest and pleasure in the person to whom you are speaking is necessary. But if you are deadpan and dull eyed, no matter how beautiful you are, you won't interest anybody. On the other hand, an ugly face, lit by the fire of personality, is attractive and compelling, she adds.

For the girl contemplating marriage, Miss Smillie's "how to be a good hostess" course offers the following suggestions:

1. When greeting guests, have a sparkle in your eye to make your guests feel welcome. Don't give the impression that you extended the invitation so long ago that you are sorry the inevitable has arrived.

2. Skip such topics of conversation as your maid problem, the weather and household finances.

3. Put your guest at ease by drawing her out in conversation. Does she like plays or books? Perhaps cooking is her hobby.

Miss Smillie—who used to brief Washington diplomats' wives in the graceful arts—has found that very few women are born to be perfect hostesses. It is a knack which must be cultivated to be painless and enjoyable.

Your Questions On Homemaking

What is the best method of cleaning and polishing green and red cobra shoes and handbag so that they will remain soft? Also, how should brown alligator shoes be cleaned? M. B.

A neutral reptile wax which is excellent for cleaning both cobra and alligator shoes and bags is sold in an F Street shoe store. This wax keeps the skins soft and pliable.

I am debating the purchase of ice cream forks and/or dessert spoons to match my silver. On what occasion are each of these used—with what desserts and what other dishes? Can dessert spoons substitute as soup spoons? M. R. E.

Ice cream forks can be used for almost any dessert served on a plate. Dessert spoons are appropriate for those served in bowls or glasses. Dessert spoons substitute nicely for soup spoons and can also be used for cereal, berries and the like. Ice cream forks are being made in few patterns at the present time, principally because of silver shortages. Salad forks are often used instead. If you haven't salad forks already, you might find them more useful than the ice cream forks.

(1) The legs of my furniture made deep indentations in my carpet. What is the best way to raise the pile where the carpet has been pressed down?

(2) What can I use in place of casters on the legs of a heavy mahogany desk chair which is moved each time it is used? Also under heavy floor lamps with odd-shaped bases?

(3) My bathroom floor is of white tile. Is there anything other than constant scrubbing that can be done to keep the tiles from getting dirty so quickly? Would you advise waxing it? A. G.

(1) Pile which has become matted down can be raised by steaming and repeated brushing. It's necessary to send the rug to a good professional to get this job done effectively.

(2) Smooth, round, steel protectors or "shoes" could be used on the legs of the mahogany desk chair. These protectors have pronged tops and aren't difficult to fasten on. They slide smoothly over rug surfaces and don't "bite in" as much as certain types of casters. Gluing felt pads to the bases of your lamps—or if that isn't possible, simply placing them under the lamps—would provide protection for your rug. Occasional shifting of your rugs or furniture will help to distribute wear more evenly and avoid matting of the pile.

(3) Certain types of tile, such as "quarries" and unglazed tile, can be waxed to good advantage. However, soap and water is the only means recommended for keeping glazed tile clean and shining.

I have 28 pieces of Towle sterling silver in the "Virginia Carvel" pattern, which is now inactive. Have you any suggestions as to where I might sell it or buy more and finish the set? E. M. K.

Several local firms buy and sell silver in inactive patterns and may be able to help you solve your problem. Look for their names under "Silverware" in the yellow section of your telephone directory.

Market Memo

By Lucia Brown

A fast trip for fresh corn . . . from patch to plate . . . is the aim of a plan started this week. Extra-fine sweet corn . . . picked in Maryland just before dawn . . . is being rushed to Washington stores. You can serve it a few hours after gathering . . . and that makes a big difference. Corn loses its sugar rapidly . . . becomes tougher and less tasty.

Fresh vegetables in general are a little cheaper this week. Tomatoes, snapbeans, squash, carrots, beets, potatoes and onions among the plentifuls. No lack of salad ingredients . . . lettuce, celery, green and red peppers, and hugh cucumbers . . . some of them 10 inches long. Sugar peas coming in from Colorado.

Larger Norfolk spots arriving at the fish market now. Boston mackerel, trout and croakers abundant. Few soft shell crabs because of high tides . . . but plenty of hard shells. Australian lobster tails (much like the African variety) . . . seen in one store . . . high-priced but delicious. Red snapper from the Gulf . . . weighing from 3 pounds up. Gulf shrimp due here about August 15 . . . the shrimp fleet goes out in the Gulf next week for the first time this season.

From Mouths of Statesmen

Bevin is a big chunk of man. The Britisher constantly referred to Bidault as a "dear little man." This finally got under Bidault's skin. He remarked tartly: "Bevin has the ways of speech of a man who's never had any other experience except with labor unions." This was duly relayed to Bevin. Now he's shortened it to "dear man."

An all time high in gourmandizing was offered a few select Washingtonians at a cocktail party given by Maj. Gen. Prince Mohamed Hossein Mirza Firouz and his princess. All the delicacies of Araby, it seems, were spread out in the Chevy Chase garden of Iran's Commercial Attache Nemazee. It was interesting to see how much such svelte heroes as General Spaatz and Gen. Hoyt Vandenberg could eat on a warm afternoon.

Back home in Tehran the major general and prince is Minister of Communications. With the princess he is making a tour of this country. His Highness has relations scattered all over the world—and one of his pet nephews is the Iranian Ambassador to Moscow.

"Your father won't let me wear a modern bathing suit . . . afraid people will look at me!"

Diet for Slimming Figure Pays Off in Better Health

By Ida Jean Kain

WOMEN go on diets for all sorts of reasons . . . to wear the latest styles with dash, or last season's clothes without alterations; to get in shape to go home for vacations, or perhaps to get a rich husband. But unless it's doctor's orders, very few women deliberately set out to diet or take corrective exercise for the express purpose of improving their health.

Well, that's all right, if you choose the protective course to slimming, no matter what the objective, the results are the same: better health and a lovelier figure. Maybe even the rich husband!

Letter Tells Story

Today's letter, however, shows what can happen when a woman determines to change her food habits and exercise in order to improve her health and get more out of life.

"I want you to know the health and happiness that losing weight have brought me. When I first wrote to you for help and a diet, I weighed 178 pounds. I was gaining, too, so there's no telling where I would have stopped. I was under the doctor's care all the time for liver and nerve trouble. Frankly I was a mess.

Easy Stages

"The start of losing was a little harder for me than for someone perfectly well. My whole side and under my right shoulder blade was sensitive, but I started easy with very simple exercises. I laugh with tears in my eyes when I think of the first time I tried lifting my feet one at a time off the floor while lying flat on my back, and at the same time tried to raise both arms up on floor overhead. Honestly I couldn't do it. So I went at it gradually and just bent my knee a little and proceeded slowly with the overhead stretches, morning and night.

"I read your articles every day, using every suggestion you gave that I could apply to myself. I ate the way you suggested. When anyone asked if I were dieting I would tell them that I had just changed my food habits and actually ate more than I ever did.

Now I tell everyone who gives me a chance what wonders these new food habits have done. I weigh 136 pounds now, and I am 5-foot 5½-inch tall, and measure bust 35; waist 28-inch and hips 37-inch. And I can go through any of the exercises with the greatest of ease. My liver trouble is much better. My skin is firmer and I have no wrinkles from reducing. I am 38 years old and have a two-year-old granddaughter, but today I feel twenty, and just yesterday was mistaken for a neighbor's 22-year-old daughter! I thank you from the bottom of my heart."

There you are . . . this courageous reducer who went after health, got a young and lovely figure in the bargain.

Starting Up the Ladder

Eeney-meeney-miney-mo is an amusing child's game, but it's hardly the way to choose your life work. Yet too many people make that all-important decision with little more thought.

Deciding what field to enter, what job to go after, deserves careful consideration. Don't hastily choose your father's occupation—or your best friend's—because nothing else comes to mind. Think it over; make a list of the things you like to do, the things you dislike. What do you do best? What's your weakness? In that way, you can narrow the field down to a few likely choices.

To eliminate still further, ask yourself these questions about each job: Is there a chance for newcomers? Is it a "going" business? What about salaries?

Dozens of fields are analyzed in our Reader Service booklet No. 201. Tells you where the jobs are and how to get them. Covers selling, manufacturing, transportation, white collar, professional and "glamour" jobs.

Send 25c (coin) for "Guide to Jobs: How and Where to Get Them" to The Washington Post Reader Service, 243 West 17th st., New York 11, N. Y. Print name, address with zone number, booklet title and No. 201.

How to SAVE money on groceries

Plan your buying before you go to market, and you will be pleased and surprised by the amount you can cut your grocery bills each week.

How to plan? That's easy! Get The Washington Post regularly and look through the grocery ads, item by item, store by store. That's what those ads are there for—to be shopped from.

Why The Post instead of some other newspaper? Because for more than three years now The Washington Post has carried more grocery store advertising than any other newspaper. Not just in Washington. More than any other major city newspaper anywhere.

Not only does The Washington Post carry more columns of grocery store advertising, week after week. It also carries advertising from more individual advertisers. Many of these do not advertise in any other newspaper. So you can see The Post offers you more selection—more items, more stores, more comparison of prices.

You can save a lot on your grocery bills by subscribing to The Post. Phone NAtional 4200—NOW for guaranteed home delivery.

10 Killed or Missing In Nitrate Ship Blast

Melbourne, Australia, Aug. 7 (AP).—At least 10 persons were killed or reported missing as a result of an explosion in a cargo of sodium nitrate aboard the 10,000-ton British freighter Mahia in Melbourne harbor today, police said. All the victims were believed to have been dockworkers.

The explosion was followed by fire which resulted in all crew members being ordered ashore.

66-Car Freight Wrecked

Meadville, Aug. 7 (AP).—A 66-car Buffalo-Chicago freight of the Erie Railroad was wrecked 3 miles north of this northwestern Pennsylvania community today, derailing at least 26 cars and ripping up trackage for 300 feet without injury to five crewmen.

German Rocket Bomb Expert Flown to U. S.

London, Aug. 7 (AP).—A war office spokesman said today Gen. Walter Dornberger, wartime head of German rocket bomb experiments, had been flown from a British prison to the United States.

The United States Military Attache's office confined that the transfer was made "three or four weeks ago," but had no information on the purpose.

The Gallup Poll

Taft-Hartley Law Disapproved By Weight of Voter Opinion

By George Gallup
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

The Gallup Poll has conducted an intensive survey of public opinion on the Taft-Hartley Labor Act. Following is the first of three reports giving results of this survey.

Princeton, N. J., Aug. 7.—A comprehensive survey of public opinion to date on the controversial Taft-Hartley Act reveals the following significant facts:

1. Labor leaders were outstandingly successful in their efforts to persuade the public that the Taft-Hartley Act is a dangerous and harmful piece of legislation. Their constant reiteration of the phrase "slave labor law" coupled with the President's ringing veto message, evidently had a marked effect on a public which has long favored union curbing. As a result, among voters who have heard or read about the act, the weight of opinion is opposed to it.

2. Yet—and this is the paradox of the situation—the major proportion of the voting population favors many of the specific reforms in industrial relations which the act attempts to bring about.

The public has long favored curbing such things as featherbedding, closed shop and jurisdictional strikes. Also it has approved the idea of mandatory financial reports by unions and of "cooling off" periods before strikes. Advocates of the Taft-Hartley Act can find comfort in the fact that while the public's over-all impression of the act is mixed, attempts to repeal or revise specific provisions may not prove at all popular.

3. One revealing fact is that many people have opinions about the Taft-Hartley Act without knowing very much about what is in it. When asked to name specific things in the act, which they like or dislike, by far the greatest number could not think of anything.

Apparently voters have to a large extent been judging the act by what people say about it, rather than by what they themselves know about it. This again is evidence of the effective job which labor leaders have done in tagging the act with names and making those tags stick.

4. In spite of all the discussion of the act, nearly four voters out of every ten say they have not heard or read about it. This situation may change however as the presidential election campaign warms up.

5. Opinion on the act splits sharply along partisan lines, a fact which increases the likelihood of its becoming an issue in next year's campaign.

Among Democrats who have heard or read about the act, three disapprove of it for every one who approves; among Republicans, it is just the other way around, with a vote of approximately 3-to-1 in approval.

The Institute's survey was designed to measure public sentiment both qualitatively and quantitatively on the Taft-Hartley Act. The questions probed attitudes on many aspects of the issue.

Some of these questions follow. Others will be reported in subsequent releases.

Have you heard or read about the Taft-Hartley law which deals with labor unions?

Yes	61%
No	39

Those who had heard or read about it were asked the following questions:

Ex-Councilman Held In Burmese Slayings

Rangoon, Burma, Aug. 7 (AP).—The government announced today the arrest of Thakin Tun Ok, member of the Burmese executive council formed under former Gov. Sir Reginald Dorman-Smith.

The statement said the arrest was a sequel to police inquiry into the assassination last month of U Aung San and six members of his cabinet. Two former premiers, U Saw and Ba Maw, also were in custody with some 200 others.

Ringside Table

With Mary Harris

A FABULOUS SERVICE CAREER fell into the lap of Jack "Jive" Schafer, band leader and singer of ex-overused, unrepressed (and unsoaped) ballads at the Casino Royal. As a GI he was promptly selected to boost morale at Forest Glen. The vets loved this. They couldn't get enough of "Jive's" undignified madrigals. Then sharp "Tsks! Tsks!" emanated from upper levels. Jack was yanked from the diversion sector for the rest of the war. In a way. For when he wasn't wrassling garbage cans around barracks, he was likely to be entertaining at officers' parties!

Jack Schafer

Merry-Land's Jack Norman is rehearsing a string trio which will open at that spot on August 17. In the line-up are Jack and his guitar, Ray Marshall playing guitar and mandolin, and Richard Celdran, bassist.

RHYTHMS IN BEIGE are zooming. Mercer Ellington and his band have taken over at the Nightingale. It's understood that he's a relative of the Duke . . . Ace Harris, composer of "Tuxedo Junction," and his combo, are pulling devotees of righteous rhythm into the New Bali.

IDENTIFICATION AT LONG LAST. A young Marine, chiefly remarkable for his capacity for steaks and stinger cocktails, visited Olmsted's frequently during the war. Somehow, no one ever found out who he was . . . the other night Leonard Mitchell, director of Olmsted's, dropped in to see "Dishonored Lady" at the Earl. And there was his steak-and-stinger Marine—William Lundigan playing opposite Hedy Le Marr.

Art Taylor, Pittsburgh organist, and said to be a great favorite in the Smoky City, will join pianist George Berg in the Dubonnet Room beginning next Tuesday.

ARE YOU IN THE PINK? If so, you'll be greeted enthusiastically by the Burton Brothers, acrobatic stars at the Lotus. Every night they try to draft a couple of stout fellows into their act. Believe it or belittle it, but many of these impromptu acrobats make amazingly good showings. Especially the young service men . . . Only one who's unhappy about the Burtons is singing emcee Buddy Shaner, who sometimes has to get into the act if customers prove overly bashful. His sacroiliac gets all tangled up with his vertebrae.

MISSES' DEPARTMENT. There's no end to the remarkable hair-dos flaunted by that remarkable young lady, Dona Mason of the King Cole Room. The other night one side of her head was in braids and the other side a mass of curls! . . . Pat Whitney, singer in the Carlton's Congo Room, is proud of her father. He's the inventor of several parachute opening devices . . . The Madrillon's Sue Milroy looks like an exquisite bon-bon in her new pink moire gown. It's strapless, fits as though she'd been poured into it . . . Edith Davies, organist at the Neptune Room, is sweetly girlish in a red-and-white flowered formal with a swirly-whirly skirt. She's giving a neat whirl to the "Peanut Vender," too. Toni, the young'n lovely pianist-accordionist at Michel's, has completed some unusual arrangements of old Persian music. She says she is partial to Persian music because of its placid and gentle motifs.

Some wonderful children have been parented by Sammy Seymour's Skyliners, star attraction on the Starlight Roof. Winkie, small daughter of pianist Nini Baker, played Brahms themes at 2. Mary Jane (Doodle Bug), the 18-month pride of bassist Hugh Barteman, runs to get her daddy a cigar the minute she sees him.

Dignified Old Lady Tells Off Portly Mr. Big

George L. Woolley, of 2714 Quarry rd. nw., is our reporter for this one:

A portly gentleman standing in the aisle leaned heavily against the rail, mashing the lady's fingers—so she gave him a brief lecture on manners.

"Madam," trumpeted the portly one in rebuttal, "do you realize who I am?"

"Oh, fiddlesticks," replied the old lady. "You're probably some Congressman or Senator, but that doesn't make my fingers hurt any less."

The car came to a stop, and permitted the portly one to beat an ignominious retreat with the laughter of the bystanders ringing in his ears.

MEMO TO THE COPS AT NO. 5 PRECINCT

I can tell you how the Peoples Drug Store window came to be broken, but I can't tell you who did it.

We were passing 7th and Pennsylvania ave. se. at about 2 a.m. when my cab driver suddenly wheeled in to the curb. There was a fight in progress.

Tan Shirt went crashing back into the merchandise amid a shower of flying glass.

Within the next ten seconds both fighters and all the spectators vanished into the night.

So that's why I can tell you how it happened, but can not furnish any names and addresses. When the window went, so did I.

STREET SCENE

The big car pulled up on the wrong side of Euclid st. nw. and came to a stop beside a "No Parking" sign. The driver strolled casually into the Dorchester House.

That was at 10:48 a. m. At 10:50 fire engines came charging down Euclid st. and threaded their way around the roadblock.

At 10:57 the fire engines returned along the same route. A passing policeman spotted the double parking violation and automatically reached for his citation book.

YIPPEE

After a rather hectic campaign, Owen C. Holleran was elected commander of the District of Columbia Department of the American Legion last week.

When the victorious candidate and his party retired to a Statler suite to celebrate, some wag borrowed a lipstick and wrote on the dresser mirror:

"Yippee! It's all over but the Holleran."

CHOW LINES

Wage of Success: Limited Budget

Hollywood. — Despite the constant changes in movie production methods and audience preferences, Ernst Lubitsch has maintained his position among the foremost creative men in the industry. He is thoroughly familiar with every angle of the business. Two writers once wanted to sell him a story for which they had written an exciting beginning, an intriguing middle, but without an ending. They just didn't know how to end it. They met Lubitsch and started to tell him the story. They told him the beginning, then the middle, and just as they reached the point at which they were stumped, Lubitsch was called away to an executive conference. When he returned hours later Lubitsch said, "I'm sorry I kept you so long. Now, as I understand it, your story is about—" Then he recited the story complete with an ending which made the sale possible.

Lubitsch received his early film training in Germany, where he had an independent movie company. He had a press agent named Kurtz. The chairman of the board was a pompous man, who rarely bothered with underlings. One day they were to confer with some bankers about the financing of a film concerning modern European politics. The chairman of the board addressed the bankers and told them the movie story—of Hindu princes and gay romances in ancient Calcutta. The startled Lubitsch saw Kurtz beaming strangely. "Yes, I gave that misinformation to the chairman," Kurtz confessed, "because he always gets my name wrong."

Richard Sale, the novelist and screenwriter, has been anxious to become a director. Herbert Yates, head of Republic, offered him an opportunity. It was to direct a story spurned by other directors, "Spoilers of the North," budgeted for $90,000, and a 12-day schedule. As a reward, Sale was promised a musical tentatively budgeted at $150,000. Sale took the challenge and finished "Spoilers of the North" seven hours under schedule. Last week Yates assembled his directors and told them "Spoilers of the North" was making so much money that from now on $90,000 was the limit budget on all B pictures at Republic—including Sale's musical.

George White, the veteran producer, expects to return to Broadway with a new "Scandals" this winter. White wasn't embittered by the year he spent in jail. "I worked on a farm and I'm in better shape now than I ever was," he said one night.

Martin Gabel, the movie director, and his wife, Arline Francis, were discussing Ingrid Bergman and her family. "Miss Bergman's husband, Dr. Peter Lindstrom, used to be a dentist. Now he's an extremely able brain surgeon," said Miss Francis . . . "That's quite a jump," said Gabel, "from dentist to brain surgeon. How do you suppose that happened?" . . . Miss Francis suggested, "Maybe his drill slipped."

Howard Lindsay, George S. Kaufman and Arthur Kober, permanent members of the Eastern Division of the Hoyle Club, now do their poker playing at the Hollywood branch. These sessions last far into the morning. The record session, years ago, is attested to by Russel Crouse, who once left the game at 6 a. m., went home, slept and came up town for a business appointment. He passed the club's meeting hall, noticed Marc Connelly's car outside and realized that the game was still on. He played then, left for his office, and on his way home in the evening he again saw Connelly's car. Crouse played once more, then left for a dinner appointment, the theater and a supper party. On his way home at 5 a. m., he noticed that Connelly's car was still there. Crouse went up and played and finally knew that the game was over. For by this time Connelly had lost not only his money, but also his car.

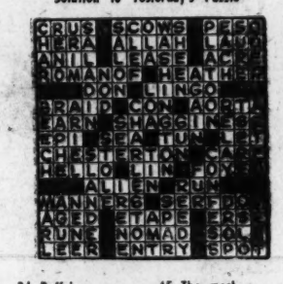
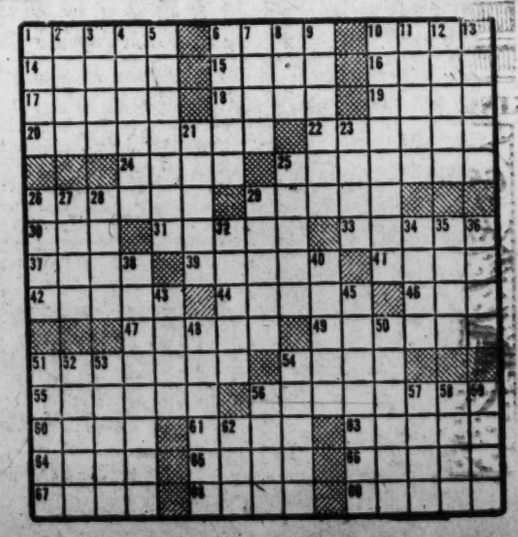
Solution to Yesterday's Puzzle





TERRY AND THE PIRATES

THIS MOB—THEY'RE MY FOLLOWERS... WHAT DO THEY WANT?
OFFHAND, I'D SAY, YOUR SCALP.
THEY THINK YOU'VE HELD OUT A FORTUNE IN GEMS ON THEM, AND I DOUBT THAT THEY WANT TO DISCUSS THE SITUATION CALMLY. START RUNNING! IT'LL BE GOOD FOR BOTH YOUR WAIST LINE AND YOUR NECK LINE.
FOOL! DO YOU THINK YOU CAN UPSET MY PLANS WITH SUCH CHILDISH TRICKS? I SHALL POINT OUT TO THEM THAT AN OILFIELD WOULD SCARCELY HOLD HIDDEN STORES OF GEMS...
GEORGE WUNDER

WAHOO AND STEVE ROPER

I'M BACK, CUPCAKE!—FOR YOUR ANSWER!
DON'T COME IN YET, SONNY!
NOW!
I CAN READ THE ANSWER IN YOUR EYES, KOCHANIE!
YES, DARLIN'...! WE'LL BE MARRIED—JUST AS YOU PLANNED IT!
I WAS SO SURE THAT WOULD BE YOUR ANSWER, I TOLD MONOCLE MOLLY SHE COULD GO AHEAD AND ORDER THE CAKE!
BUT, MADAME! NEVAIR HAVE I MADE SUCH A WEDDING CAKE—AS YOU DESCRIBE!
LISTEN, FRENCHY!—IF YOU GO PRIMA DONNA ON ME I'LL HAVE MY BOYS PULVERIZE THIS PIE FOUNDRY! START BEATIN' UP A BATTER!
BAKERY

HOLD THAT TIGER
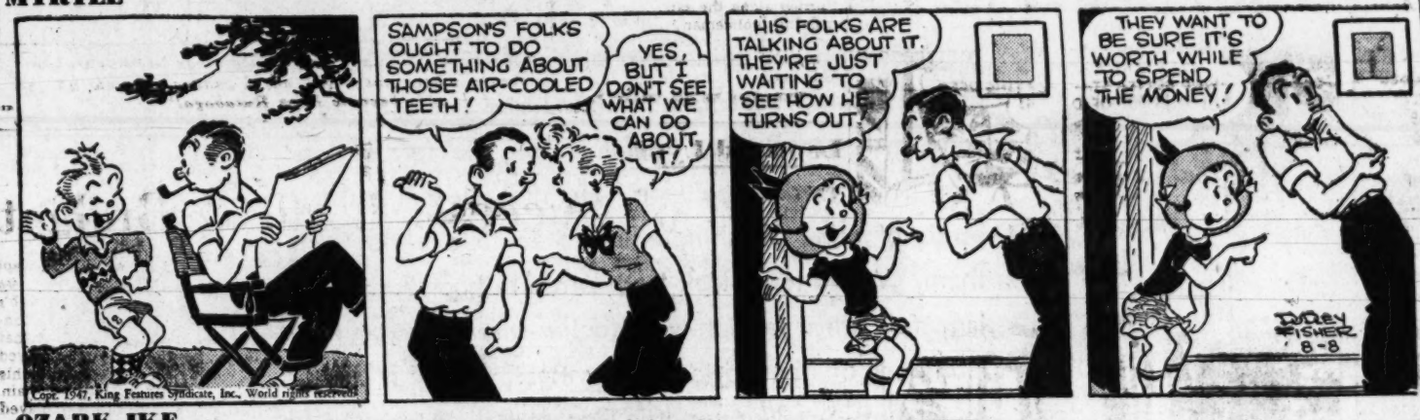
RELAX, ROMEO—I'M NOT THAT TIGER!
SEE WHAT I MEAN? ISN'T HE TERRIFIC?
AT LEAST HE BRINGS 'EM BACK ALIVE
IF YOU ALL WILL PARDON ME I'M GOING TO COLLECT MYSELF—
I'LL GO WITH YOU—GIVE CARTER AND KEN A CHANCE TO TALK OVER BOY STUFF

DONALD DUCK

MYRTLE



SAMPSON'S FOLKS OUGHT TO DO SOMETHING ABOUT THOSE AIR-COOLED TEETH!
YES, BUT I DON'T SEE WHAT WE CAN DO ABOUT IT!
HIS FOLKS ARE TALKING ABOUT IT. THEY'RE JUST WAITING TO SEE HOW HE TURNS OUT.

Bigots

Some people keep themselves concerned . . . With other people's cares . . . When they would be much better off . . . To mind their own affairs . . . They worry over everything . . . Their neighbors do or say . . . And whether everyone is taught . . . To live the proper way . . . They do not want the world to grow . . . And merely get along . . . But they would set up all the rules . . . For what is right and wrong . . . In their opinion they are just . . . As wise as they can be . . . And no one could compare with them . . . Or walk so righteously . . . Their bigoted philosophy . . . Could stand a few repairs . . . And they would be much better off . . . To mind their own affairs.

79 "Portraits" Poems

Look How Much I Saved!

. . . and you should just see the dream house I furnished in The Hecht Co.'s Half-Yearly Showing of Furniture and Homewares

Smart Cookie! She knows how a dollar stretches at The Hecht Co. Didn't she get a magnificently upholstered barrel chair by Chesterfield for just 49.95 in our Half-Yearly Showing of Furniture and Homewares? Didn't she save a pretty penny on a full size famous make mattress with 220 spine-pampering springs . . . as well as a matching boxspring? Didn't she get a glowing solid mahogany-topped Mersman console for far less than it was made to sell for? She did! Just like thousands of other Washingtonians. So take a tip from them. We've four block-long furniture floors crammed jam full with fashion-wise, dollar-wise merchandise. Hundreds of items priced at savings. Plenty of hard-to-get furniture like versatile Conant Ball Modern bedroom and living room pieces. Our Buyers combed the markets from coast-to-coast to bring you these treasures. Manufacturers bent backwards to give us special values. The result . . . our most complete . . . our most brilliant Half-Yearly Showing in years. Watch our daily ads for proof. Browse through our Home-Furnishing floors. And if you don't have ready cash to pay for your dream sofa—don't worry. Just ask about our Liberal Plan of extended payments.
